Governor Smith Tells You.
He Is Against Prohibition.
Our Prosperity Is False.
So Is Coolidge Economy.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928)

SEVENTY MILLIONS on the radio heard Gov. Smith talking plain English which every one should be able to understand. He believes government exists for the people. "An elect class should not be the special object of the government's concern." Richard Rumbold put it nearly 300 years ago, "I never could believe that Providence had sent a few men into the world, ready booted and spurred to ride, and millions ready saddled and bridled to be ridden." They beheaded Rumbold in 1695. Gov. Smith will be more fortunate.

THE Governor's opinion of prohibition—it is plain enough. HE IS AGAINST IT. He would change the Eighteenth Amendment, not kill it entirely. He would let each state import or manufacture alcoholic beverages, but "not for consumption in any public place."

The saloon is and ought to be dead, he says. State's control of alcoholic beverages and their sale, such as exists in Canada, would do away with the 15,000 or more speakeasies that can now be found in one city in this country.

Whatever the law, if Gov. Smith is elected president, he will enforce it until changed. He will "make an honest endeavor to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

GOV. SMITH wants the Democratic party to give all "equal opportunity." He agrees with Napoleon, whose motto was, "Careers open to talent."

GOV. SMITH praises Grover Cleveland for originating "one of the Democratic party's greatest principles, 'Public office is a public trust.'" The Romans said it first, Salus populi suprema lex esto and that's the motto of the state of Missouri now.

Grover Cleveland's "rugged honesty" Gov. Smith contrasts with "the widespread dishonesty that has honeycombed the Republican administration."

THE Governor finds "four million men desirous to work and support their families unable to secure employment," and doesn't think much of alleged Republican prosperity.

And the Republican party really isn't economical. The Governor gives figures to prove it.

President Coolidge, for last year, signed appropriation bills exceeding by $500,000,000 those of the first year of his administration.

Coolidge economy, you are told, is a myth; taxes have not been reduced in volume, although tax rates have been reduced. Last year the government took $383,000,0000 more in income tax than it took in Coolidge's first year. The President would reply "that is because the people are earning more. The Republicans did it."

GOV. SMITH is for tariff protection of American industries and wages where it is needed. He would do it well, not badly, as Republicans do.

PRAISING Woodrow Wilson, Gov. Smith says: "At the end of his administration we enjoyed the friendship and respectful admiration of the people of the world," and we don't today.

Hoover would reply, "Yes, but President Wilson was busy shoveling out United States money, handing it in billions to Europe. No wonder they loved him. We are trying to collect the money. No wonder they hate us."

GOV. SMITH favors the Monroe Doctrine, but thinks Republicans make it a pretext for bullying smaller countries. He would not do that.

As for war, it must be outlawed "by a more substantial endeavor to remove the causes of war, and in this endeavor the Republican administration has signally failed."

"Freedom from entangling alliances is a fixed American policy." Ninety per cent of Americans not engaged in international banking would say amen to that line of the Smith speech.

GOV. SMITH looks upon agriculture as "essentially a public function, affected with a clear and unquestionable public interest. He favors helping the farmers and gives figures to show what has happened to them lately, including a decrease of $20,000,000 in the value of farm land in five years.

More and better roads for transporting farm products, more canals for "commodities of great bulk least profitable to railroads" are advocated, and an all-American route from the Great Lakes to the ocean.

THE Governor would have a waterway to the Gulf through the Mississippi, would take care of floods and think carefully before letting private interests control any more water power. Disclosures as to power trust propaganda impress him.

Gov. Smith would let all states with a just claim share in power generated by the Colorado River. He'd retain government ownership of Muscle Shoals, but let government rent out power to get what it has spent.

GOV. SMITH wants "reasonable contentment," for those who toil and thinks the government should be concerned about "the legitimate interests of labor."

He believes in "collective bargaining" to put labor on a basis of equality with the employer, and says "Labor is not a commodity." He indorses the opinion of Justice Taft, who said: "Government of relations between capital and labor by injunction is an absurdity."

GOV. SMITH wants "legislation for the protection and advancement of working men and

Pirates ..0 1 2 0 0

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 22.—With their pennant hopes hanging in the balance, the Pittsburgh Pirates started their four-game series with the New York Giants by sending Carmen Hill to the mound in the first battle of a double-header here this afternoon.

Five games out of first place, the Pirates' pennant hopes rest on the outcome of the present series with the Giants.

The Giants sent their star pitcher against the Bucs in the first battle today, Larry Benton opposing Hill on the mound. The double-header drew a crowd of 25,000.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

NEW YORK—Welsh doubled to right. O'Doul fouled to Hemsely. Ott fouled to Traynor. Adams threw out Lindstrom. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Adams walked. L. Waner fouled to Lindstrom. P. Waner fanned. Adams went out stealing, Hogan to Jackson.

SECOND INNING

NEW YORK—Terry fanned. Jackson fanned. Hogan flied to Bartell.

PITTSBURGH—Grantham struck out. Traynor walked. Brickell lined to O'Doul. Bartell singled to right and continued to second on Ott's fumble. Traynor took advantage of a close play at second to score. Hemsley flied to Terry. One run, one hit, one error.

THIRD INNING

NEW YORK—Cohen doubled to left. Benton sacrificed, Traynor to Grantham. Welsh singled to center, Cohen scoring. O'Doul flied to Brickell. Ott flied to P. Waner. One run, two hits.

PITTSBURGH—Hill flied to Ott. Adams walked. L. Waner flied to O'Doul. P. Waner doubled to right, Adams stopping at third. Grantham tripled to left, scoring Adams and P. Waner. Trynor lined to Ott. Two runs, two hits.

FOURTH INNING

NEW YORK—Lindstrom doubled to left. Terry lined to Adams. Jackson flied to Bartell. Traynor threw out Hogan. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Brickell grounded to Terry. Bartell singled to center. Hemsley singled to right, Bartell stopping at second. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Hill lined to Terry. Adams flied to O'Doul. Two hits.

FIFTH INNING

NEW YORK—Cohen flied to P. Waner. Benton flied to L. Waner. Bartell threw out Welsh.

PITTSBURGH—Cohen threw out L. Waner. P. Waner lined to O'Doul. Cohen threw out Grantham.

DEATH'S SCORECARD

Auto traffic took 50 lives in Allegheny county in a 49-day period ending August 16. These are the figures that confront motorists on the Traffic Fatality Memorial at Grant street, Sixth avenue and Bigelow boulevard. The percentage of monthly deaths this year is 13½, compared to 14 2-3 for last year. Since the monument was erected on June 27, the daily average is slightly more than one. The last figures for the period ending August 16 were posted on August 20.

"Dry" Sewickley Seems Sold On Smith

Sewickleyites are so dry "they have to put on their postage stamps with pins." Saloons were barred from the borough for many years before prohibition went into effect. Moreover, Sewickley has always been a rock-ribbed, dyed-in-the-wool Republican community. Nevertheless, a news dealer who laid in a supply of Democratic and Republican lapel emblems has sold all the Smith buttons and reports a demand for many more, while his stock of Hoover buttons is almost intact.

TRAGEDY IN HOME FOLLOWS QUARREL

Charles Kopp, 50, shot and instantly killed his wife, then probably mortally wounded himself, police say, following a quarrel this afternoon in their home, 537 Stokes avenue, North Braddock.

Neighbors attracted by the shots called Motorcycle Patrolman William Glenn, of the North Braddock police force, who found Mrs. Kopp lying dead in the front room with a bullet wound behind the left ear and Kopp in the kitchen with a wound above the right temple. Kopp was taken to the Braddock General Hospital. His condition was reported as critical.

Appearances indicated that Kopp shot his wife from behind, then went into the kitchen, where he turned the gun on himself. After firing a bullet into his head, he walked to the sink, attempted to stop the flow of blood and then collapsed.

Cripples Battling To Pick Champ Flee Police

The championship of Frankstown avenue is still in doubt.

Two cripples, who police report had "been itchin' for a fight" for weeks, started to settle the question at South Wheeler and Batavia streets, shortly after noon today. Residents of the neighborhood telephoned a riot call to the Frankstown Avenue Police Station.

Combatants and their backers saw the auto patrol while yet far away and scattered. There was no arrest. Residents said both boys had crippled feet.

REPUBLICANS JOIN MD. AL SMITH CLUB

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 23.—The Allegany County Al Smith Club, the first in Maryland, was organized at City Hall last night with 450 members, a number of whom are Republicans, who declared for Smith because of his attitude on the Eighteenth Amendment and because of religious tolerance views.

A membership of 1,000 is sought, in this banner Republican county of the state. W. Woodin Hanley was elected president.

"Italy is modeling after America in striving for efficiency and developing national pride," the Countess Irene di Robilant, who drove an ambulance in the World War, said after she had reached Pittsburgh today. An appointee of the George Westinghouse Lectureship of the Italy America Society, she is here gathering material for lectures at Milan and Rome on American history and economic development. VOTE HERE SHIFTS

The receipt of the same number of straw votes yesterday for Hoover and Smith, checked the lead which it seemed the Republican candidate was about to get in The Sun-Telegraph straw vote canvass. To date the vote stands: Hoover, 2,190; Smith, 2,229.

The returns in The Sun-Telegraph poll of Pennsylvania showed some surprises. Whereas Smith has been leading in the cities and Hoover in the suburban and rural districts, the vote yesterday reversed conditions. Smith did better than Hoover in the country and Hoover ran ahead in the city canvass.

What Straw Vote Means—Page 8

While Smith's lead comes from the vote of the men, Hoover leads with the returns form the women. This division is observed both in the city and county districts.

Thousands of return postal card ballots have been mailed to registered voters in Philadelphia county and more will go daily until the list from the Quaker City is exhausted.

At the same time thousands of cards were sent out to voters in the western and central counties where the sentiment of the agricultural class and people in the smaller industrial districts will be expressed.

The Sun-Telegraph's canvass is being conducted in Pennsylvania at the same time that a national poll is being carried on in other states by the Hearst newspapers so that an acurate forecast may be obtained of the attitude of the people throughout all sections of the country in their choice for President in the election of 1928.

SMITH'S HOPES PUT ON WETS

By RAYMOND I. BORST.
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Having definitely thrust prohibition to the front in the presidential campaign by demanding a drastic change in the eighteenth amendment as well as modification of the Volstead law, Gov. Smith today anxiously awaited the country's reaction to his acceptance speech.

That Smith, after careful thought, has decided to win or lose the presidency on the sole issue of prohibition, with a smattering of farm relief, was the opinion of virtually every Democratic leader who came here for the notification ceremony.

READ GOV. SMITH'S SPEECH ON PAGE 8

TELEGRAMS POUR IN

The first batch of messages which poured into the executive mansion last night and early today congratulated the Governor on his stand on prohibition. These messages, his advisers said, came from voters in virtually every state in the union.

Confident that the South will remain Democratic despite his wet stand, Smith is said to feel that by taking a decided stand against prohibition he has a good chance of carrying a sufficient number of the normally Republican Eastern states to insure his election.

The Governor's plan for a fundamental change in the prohibition amendment would permit each state, if a majority of the voters approved, to sell, manufacture or import alcoholic beverages. He would, however, limit the sale of such beverages to the state itself, with the provision that they could not be consumed in public places.

In his campaign speeches Smith will stress the point that under this proposal, states which are really dry could continue to have prohibition while wet states could have liquor for private consumption.

The Governor long has taken the attitude that the Volstead law

FIND AUTO THOUGHT DAPPER'S

A Nash sedan, stripped of license plates, and declared to tally with the description of the car in which the slayer of Dr. Harry R. Dapper, of Carrick, escaped, is reported ditched in a cornfield at Santiago, near Imperial.

Charles Blatt, 17, of 81 Roberts street, telephoned this word to Center Avenue Police Station this afternoon. Within a few minutes the lad was being driven to the scene in an automobile carrying four county detectives who had sought in vain to recover the car since the murder Monday night.

The Blatt youth told police he was driving home from Steubenville O. with a younger brother late yesterday. About 7:30 o'clock, he said, a short time before dusk, he noticed a sedan in a cornfield near Santiago, about 500 yards from the roadside.

"I am sure it was a Nash sedan" the youth told police, "but

Blimp Not Flying Here

International News Service.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 23.—Plans to fly the naval dirigible Los Angeles over Uniontown, Pa., and Western Pennsylvania today were canceled because of bad weather.

"Reports from the Weather Bureal in Washington indicate that it would not be advisable to leave the hangar," it was said for Commander Rosendahl, chief of the huge airship.

LEGION MEET OPENS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 23.—Accidents leading up to the opening of the tenth annual state convention of the American Legion resulted in the injury of several and illness of many others. Three are in the Uniontown Hospital and 15 others were given emergency treatment by Dr. S. A. Baltz.

Those in the hospital are Mrs. Mazie Thorne, 40, of Uniontown, accidentally shot in the left side; Tom Fritz and William Farner, local photographers, burned on the hands and face.

Mrs. Thorne had just loaned a Legionnaire $5 on a revolver and had gone to her home to put it away when the weapon was discharged.

Fritz and Farner were injured at 1 o'clock this morning when taking a flashlight picture of the York Drum and Bugle Corps dressed in paja-

Will Rogers' Kindness Lassoes Girl's Heart

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 23.

ANOTHER feminine heart is at Will Rogers' feet. It belongs to Dorothy Stone and it is there because of the famous paragrapher's offer to replace her father, Fred Stone, in the musical comedy which will be her vehicle to Broadway stardom this fall. Stone was injured in an airplane crash recently.

DOROTHY STONE

Dorothy says of Will's offer:

"No man in all this world could better replace daddy in our new show than Will Rogers. His unselfish offer to give up his plans for the coming season and to sacrifice the income it would bring him to fill the vacancy caused by daddy's accident is a wonderful thing. Will Rogers has fastened his lariat around my heart."

$25,000 HEART BALM ASKED AFTER WIFE BARES TRYSTS

William Carson, prominent in West View, is the defendant in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court today, in which John Russell, also of West View, asks $25,000 heart balm for alienation of his wife's affections.

The plaintiff introduces a confession alleged to have been written by his wife, Mrs. Betty Russell, in which she tells of her automobile rides, roadhouse visits and other trysts with Carson. Mrs. Russell left her husband May 3, the plaintiff alleges.

In a letter written to her husband, which is introduced in the papers in the suit, Mrs. Russell mentions clothes and two rings alleged to have been given her by Carson. The letter and the rings have been turned over by the plaintiff's counsel as exhibits at the trial.

The letter follows:

"My dear husband—I am going to write down here a confession which I have been trying to make for the last two months. I have been nearly crazy and heart-broken. You have been wondering why I have been acting so queerly, and why I've had those terrible headaches—my conscience—oh, it is terrible. So when you read this I'll be far away, and if I can't forget all I do not know what I will do.

"Well, you know Mr. William Carson, our neighbor across the way—the man that owns all the land up at Laurel gardens—well, he is the man that ruined me—he is to blame for breaking up our little cottage we have been so happy in. To think we had a little home of our own, and my flowers will soon be in bloom, and my two dear boys—God bless them and take good care of them. I do not know what will become of me.

"Mr. Carson and I became intimate friends two months ago. You know he made me star of his minstrel show and the first time he took me for a ride he took me to a place out in Wexford. We had turkey dinner and played the slot machine and he won and he gave me a hundred dollars. The first thing I knew it was 2 o'clock a. m., and I said we must go home now. He said 'you are miles and miles from home' and if I wanted to go home I would have to walk. I did not want to stay and I cried.

"I know you will never forgive me and I don't blame you. Never tell my boys or my mother. Just say I went away for my health and don't show anybody this letter for I am suffering enough. I have sinned to my sorrow and I can't face anybody on the hill after what happened. He bought me swell clothes.

"You were wondering where I got those clothes. Here are the two rings he bought me. You can do with them whatever you want. He bought them for me in Youngstown. We went there for a drive and stayed at the Todd House. You can sell the rings to help you pay your debts.

"You know what he was going to do one night—he was going to run over you. He said to me 'I met your better half down the road.' You were walking down the road in front of his car and he told me, 'Oh, if it wasn't for the law I'd run over him,' meaning you, and he threatened me, too. That's another reason why I am going away. I'm afraid of him. He said if I double-crossed him he'd kill me.

"Oh, I can't write any more as I will lose my mind if I do not get away. Good-bye and God bless you and my boys. Don't bother looking for me as I can never live with you since I met him. I cared for you but ever since I met him, John, everything is different.

"Be good to my boys.

"BETTY."

RACKETEERS PLOT TO BEAT INDICTMENTS

Neighborhood Representatives -:- Argue for Town Hall Site -:- Before County Commissioners

"WE WANT IT!"

Neighborhood delegations appeared before the county commissioners yesterday and presented their arguments for the location of the Town Hall. Attorney Charles P. Lang (center), urged the commissioners to choose the North Side.

THE JUDGES!

Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and Charles C. McGovern (seated side by side!) listen attentively to the pleas before they decide where shall be built the $6,000,000 auditorium.

A WOMAN SPEAKS

"Build it in the Golden Triangle," Bertha M. Bickel, the only woman to take an active part in the forum, urged Commissioner E. V. Babcock. More than 100 representatives attended the meeting.

OAKLAND'S REQUEST

"The entrance to Schenley Park would make an ideal site," suggests F. F. Nicola (extreme left), but—"the Duquesne Garden site appears the proper place to me," counters Harold M. Irons, assistant city solicitor. When the session adjourned, the commissioners were undecided.

RING PLOTS TO AVOID JAIL

Becoming convinced that the government has stronger cases against them than they had suspected, and fearing that they may be found guilty if they stand trial, many of the 166 alleged racketeers under indictment for their part in the rum ring conspiracies, are preparing to attack the legality of the indictments returned last June after a five-week grand jury investigation.

Prominent attorneys will be asked to examine the indictments in hope of discovering flaws that will result in their being quashed.

Members of the rum ring were given a scare Monday when Alfred W. Forney, slot machine concessionist, was given a six-month jail sentence and a $3,000 fine after pleading guilty to the charges against him.

The severe sentence was a shock to Forney and a surprise to others under indictment. Fearing a similar sentence if placed on trial and found guilty they have resorted to the attack upon the indictments.

Such an attack has been anticipated, government officials stated, and to meet such opposition the staff of the United States Attorney's office has been checking up the indictments to make sure that all is well. High court opinions have been given regarding the indictments during the last two months and government attorneys believe they are prepared to meet such an attack without danger to their cases.

GOV. FISHER NAMES JUSTICES OF PEACE

HARRISBURG, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Appointment of justices of the peace was announced by Gov. Fisher as follows: The Rev. W. A. Smith, of Bunola, Forward township, Allegheny county; Harry H. Curtin for Boggs township, Centre county; A. R. Day for Jackson township, Mercer county; John E. Burton for Burnham, Mifflin county, and Sanford H. Lewis for Coudersport, Potter county.

SLAIN DOCTOR'S CAR IS BELIEVED FOUND

I couldn't make out the color. It had no license plates."

Pennsylvania's state highway patrol throughout Western Pennsylvania was enlisted today in the search for Dr. Dapper's green Nash sedan, missing since Monday night when the Carrick physician was lured to his death near Lebanon Church, Mifflin township.

Capt. D. N. Miller, commandant of the Greensburg barracks, today broadcast to 27 sub-stations throughout Western Pennsylvania a description of the car. With every Allegheny county detective hunting the missing automobile, recovery of which Acting Chief Harry D. Cochran believes may solve the baffling murder mystery, the hunt for the slayer proceeded today on a trail already 60 hours old.

Recovery of the car is deemed by the county detective head essential as the first step toward solving the mysterious murder of the physician, lured from his office on the pretext that he was needed at the bedside of a dying woman, then shot down at a lonely spot in Mifflin township. At the same time the doctor's father, Henry A. Dapper, was beaten by the slayer, who escaped in the physician's car, an olive green Nash sedan, bearing Pennsylvania license plates 22-037.

Detectives and state police today began a systematic search of public and private garages along the Monongahela Valley, in the hope of uncovering the missing automobile.

SEARCH FAILS

Every side road, nook and corner where it would be possible for the slayer to have abandoned the physician's machine was searched diligently yesterday without avail. The detectives visited the scene of the crime several times and each time followed a different route back through the hills into Washington county, trying to piece together a possible means of escape for the slayer who so completely vanished with his victim's automobile.

Still without a tangible clue detectives are more than ever of the opinion that the killing was the work of a hired assassin.

Numerous theories have been suggested and what appeared to be good tips have been run down only to be found false.

GOV. WATCHES REACTION

should be modified so that each state would be permitted to fix its own standard of the alcoholic content of intoxicating beverages, but his speech in formally accepting the presidential nomination, marked the first time he ever has declared for a change in the Eighteenth Amendment.

In the campaign the Governor will take particular pains to point out for the benefit of the South and other dry states that his proposal would preserve for such states the benefit of a National law that would continue to make interstate shipment of liquor a crime. He also will stress the point that these dry states could continue to have Federal enforcement of prohibition within their own borders.

Gov. Smith and members of his family were to leave for New York today. Tomorrow the Governor will go to Spring Lake, N. J., and on Saturday he will review the New Jersey National Guard troops at the state camp at Sea Girt.

The Governor was keenly disappointed when the notification ceremony had to be shifted from the capitol steps to the Assembly chamber because of rain. Less than 2,000 persons saw the Governor when he formally launched his campaign for the White House, but 70,000,000 could have listened in on the radio.

After the formal ceremony in the Assembly chamber, the Governor walked down the rain-soaked capitol steps to tell the crowd how sorry he was that the notification had to be held indoors.

women, proper care of maternity, infancy and childhood, and safeguarding of public health."

True equality of women is advocated in "all avenues of opportunity for which they can qualify."

Veterans in distress should be looked after by government as promptly as they attend to their war duties.

GOV. SMITH favors strict immigration, but objects to "principles of restriction designed to discriminate against certain nationalities."

HIS speech covers the ground. The country has heard from both candidates, and the fight is on. It will probably be mild and gentle until the end of September, or later. Then you'll see a battle.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure over the Atlantic Coast states and over the northern Rocky Mountain states is separated by a low pressure area in the form of a trough which extends from north of Lake Superior southwestward over the upper Mississippi Valley states and the Plains States to New Mexico and Arizona. The lowest barometer is 29.64 inches at Wichita, Kan.

Due to the large low pressure area there is considerable cloudiness this morning throughout the interior of the country, and showers and thunderstorms occurred nearly everywhere over the upper Mississippi Valley states, the Central Plains States and most of the Rocky Mountain states.

The northwestern high pressure area is producing the first frost and freezing weather of the season. Frost was general in northern Montana and North Dakota, and over the border in Canada, and at Swift Current, Saskatchewan the temperature dropped to 28 degrees.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or falling slightly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.9 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.8; and Dam No. 6, 7.7 feet. The dams are up.

Call Woman Justice on Carpet

Learning today that Frank Barrett, of Brownsville avenue, had languished in jail for a month because of the alleged negligence of Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley, Judge Elder W. Marshall directed that Mrs. Morgan be brought into court for instructions, as he put it, as to "other people's time."

Barrett and Charles Fenwick were arrested by state police in Beaver county a month ago for an alleged violation of the automobile laws. The case was dismissed, but police found the car Fenwick was driving was not his. They made information against the two men before Justice Morgan. Mrs. Morgan held the two for court, but neglected, it is charged, to file the proper return in the case of Barrett.

Fenwick was paroled some time ago when the owner of the car testified he was satisfied the accused man had not intended to steal the machine, but had merely borrowed it without permission.

Nothing was done in Barrett's case until today, when Attorney M. Barney Cohen had him brought into court and explained the circumstances of his imprisonment

Judge Marshall discharged Barrett on his own recognizance, and directed Special Assistant District Attorney Viers D. Edwards to have Justice Morgan haled before him next Thursday for a "lecture" on her duties.

INJURED PILOT NOT IMPROVED

Pilot William Kennedy, 23, of Rodgers Field, who suffered a fractured skull early yesterday when he fell to a courtyard in the rear of the Adrian apartments, 4629 Bayard street, was reported still in a critical condition at Homeopathic Hospital today.

Kennedy had attended a party at the apartment of a friend and becoming ill had stood near an open window on the second floor. He is believed to have become dizzy and to have fallen through the open window.

Muff City Hoover Salute

Failure of the Republican National Committee to notify County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong of the coming of Herbert Hoover, presidential candidate, into this city, has precluded the usual Rah Rah welcome being extended the party's candidate here tomorrow, when he tarries for about 15 minutes on his way to Washington.

When the county chairman learned that Hoover would arrive here tomorrow noon, it was too late to arrange for a big demonstration. However, party leaders will be on hand to greet the candidate.

Anticipating the public's interest in Hoover's passage here, the officials of the Pennsylvania railroad are arranging to handle crowds expected to fill the local stations and the route of the right of way.

In Greensburg, Congressman Adam Wynant and other Westmoreland county Republican leaders have arranged for Hoover to make a train platform speech.

The special train is scheduled to arrive from Chicago at 11:26, Pittsburgh daylight savings time, according to arrangements announced today. He will remain at the Pennsylvania station 15 minutes while crews are being changed. Railroad officials stated that the revised schedule for the train possibly would provide for the train's arrival here a few minutes earlier or a little later than 11:26.

100 PROPOSE SITES FOR TOWN HALL

Definite steps toward the selection of a site for the proposed $6,000,000 Town Hall are being taken.

More than a hundred representatives of trade boards, chambers of commerce, and other civic organizations, responded yesterday to the invitation of county commissioners to meet with them and to make suggestions concerning the proposed auditorium. Many others interested in the county's Town Hall participated in the open forum.

Twelve sites were suggested by those who attended the forum. Six of them on the North Side, three downtown and two in Oakland. Two score other sites were suggested by residents of the city and county in letters to the commissioners.

SURVEYS TO BEGIN

Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board of county commissioners, at the close of the meeting announced that data on the proposed sites would be turned over to the County Planning commission. A survey will be made of all the sites. The surveys will start immediately. County Commissioners E. V. Babcock and Charles C. McGovern sat with Chairman Armstrong. The commissioners are anxious to start erecting the Town Hall as quickly as possible.

The sites suggested yesterday follow:

DOWNTOWN.

Grant street, Second avenue, Pennsylvania Railroad and Baltimore and Ohio properties, suggested by Albert E. Emmons.

Forbes street, Boulevard of Allies and Liberty Bridge over Fourth avenue railroad yards, suggested by D. E. Bown.

Liberty avenue, Grant street, Seventh avenue and William Penn way, suggested by Bertha M. Bickel.

OAKLAND.

Any location in Oakland district, preferably near the entrance to Schenley park, was suggested by F. F. Nicola and W. G. Negley.

Duquesne Garden site and adjoining properties, suggested by Assistant City Solicitor Harold M. Irons.

NORTH SIDE.

Monument Hill, Old City Hall to adjoin Ober Park, West Ohio street and old Downtown-Allegheny Park, East Ohio street, Union avenue and Cedar avenue, suggested by Attorney Charles P. Leng.

Presbyterian Hospital property and adjoining property, Sherman avenue and Montgomery avenue and a site in Montgomery avenue and Union avenue, suggested by C. L. Enfield.

Allegheny River at north end of Ninth Street Bridge to a depth of 400 feet.

PROPOSE TRIANGLE

North Side boosters vied with those of Oakland in selling their ideas to the commissioners. Those who are of the opinion that the auditorium should be erected in the Triangle also were active.

F. F. Nicola, speaking in behalf of Oakland, told commissioners that the Oakland district offered the best advantages for the auditorium.

"The enrollment of the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech is approximately 20,000 men and women whose education and appreciation of our city would be very much assisted by the Town Hall's musical, cultural and social advantages, as well as the mechanical and decorative art exhibitions that will prevail throughout the greater part of each year." Mr. Nicola said.

URGES ACTION

Mr. Nicola said no location should be considered which does not give immediate possesion. "We should be in position within a year not only to give the citizens of this county what they voted for, but to be put on at least an equal footing with other cities that have simiIiar undertakings."

The erection of a building in the vicinity of Schenley park, Mr. Nicola said would be a permanent contribution to the ideals of Allegheny county, by its citsens and dedicated to recreation, social progress and industrial achievements.

Referring to his selection as the "center for the poor man," Mr. Brown said that the site could be reached from any section of the city or county for one street car fare, In urging the selection of Duquesne Garder site, Attorney Irons said it was the garden spot of the city.

Location is vitally important," said the attorney. "Like individuals are known by the company they keep, the Town Hall will also be known by the location it has."

RADIO SIGNALS BELIEVED HASSELL'S

BULLETIN.

International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen tonight stated that the airplane Greater Rockford, in which Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer attempted a flight from Cochrane, Ont., to Mount Evans, Greenland, was seen at 10:30 a. m. on Sunday at Fiskenaesset, in the southern part of Greenland.

The sheriff of South Greenland reported to the Danish government that the airplane appeared from the north-northwest, turned slowly eastward, and disappeared in the sky. The crew were seen to be using binoculars as they passed over Fiskenaesset.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Faint radio signals received in Chicago last night by two amateur operators today gave renewed hope that Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, missing Rockford-to-Stockholm fliers, still are alive.

The signals were received by Dr. Charles E. Sceleth and Irving Strauss on a wave length other than that on which the fliers' plane, Greater Rockford, was equipped to broadcast. This fact was partly explained, however, by a theory that the wave length with the antenne trailing from the plane in flight might be changed when the wires were strung on the ground.

The signals, sent repeatedly, consisted of a series of five "R's," followed by a series of five "D's." After 10 sets of them had been completed two "A's" came in rapid succession.

The letter "R" designated the last position which the plane broadcast before messages from it were severed last Sunday morning. According to a prearranged code, "R" indicated the plane was near Cape Gridley in its flight from Cochrane, Ont., to Mt. Evans, Greenland.

The "D" appeared meaningless, unless Cramer, who is inexperienced at the radio, was trying to message the plane was down. The "A" had no meaning for the receivers. The signals, operators said, came clearly.

By COM. DONALD B. M'MILLAN,
Arctic Explorer.

NAIN, Labrador, Aug. 23.—(By Radio to the Associated Press.)—A continued search for Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm fliers, is being made by the cruiser Marion along the Labrador coast.

The only other ship now in the immediate vicinity is the Hudson Bay Company's Bay Kain. Others, however, are reported en route from various adjacent harbors and countries.

If the Sweden-bound fliers are fortunate enough to be on land, they may find Eskimos who are scattered along the entire coast catching codfish. On the other hand, if Hassell and Cramer came down on water, their safety is doubtful unless they had a rubber boat and a map of the location of Moravion station.

We of the Rawson-Field Museum expedition expect to return South in a few days, with fair weather, and probably will dock at Wiscasset, Me.

We never have heard the letter "R" from the Greater Rockford's radio, although we have been in frequent touch with Prof. W. H. Hobbs' station at Mt. Evans, Greenland, the base of the Greater Rockford's scheduled second trip. (The letter "R" was the last signal heard from the fliers last Sunday morning, and designated them as near Cape Chidley).

HOOVER GETS FARMERS' VIEWS IN MIDWEST

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Another round of conferences with farm leaders today closes Herbert Hoover's three-day visit to the great Mid-Western grain country.

Aided by his personal contact with men who profess to interpret the viewpoint of the wheat, corn and other grain growers, the Republican presidential candidate leaves late today for Washington. There, on Saturday, in newly established headquarters he will take personal charge of his campaign.

Both in his public and private talks here Hoover has emphasized this belief that in seeking to relieve the agricultral industry, each of the dozen or more component parts must be treated separately. He has likewise stated his own purpose to have the Federal Farm Board he has proposed, approach the problem from that basis.

TO STUDY ALL ANGLES

Hoover has reiterated his statement in his notification speech that the board should have power to deal with all phases in the situation, present and future, and that it also should have such detailed information as could be obtained only in frequent conferences with leaders in each industry.

Between the time of exchanging views with farm leaders, the Republican candidate has received varied reports as to the outlook in the several grain growing states. He has been heartened by information from Kansas and Iowa, but a note of pessimism has run through that from the Northwestern states. Producers in that section who just now are beginning to market their wheat crop, are faced with sharply declining prices and political leaders say this unquestionably has had an effect. However, they have expressed to the nominee their belief that these states will be found in the Republican column in November.

NYE GETS IN LINE

Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, a Republican Independent, who has advocated the equalization fee principle, defintely discarded by Hoover, announced last night that he would "no longer hesitate" to support the Hoover candidacy. He said he had been convinced at a conference with the party standard bearer that he was determined to bring to the solution of the agricultural problem the same force and energy that had enabled him to solve "many great and perplexing business problems following the war."

Beside the farm leaders, Hoover has conferred with a number of Senators and Representatives from several border as well as Western states. All of them made encouraging reports, especially Senators Pine, of Olkahoma, and Sackett, of Kentucky.

This journey across the continent from his California home has proven a strenuous one for Hoover, and the effects of numerous speeches and endless conferences, day and night, are beginning to show their effects.

HE DODGES TRAIN BUT CRASHES INTO CULVERT

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—R. A. Davidson, of Crucible, made a hair-line decision and landed in the Brownsville Hospital. Choosing the lesser of two perils, he swerved his automobile to avoid a head-on collision with a train and ran parallel with the tracks, to strike a culvert. He was thrown away from the rails. His automobile turned over against the train and was demolished.

The theft occurred last winter.

SUIT IS FILED AS ATTORNEY DIES

What is probably the last document prepared by the late William L. Jacob, assistant county solicitor, who died unexpectedly last Saturday, was filed yesterday in Common Pleas Court in behalf of W. J. Livingston, who asks $25,000 damages for personal injuries from the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Livingston claims to have received a compound fracture of the left leg, March 6, 1927, by falling on a defective sidewalk just as he had crossed the Westmar Street Bridge, on the North Side.

The suit was filed without Jacob's signature, although signed by the plaintiff.

KENNYWOOD READY FOR VETS' PICNIC

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED ON SATURDAY

Preparations are nearing completion for the Annual Veteran's picnic to be held by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph at Kennywood Park Saturday afternoon. A record turnout is expected from all Pittsburgh veteran organizations.

Wounded veterans now in the Marine Hospital will be provided transportation to and from the picnic grounds. All Civil War veterans who desire transportation also will be taken care of, if they congregate at the Marine Hospital Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

Committees appointed by each veteran organization are active in stimulating interest among their members. Veterans are encouraged to bring their families with them to help make this a real outing.

All a veteran need to do to gain admission is to show some means of identification such as an organization button, discharge papers, or wear his uniform. He will then receive a string of tickets for Kennywood Park amusements.

Wounded veterans now in Pittsburgh hospitals and Civil War veterans will be the special guests of the Sun-Telegraph at a Beef Steak dinner at Kennywood Park Saturday evening. This dinner is being prepared through the co-operation of Mr. Wenzel of Kennywood Park.

PGH. METROPOLITAN PLAN STUDIED BY AUSTRALIANS

The proposed Pittsburgh Metropolitan Plan, to be voted on as a constitutional amendment, November 6, is being studied as a means of solving municipal district problems by Sidney, Australia, 10,000 miles away, it was disclosed today.

A letter received at the office of the Metropolitan Plan Commission, Old City Hall, from Sir John Sulman, revealed that the Australian city was making a close study of the Pittsburgh plan, with a view to applying it to problems of the Sidney district. Among cities on the American continent considering the plan are Cleveland, Montreal and Newark, N. J.

In large and growing communities all over the world, it is pointed out, there is an earnest search for a plan of government which will permit the separate communities in metropolitan areas to join one another in dealing with their common problems, such as public health, sewage disposal, drainage, main highways and rapid transit, without destroying the independence of the underlying units and their control over purely local affairs.

It is the same in Australia as in Europe or America and the experts in municipal government all over the world have had their attention attracted to the plan now pending for a federated city in Allegheny county because the federal principle which it embodies allows the setting-up of an efficient metropolitan government without impairing the home rule of the affected communities in their local affairs.

Sir John Sulman's letter, addressed to Prof. Thomas H. Reed, Metropolitan Plan Commission's consultant, conveys thanks for information in regard to the Pittsburgh metropolitan plan which was sent to him in May. The letter adds that the Pittsburgh plan awakened great interest and that there is promise that legislation embodying a federated plan of government for a metropolitan city will be considered at the next session of Parliament.

HURT IN MINE, MAN DIES

Injured Monday in a mine accident, Thomas Furlong, 54, returned to work in the Vesta mine at Vestaburg Tuesday. Yesterday he was found in a semi-conscious condition in the mine and removed to South Side Hospital, where he died last night. Heart disease was given as the cause of death in a report to the coroner, but an investigation has been ordered to determine if the injury suffered on Monday contributed to his death.

RATTLESNAKE BITES WOMAN BERRY PICKER

RIDGWAY, Pa., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Reed Covel, 28, was bitten by a rattlesnake while picking blackberries near her home at the Milliron farm, about five miles from Hallton, Elk county. She was taken to the Kane Hospital, where she is reported to be in a serious condition.

This Roast Will Please The Family —And Your Pocketbook
Round Roast of Beef, lb. 37c

This is an economy roast from a price standpoint, and from a value standpoint. It is a solid piece of lean meat with only a small round bone. Worthy of any table!

Try These Vine-Ripened Melons
Mammoth Honeydews,---ea. 43c
Sunshine ripened these while they were still on the vine. Luscious, honey-sweet fruit with a flavor most delicious. Not at all to be confused with ordinary melons. So large only six may be crowded into a crate.

Newly Picked Peaches In This
Delicious Pie ea. 38c
Luscious Elberta Peaches, rosy with the bloom of ripeness, combined with tender McCann pie crust—the kind that crumbles under your fork—into this delectable dessert.

You Save At Least 37c
On Supreme Coffee at 3 lbs. $1.43
"Blind" comparisons in the cup between "Supreme" and coffees that sell for 60c a pound prove "Supreme" equal to any and superior to many. "Supreme," in addition to "grading" in the 60c class, has the advantage of fresh roasting.

N. Y. State Sharp Cheese, lb. 48c
Newly made cheddars, after their plunge into hot parafine, are stored away for nearly a year while the cheese develops snap. The cheddars are turneed, "petted and pampered" under just the right conditions until the flavor reaches the right degree of perfection.

Young Roasting Chickens, lb. 48c
Tender, fed-for-the-table chickens, the kind that have built McCann's reputation for quality poultry. Surely a tempting dinner for Sunday.

"Perfect" Butter
lb. 55c
In "Perfect" you purchase the assurance of satisfaction proven by a 99-98/100 performance record—only eleven complaints out of 72 tons sold. Facts like these interest new users. "Perfect's" sweet, creamy flavor and unusual keeping qualities make these new customers regular users.

"Shellwhite"
Fresh Eggs, doz. 55c
We know the exceptional quality of "Shellwhites" and we want you to know it. Buy a dozen and if they don't represent the cleanest, nicest eggs you could expect, if they dissatisfy you in any way, we'll refund your money.

The King of Fish!
Fresh Halibut Steak
lb. 38c
Any one who likes fish will enjoy Halibut. At McCann's it is FRESH Halibut. No frozen fish ever reaches our store. Large steaks with no waste whatever. Only one easily removed center bone.

Old-Fashioned
Tomato Preserves
3 jars $1
A delicious combination of sound ripe tomatoes and sugar with the tart flavor of lemons. It's made for use alone in local preserving kitchens. One of the nicest spreads you can serve!

Fried Soft Shell
Crabs, 2 for 49c
A popular sea-food delicacy, warm and fragrant from our own kitchens. Jumbo size—received alive. Hundreds of dozens are sold every week. This is the lowest price for years. Treat yourself and family.

$10,000 ASKED FOR DRY RAID DAMAGE

Tony George, huckster, of 1702 Cliff street, wants $10,000 from Assistant Prohibition Administrator Joseph N. Frayne, because some of Frayne's enforcement officers raided his place. Suit for that amount was filed yesterday. Eighty dollars in cash was missing, he claims, after the raid, which was staged prior to May 25, 1926.

George avers that acting on a complaint from a woman in the neighborhood Frayne, without proper investigation, caused an information to be made and a search warrant issued.

The warrant was served by prohibition agents who are alleged to have broken into the house, shattered doors, broke locks and disarranged furniture. Eighty dollars was missing from a pair of trousers after the search which failed to reveal liquor, George says.

STORM SWEEPS FAIR; LIGHTNING STRIKES MAN

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Joseph O'Connell, 38, stable foreman for the Ferguson-Edmondson Company, railroad contractors, is in the Waynesburg Hospital in a serious condition as a result of being struck by a bolt of lightning while at work this afternoon at the Waynesburg Fair grounds, where horses belonging to the contracting company are quartered. Three horses were knocked to the ground by the same bolt which struck O'Connell.

TRIAL AS TRUCK DRIVER SMASHING FAILURE

DONORA, Pa., Aug. 23.—Vincent Dimidio got a trial as a truck driver yesterday, but is looking for work today. When he started backing, his machine crashed into the sedan of Miss Catherine Neill which was so badly damaged that it will have to be rebuilt. On settling for the damage, Thomas Trubiana, fruit dealer, who had hired Dimidio, suggested that Vincent try some other occupation.

LINDBERGH CLASSMATES MARRIED AT MERCER

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 23.—Classmates of Col. Charles Lindbergh at the University of Wisconsin were married here yesterday. The bride is Miss Marian Duncan, daughter of the Rev. Dr. J. S. Duncan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church who was the officiating cleric, and the bridegroom, Gerald Jenny, of Chicago, of the editorial staff of the Breeders Gazette. The trio were of the class of '24.

ARRESTED FOR WIFE WHILE DIGGING GRAVE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Arrested today while digging a grave in Richhill township, Henry Parsons, 49, of Aleppo, was brought to Waynesburg and held for court on a charge of desertion and non-support made against him by his wife.

PENNSY WILL ELIMINATE KITTANNING TRAIN

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 23.—The Pennsylvania Railroad accommodation train leaving Kittanning at 6:02 a. m. and returning at 1:10 p. m. daily, will be discontinued north of New Kensington when the fall schedule goes into effect next month, it was reported here today.

BUGS BAER Says

No matter how you look at the calendar August is no bonus.

This month is hotter than fresh, red rivets. With much congested relief we read of Byrd's new expedition.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We would like to go with Byrd if only to see polar bears that haven't got glass eyes.

There is one itemized deficit on Byrd's schedule. That's eight thousand dollars worth of dog biscuits.

Byrd should take us along as bookkeeper for the dog biscuits.

When you spend eight thousand dollars for animal crackers you are getting into the compound interest department.

It's time to retrench when your expenses start barking.

That's the biggest purchase of Pomeranian cookies ever published.

We have a police dog on the old ancestral ruins who is much more economical.

If you allow him to catch up to you he is a self-feeder.

Every time the Pole is discovered it gets more expensive. Looking at the North and South hubs we have decided that it is cheaper to run between them.

We hope that Byrd doesn't drop those dog biscuits on the South Pole as a token of his esteem.

Those Antarctic Eskimo are warm-blooded southerners. Biscuits is a fighting word down there.

Byrd has to take all those biscuits along because there are so many dogs. Of course, students suffering from office somnambulism might imagine he took along the dogs because there were so many biscuits.

Naturally, the customs officials were industrially astonished when they opened Byrd's vanity case and discovered untold wealth in Pekinese buns.

When a dog bites a biscuit it is not news. Neither is it a banquet. There is no use giving you the recipe for eight thousand dollars worth of Airdale crackers. By the time you started packing the ovens you would realize why every stove has bow legs.

When we start out to accomplish the inevitable we do everything on a magnificent percentage. Eight thousand dollars worth of canine petit fours is merely an example of our gigantic house keeping.

When the Southern Cross blazing over Terra Del Fe another American goodwill bassador will be rushing tow the frozen frontier. And when the dog star twinkles we wish him speed for every dog and a mile for every biscuit.

CHANGE DRY LAW, KEEP SALOON DEAD--SMITH

SEES SOLUTION IN CANADIAN RUM PLAN

In his address, accepting the Democratic nomination for the presidency of the United states, as delivered yesterday in Albany, N. Y., Gov. Smith said:

It is our New World theory that government exists for the people as against the Old World conception that the people exist for the government. A sharp line separates those who believe that an elect class should be the special object of the government's concern and those who believe that the government is the agent and servant of the people who create it. Dominant in the Republican party today is the element which proclaims and executes the political theories against which the party liberals like Roosevelt and LaFollette and their party insurgents have rebelled. This reactionary element seeks to vindicate the theory of benevolent oligarchy. It assumes that a material prosperity, the very existence of which is challenged, is an excuse for political inequality. It makes the concern of the government, not people, but material things.

Warns Corruptionists

I have fought this spirit in my own state. I have had to fight it and to beat it, in order to place upon the statute books every one of the progressive, humane laws for whose enactment I assumed responsibility in my legislative and executive career. I shall know how to fight it in the nation.

It is a fallacy that there is inconsistency between progressive measures protecting the rights of the people, including the poor and the weak, and a just regard for the rights of legitimate business, great or small. Therefore, while I emphasize my belief that legitimate business promotes the national welfare, let me warn the forces of corruption and favoritism, that Democratic victory means that they will be relegated to the rear and the front seats will be occupied by the friends of equal opportunity.

Attacks G. O. P. Regime

The Republican party builds its case upon a myth. We are told that only under the benevolent administration of that party can the country enjoy prosperity. When four million men, desirous to work and support their families, are unable to secure employment there is very little in the picture of prosperity to attract them and the millions dependent upon them.

In the year 1926, the latest figures available show that one-twentieth of 1 per cent of the 430,000 corporations in this country earned 40 per cent of their profits; 40 per cent of the corporations actually lost money; one-fourth of 1 per cent of these corporations earned two-thirds of the profits of all of them. Specific industries are wholly prostrate and there is wide-spread business difficulty and discontent among the individual businessmen of the country.

Derides "Economy"

When the Republican party came into power in 1921 it definitely promised reorganization of the machinery of government and abolition or consolidation of unnecessary and overlapping agencies. A committee was appointed. A representative of the President acted as chairman. It prepared a plan of reorganization. The plan was filed in the archives. It still remains there. After seven years of Republican control the structure of government is worse than it was in 1921. It is fully as bad as the system which existed in New York state before we secured, by constitutional amendment, the legislation which consolidated more than 100 offices, commissions and boards into 18 co-ordinated department, each responsible to the Governor. In contrast with this, the Republican party in control at Washington when faced with the alternative of loss of patronage for the faithful or more efficient and economical management of the government permitted the old order to continue for the benefit of the patronage seekers.

The appropriations for independent bureaus and offices not responsible to any cabinet officer increased from $3,400,000 in 1914 to $163,000,000 in 1921, and to $556,000,000 in 1928.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States said in its annual report this year: "No progress has been made on the plan of reorganization of the government's departments as advocated by the chamber." The administration spokesman answers only: "We have given an economical administration," and that has been repeated so often that some people begin to believe it without the slightest proof. I assert that there is no proof.

Hits Tax Adjustment

If the defenders of the administration answer that taxes have been reduced, they find themselves in a dilemna. The total taxes collected are $24,000,000 more than in the first year of the Coolidge administration. While tax rates have been reduced and some war-time taxes abandoned, the government actually took from the people in income taxes $383,000,000 more during the last fiscal year than during the first year of the Coolidge administration. I wish to focus the public attention on these fundamental facts and figures when it is fed with picturesque trifles about petty economies, such as eliminating stripes from mail bags and extinguishing electric lights in the offices at night.

Pledges Economy

If the people commission me to do it, I shall with the aid of the Congress effect a real reorganization and consolidation of governmental activities upon a business basis and institute the real economy which comes from prudent expenditure.

Acting upon the principle of "Equal opportunity for all, special privileges for none," I shall ask Congress to carry out the tariff declaration of our platform. To be sure the Republican party will attempt in the campaign to misrepresent Democratic attitude to the tariff. The Democratic party does not and under my leadership will not advocate any sudden or drastic revolution in our economic system which would cause business upheaval and popular distress. Our platform restates it in unmistakable language. The Democratic party stands squarely for the maintenance of legitimate business and a high standard of wages for American labor. Both can be maintained and at the same time the tariff can be taken out of the realm of politics and treated on a strictly business basis.

Pay no attention to the Republican propaganda and accept my assurance as the leader of our party that Democratic tariff legislation will be honest. It will play no favorites. It will do justice to every element in the nation.

Jolts Latin Policy

I especially stress the necessity for the restoration of cordial relations with Latin America.

The present administration has been false to that declaration of one of its greatest party leaders. The situation in Nicaragua fairly exemplifies our departure from this high standard. The administration has intervened in an election dispute between two conflicting factions, sent our troops into Nicaragua, maintained them there for years, and this without the consent of Congress. To settle this internal dispute, our Marines have died and hundreds of Nicaraguans in turn have been killed by our Marines. Without consultation with Congress, the administration entered on this long continued occupation of the territory of a supposedly friendly nation by our armed troops.

To no declaration of our platform do I more heartily commit myself than the one for the abolition of the practice of the President of entering into agreements for the settlement of internal disputes in Latin American countries, unless the agreements have been consented to by the Senate as provided for in the Constitution of the United States. I personally declare what the platform declares: "Interference in the purely internal affairs of Latin American countries must cease" and I specifically pledge myself to follow this declaration with regard to Mexico as well as the other Latin American countries.

Urges Dry Law Change

The President of the United States has two constitutional duties with respect to prohibition. The first is embodied in his oath of office. If, with one hand on the Bible and the other hand reaching up to Heaven, I promise the people of this country that "I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States," you may be sure that I shall live up to that oath to the last degree. I shall to the very limit execute the pledge of our platform "to make an honest endeavor to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and all other provisions of the Federal Constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

The President does not make the laws. He does his best to execute them whether he likes them or not. The corruption in enforcement activities which caused a former Republican prohibition administrator to state that three-fourths of the dry agents were political ward heelers named by politicians without regard to civil service laws and that prohibition is the "new political pork barrel," I will ruthlessly stamp out. Such conditions can not and will not exist under any administration presided over by me.

The second constitutional duty imposed upon the President is "To recommend to the Congress such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient." Opinion upon prohibition cuts squarely across the two great political parties. There are thousands of so-called "wets and drys" in each. The platform of my party is silent upon any question of change in the law. I personally believe that there should be change and I shall advise the Congress in accordance with my constitutional duty of whatever changes I deem "necessary or expedient." It will then be for the people and the representatives in the national and state legislatures to determine whether these changes shall be made.

No Saloon Comeback

I will state the reason for my belief. In a book "Law and Its Origin," recently called to my notice, James C. Carter, one of the leaders of the bar of this country, wrote of the conditions which exist "when a law is made declaring conduct widely practiced and widely regarded as innocent to be a crime." He points out that in the enforcement of such a law "trials become scenes of perjury and subornation of perjury;" "juries find abundant excuses for rendering acquital or persisting in disagreemtnt contrary to their oaths," and he concludes, "perhaps worst of all is that general regard and reverence for law are impaired, a consequence the mischief of which can scarcely be estimated." These words written years before the Eighteenth Amendment or the Volstead act were prophetic of our situation today.

I believe in temperance. We have not achieved temperance under the present system. The mothers and fathers of young men and women throughout this land know the anxiety and worry which has been brought to them by their children's use of liquor in a way which was unknown before prohibition. I believe in reverence for law. Today disregard of the prohibition laws is insidiously sapping respect for all law. I raise, therefore, what I profoundly believe to be a great moral issue involving the righteousness of our national conduct and the protection of our children's morals.

Some immediate relief would come from an amendment to the Volstead law giving a scientific definition of the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage. The present definition is admittedly inaccurate and unscientific. Each state would then be allowed to fix its own standard of alcoholic content, subject always to the proviso that that standard could not exceed the maximum fixed by Congress.

I believe, moreover, that there should be submitted to the people the question of some change in the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment. Certainly, no one foresaw when the amendment was ratified the conditions which exist today of bootlegging, corruption and open violation of the law in all parts of the country. The people themselves should, after eight years of trial, be permitted to say whether existing conditions should be rectified. I personally believe in an amendment in the Eighteenth Amendment which would give to each individual state itself only after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to be manufactured and sell alcoholic beverages, the sale to be made only by the state itself and not for consumption in any public place. We may well learn from the experience of other nations. Our Canadian neighbors have gone far in this manner to solve this problem by the method of sale made by the state itself and not by private individuals.

There is no question here of the return of the saloon. When I stated that the saloon "is and ought to be a defunct institution in this country" I meant it. I mean it today. I will never advocate nor approve any law which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon.

Such a change would preserve for the dry states the benefit of a national law that would continue to make interstate shipment of intoxicating beverages a crime. It would preserve for the dry states Federal enforcement of prohibition within their own borders. It would permit to citizens of other states a cerefully limited and controlled method of effectuating the popular will wholly within the borders of those states without the old evil of the saloon.

Cites Farmers' Plight

Publicity agents of the Republican administration have written so many articles on our general prosperity, that they have prevented the average man from having a proper appreciation of the degree of distress existing today among farmers and stockraisers. From 1910 to the present time the farm debt has increased by the striking sum of 10 billions of dollars, or from four billion to 14 billion dollars. The value of farm property between 1920 and 1925 decreased by 20 billions of dollars. This depression made itself felt in an enormous increase of bank failures in the agricultural districts. In 1927 there were 830 bank failures, with total liabilities of over 270 millions of dollars, almost entirely in the agricultural sections, as against 49 such failures during the last year of President Wilson's administration.

We have not merely a problem of helping the farmer. While agriculture is one of the most individualized and independent of enterprises, still as the report of the Business Men's Commission points out, "Agriculture is essentially a public function, affected with a clear and unquestionable public interest." The country is an economic whole. If the buying power of agriculture is impaired, the farmer makes fewer trips to Main street. The shop owner suffers because he has lost a large part of his trade. The manufacturer who supplies him likewise suffers as does the wage earner, because the manufacturer is compelled to curtail his production. And the banker cannot collect his debts or safely extend further credit. This country

SMITH TAKING LEAD FROM HOOVER IN NEW YORK, WISCONSIN

By CHARLES N. WHEELER,
(Noted Political Analyst.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—The Tammany farmer may encounter tough sledding in trying to convince the dirt farmers of the Middle West that watermelons grow on pea vines, but they certainly are "slickers" when it comes to herding the voters in the big cities.

Computations based on yesterday morning's totals in the nation-wide straw vote gathered by the Hearst publications from coast-to-coast, place Gov. Smith's stock on a new high level.

This is so striking that for the first time two of the most important of all the states—New York and Wisconsin—indicate a drift to Smith. That is, the vote of the cities, with some exceptions, in both commonwealths is running so strongly to the governor that there does not appear at this time a corresponding counter drift to Mr. Hoover in the strictly rural communities.

While in other states, notably west of the Alleghenies, the Hoover rural vote is swamping the governor—and this is true of the small towns as well as the farm territory adjoining—Smith is making an out-state showing in both New York and Wisconsin that should be at least disconcerting to the Republican generals.

The better informed of the G. O. P. chiefs recognize the seriousness for the moment of the situation in both commonwealths, but are banking on both a checking of the Smith vogue and a definite shunting on the tide to Hoover when the campaign begins hitting on all six cylinders.

In the state at large, including Milwaukee, the total vote in 71 counties still shows Smith in the lead with 8,353 to 6,888 for Mr. Hoover. Setting the Milwaukee vote to one side, the 70 out-state counties give Hoover 4,364 to 3,299 for Smith.

That is, Smith's percentage lead over Hoover in the 71 counties, including Milwaukee, is greater than Hoover's percentage lead over Smith in the 70 counties outside of Milwaukee.

The present indications are that La Follette will be renominated for Senator, which would not materially do violence to Gov. Smith's chances. There is, meantime, a terrific row on over the governorship—a three-cornered affair that is bound to leave many gaping political wounds.

Whatever the eruptions may be subsequent to the forthcoming primaries, Wisconsin, on the face of the Hearst poll, is doubtful, with the Hoover people fighting with their backs to the wall.

YORK STATE PUZZLES

New York State becomes more of a puzzle daily as more extensive returns are tabulated by the Hearst canvassers.

Tuesday morning's table, for example, shows Smith running two to one ahead of Hoover in Greater New York, and in the adjoining country districts Hoover leading by not quite three to two.

The vote in the western part of the state, most of which is from Rochester and Buffalo, gives Smith 8,149 and Hoover 5,837; but over in the Albany area Hoover is in the lead in a territory including both rural and Albany vote of 2,111 to Smith's 1,60.

In view of the present indications in the straw vote that Smith is going to pile up a tremendous vote in Greater New York, the Rochester returns cannot be construed as comforting to the Hoover generals.

Unless the more complete poll in the next few weeks shows a greater swing of upstate New York to Hoover, the Wall Streeters probably will be justified in shaving the present odds of 2-to-1 that Hoover will carry the state.

The total vote of New York state four years ago was in round numbers 3,264,000. Some of the prognosticators, among them being Senator Copeland, estimate an increase of at least 1,500,000 and possibly closer to 2,000,000, which would bring the total up to around 5,000,000.

The greater part of the new vote, the Democratic experts allow, which will be particularly noted in Greater New York, will be in the Smith camp. From this assumption they contend that unless Mr. Hoover sweeps the upstate territory with a tremendous vote, the Empire State is headed for the Tammany camp.

Here are some tidings from other cities:

San Francisco—Smith, 8,374, Hoover, 8,033. Of this number, Smith has but 4,042 women votes to 4,937 for Hoover. The vote of California is: Hoover 16,486, Smith 12,421. In Southern California, with the vote being confined almost wholly for the present to Los Angeles, the vote is: Hoover 2,672, Smith 975.

Detroit--This city is rather an exception to the general Smith vogue in the congested areas. The totals: Hoover 3,401, Smith 2,699. The women's vote stands: Hoover 1,902, Smith 1,175.

Boston--Smith leading almost 2 to 1, including the votes from the rural districts, although the tabulation thus far is practically all from the city. The vote is: Smith 10,643, Hoover 5,491.

Baltimore--Here is an interesting spot. In the city Smith has the lead with 4,883 to 4,299 for Hoover. Twenty-three counties of Maryland, outside of Baltimore, however, give Hoover 3,682 to only 1,760 for Smith, which gives Hoover the lead in the state at large with 7,981 to 6,643 for Smith.

Chicago—Smith still holding the lead, the totals this morning being: Smith 9,014, Hoover 8,718.

High Spots in Smith's Speech of Acceptance

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Outstanding points in Gov. Smith's speech of acceptance are;

PROHIBITION

Favors modification of Eighteenth Amendment to permit sale of alcoholic beverages by state agencies if approved by popular referendum vote; also amendment of Volstead act, allowing each state to determine its own standard of alcoholic content.

Pledges honest endeavor to enforce dry laws and to stamp out corruption, and reiterates opposition to return of saloon.

FARM RELIEF

Stands on platform for development of co-operative marketing and for earnest efforts to solve problem of distributing cost of handling surpluses over units benefitted; promises to call in experts to study question and present recommendations upon reconvening of Congress.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

Stresses necessity for restoring cordial relations with Latin-America; promises "real" endeavor to end all wars.

TARIFF

Opposes "sudden or drastic" change in economic system, attacks workings of tariff act, and promises to restore scientific, non-partisan tariff making.

IMMIGRATION

Favors removal of restrictions which separate families and opposes basing quotas on census 38 years old.

WATER POWER

Advocates public ownership and control.

FLOOD RELIEF

Says money already appropriated not enough to make "even a start" on program laid down by Jones-Ried bill which must be carried through.

LABOR

Declares for collective bargaining, fair treatment to government employes, immediate attention to unemployment, and definite remedy for abuse of injunction in labor disputes.

INLAND WATERWAYS

Would seek their improvement and would re-study Great Lakes-to-Sea waterway impartially and abide by decision of Congress.

COLORADO RIVER

Favors establishment of Colorado River authority representative of all states concerned to handle development.

MUSCLE SHOALS

Would develop method of operation and retain government ownership and control.

CONSERVATION

Pledges to work for "progressive liberal conservation policy" based on principles followed in New York state.

WOMEN

Advocates true equality for women in business, government and politics.

VETERANS

Would seek removal of red tape in their cases.

OTHER HIGH LIGHTS WERE

An attack on Republican claims regarding prosperity, tax reduction, economy, and employment, and a pledge to effect "real" economy by reorganizing and consolidating governmental activities.

A statement that the Republican party today "stands" responsible for the widespread dishonesty that has honeycombed its administration.

"Certain utility corporations" are criticized for "dishonest" propaganda.

A declaration that the candidate's nomination was brought about by no promises and a pledge that appointments would not be influenced by a person's wet or dry stand, religion, financial or sectional standing.

NEW CADILLACS, LASALLES PUT ON EXHIBIT

Today throughout the nation is being publicly shown for the first time a complete new line of Cadillacs and LaSalles and special Fleetwood bodies on both chassis. In this district they are being exhibited by McAlister Brothers, 5607 Boum boulevard, distributors, and that company's dealers and representatives.

"This impressive new display," Mr. McAlister states, "represents the goal for wihch the Cadillac Motor Car Company has been striving during the past three years under the leadership of Lawrence P. Fisher.

Changes include marked improvements in body construction with conservative changes in design, larger bodies for the LaSalle car, an entirely new and original Cadillac designed transmission providing easy instantaneous and silent gear shifting without the usual hesitation in neutral, remarkably efficient new brakes, "security-plate" glass in all windows and windshields, and adjustable front seats. Both engines are more powerful and in the LaSalle the engine is larger.

"Yesterday I received a telegram about three new cars from Lawrence P. Fisher, president and general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Company. He is a manufacturer of many years of experience and is conservative in his opinions. But even he is so well pleased with these new cars that he wires me: "There are no other cars in all the world like these." Preliminary showings here in Detroit have brought a measure of approval unequalled in our history. The new transmission, with its easy, instantaneous and silent shifting, new brakes, and new security plate glass are tributes to our engineers."

HIKERS ATTACK AUTOIST

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Edgar H. Croxton, 30, an insurance agent of 396 Ewing street, was beaten unconscious and robbed of about $85 by two men on the Hickory road, about four miles north of this city late yesterday. Croxton's assailants were apparently hikers, carrying packs in semi-uniform.

They asked Croxton for a ride He stopped and found it necessary to get out of the machine. As he stepped to the ground they attacked him. The highwaymen apparently fled into the fields.

Croxton was found unconscious by P. A. Lalonde and Loren Timmons, of this city, and brought to the hospital. His condition is not serious.

The AUGUST OVERCOAT SALE

A New "Tee and Turf" for College Girls

Debonair, brimful of youthful animation, this velveteen-and-jersey costume is introduced as a new "Tee and Turf" fashion in the Sportswear Shop, a paragon of chic, excellent tailoring and quality at the price—

$29.50

English velveteen is used for the skirt and cardigan jacket. And such velveteen!—rich, supple, and gratifyingly suede-like to the touch. The blouse is made of contrasting wool jersey.

The shades in the skirt and cardigan are laurel green, navy blue, Bordeau, and Brazil brown, with blouses in lighter shades; and in black with colored blouses.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

Junior-Misses "Felice" Frocks

$16.75

Miss 13-to-17 looking autumnward, sees in this group of "Felice" frocks the means of getting into the fashion swing of the new season without spending much money.

They include satins and flat crepes, with trimmings of velvet, with the vivacious new scarf collars, with skirts which have a lot of movement, and even some frocks in ensemble style.

In the new autumn shades and black.

..Horne's, Second Floor..

Camel's Hair Coats for Wear at College

The misses' Wear-Weave line of coats features a great showing of youth's beloved, classic camel's hair, in the familiar natural color and in novelty mixtures.

In simple, uniform models to which the cozy texture of camel's hair is suited, the untrimmed coats at $39.50, $55.00 and $79.50; those with Paquin or shawl collars of beaver or badger featured at $100.00, with some also at $55.00.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

Black Satin Coolie Coats

Special $7.95

Just 100 coats of lustrous, heavy quality satin . . . and hand-embroidered in gorgeous colorings. Some embroidered in all-gold or silver color embroidery with borders all around of shimmering rayon.

Smart for travel use . . . or for a college girl.

...Horne's, Third Floor...

A Touch of Velvet on Misses' Crepe Frocks

When one does not want a frock entirely of velvet, the choice is a model of georgette or flat crepe trimmed with velvet. A misses' group at $25.00 makes the matter easy.

The dresses are suited to immediate wear—frocks with transparent velvet bows, transparent velvet inserts, transparent velvet flounces, and transparent velvet touches at neck-line and wrists. In black, the new brown, green, blue and wine shades.

More Hudson Seal* Coats Are Being Bought Now Than Last August

As a matter of fact, more fur coats, generally, are being purchased here now than in last year's August Sale, because every coat is NEW, there is delightful variety, and our fortunate purchases make prices so unusually favorable; and leading the list are coats of Hudson Seal* at the following prices:

$235 $275 $375

Our Hudson Seal* pelts are beautifully rich and supple, this year, and the coats have been styled with a notably youthful touch.

Women's and misses' models in wide variety, plain or trimmed with natural fitch, fisher-dyed fitch, leopard, squirrel, Jap mink, mink tails, kit fox, skunk.

*Hudson Seal is seal-dyed muskrat.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

North winds will blow And we shall have snow . . .

But the men and youngfellows who are picking out new Fall and Winter Overcoats, this week, at real savings, will only laugh, ha, ha!

"It is a great satisfaction," as one man expressed it yesterday, "to have the winter overcoat question settled, and off one's mind and be $25.00, or more, ahead by the transaction."

You don't have to take the overcoat at this time. We will hold it until you are ready for it, but the savings you do take, and they are large, definite and unmistakable!

There is a complete selection of models and sizes at each of the Sale prices.

$28.50 $36.50 $48.50

Buying an overcoat in August may seem illogical at first hearing, but men quickly see the logic of it, when they see the Overcoats which are offered at these August Sale prices.

The fabrics are all-wool tweeds, fleeces, Vicunas, Meltons, and imported novelties. A large part of them are fine English, Scotch and Irish woolens for which we made a special trip abroad.

The models are of the conservative, dressy, high-class type and include single and double-breasted box coats, single-breasted raglans and single-breasted Chesterfields. Also topcoats.

Each coat is full satin trimmed, with satin sleeves, yokes and piping. The Chesterfields are full satin lined.

There is a full complement of regular sizes in each model and there are models for large men in sizes up to 48.

Blue and Oxford gray, the favored shades for the coming season, predominate, with a representation also of browns, grays and other shades.

Every overcoat is NEW—the coming season's models. All made within the last 30 to 90 days.

. . . Horne's, Men's Floor . . .

Boys' Four-Piece School Suits

With the New Double-Breasted Vests

$15.00

The smartest of boys' fall suits . . . in fine woolens and tweeds . . . with the new pleated, plus-four knickers and double-breasted vests. In browns, tans and gray mixtures. Sizes 7 to 18 years.

...Horne's, Boys' Shop, Third Floor...

The New "Foot-Savers" Are Here

The new models will delight not only women who like this line of footwear because of its combination last and supporting features, but also those who are looking simply for smart shoes.

The shoe pictured is an example of the more youthful appeal of the new "Foot-Savers." It is of black suede with just a touch of black mat kid, and has the neat baby-Spanish heel instead of the regulation block heel.

Other models in the new collection are of black mat kid combined with suede, of patent leather with kid, and patent leather with black calf.

...Horne's, Fourth Floor...

A Splendid Choice of Costume Jewelry 95c

Chokers, earrings, bracelets and pins—a good assortment of colors and kinds at this price. These are new designs, created to complement the new fall frocks. Whatever color your costume may be, you'll find harmonizing jewelry at this price to complete the ensemble.

...Horne's, Main Floor...

Men's Shirts

With Stiff Collar Attached

$2.50

Colored shirts with matching stiff collar attached—combining all the factors that lend neatness and color for the modern man's shirt. They're in blue, tan or green—with a fine, hairline stripe, or small figure. The collar may be made soft by omitting the starch when it is laundered.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Special! Men's Swim Suits

$3.95

A clearance of our highest-priced one-piece wool suits now while there are plenty of swimming days in the offing. Plain-colored, or with stripes on chest or bottom of the skirt, in gray, red, tan, blue, black, brown. Speed suits included.

LET STATES SET ALCOHOL LIMIT, SMITH'S PLAN

REFERENDUM IS PROPOSED BY GOVERNOR

cannot be a healthy, strong economic body if one of its members, so fundamentally important as agriculture, is sick almost to the point of economic death.

The normal market among the farmers of this country for the products of industry is ten billions of dollars. Our export market, according to latest available figures, is, exclusive of agricultural products, approximately one billion, six hundred millions of dollars. These large figures furnish striking indication of the serious blow to national prosperity as a whole which is struck when the buying power of the farmer is paralyzed.

Assails Vetoes

When, therefore, I say that I am in accord with our platform declaration that the solution of this problem must be a prime and immediate concern of the Democratic administration, I make no class appeal. I am stating a proposition as vital to the welfare of business as of agriculture.

Twice a Republican Congress has passed legislation only to have it vetoed by a President of their own party, and whether the veto of that specific measure was right or wrong, it is undisputed that no adequate substitute was ever recommended to the Congress by the President and that no constructive plan of relief was ever formulated by any leader of the Republican party in place of the plan which its Congress passed and its President vetoed. Only caustic criticism and bitter denunciation were provoked in the minds of the Republican leaders in answer to the nation-wide appeal for a sane endeavor to meet this crisis.

In my administration of the government of my state, whenever I was confronted with a problem of this character, I called into conference those best equipped on the particular subject in hand.

If I am elected, I shall, immediately after election, ask leaders of the type I have named irrespective of party to enter upon this task. I shall support the activities of this body until a satisfactory law is placed upon the statute books.

Urges Flood Control

With the development of inland waterways goes the control of floods thereon. The Mississippi flood of last year brought home to the nation the imperative need for a national policy of flood control. The last two administrations waited for this calamity and for universal demand that something be done instead of taking leadership in this important work. Forethought, courage, and leadership and knowledge of what real ultimate economy means would have done much to prevent this calamity with its ensuing waste and misery. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of first aid and relief. In the last Congress the Reid-Jones bill laid down sound lines for the solution of this great problem. The policy thus initiated for the Mississippi must be carried through. The money actually appropriated for flood relief is too small to make even a start. Too much time has been spent in squabbling over who shall pay the bill.

Hits Power Plots

No more dishonest or unpatriotic propaganda has ever been seen in this country than that disclosed by the investigation into the methods of certain utility corporations. Private corporations to gain control of public resources have procured the writing of textbooks for the public schools; have subsidized lecturers pretending to give to the country their own honest and unbiased advice; have employed as their agents former public officials and have endeavored to mislead public opinion by the retention of the services of leaders of the community in various parts of the country. Highly-paid lobbyists penetrated into every state and into the legislative halls of the nation itself.

As against propaganda, it is the duty of the Democratic party to set up truth. The ownership of some of these great water powers is in the nation, of others in the several states. These sources of water power must remain forever under public ownership and control. Where they are owned by the Federal government, they should remain under Federal control. Where they are owned by an individual state, they should be under the control of that state, or where they are owned by states jointly, they should be under the control of those states.

Wherever the development, the government agency, state or federal as the case may be, must retain through contractural agreement with the distributing companies the right to provide fair and reasonable rates to the ultimate consumer and the similar right to insist upon fair and equal distribution of the power. This can be secured only by the absolute retention by the people of the ownership of the power by owning and controlling the site and plant at the place of generation. The government—federal, state or the authority representing joint states—must control the switch that turns on or off the power so greedily sought by certain private groups without the least regard for the public good.

Would Revive Shoals

Electrical energy generated from water power as an incident to the regulation of the flow of the Colorado River is the common heritage of all the states through which the river flows. The benefits growing from such development should be equitably distributed among the states having right of ownership.

It would be the policy of my administration while retaining government ownership and control, to develop a method of operation for Muscle Shoals which will reclaim for the government some fair revenue from the enormous expenditure already made for its development and which is now a complete waste. In this way the original peace-time purpose of the construction of this plant will be achieved.

Stands by Labor

The American people constitute a structure of many component parts. One of its foundations is labor. The reasonable contentment of those who toil with the conditions under which they live and work is an essential basis of the nation's well-being. The welfare of our country therefore demands governmental concern for the legitimate interest of labor.

The Democratic party has always recognized this fact and under the administration of Woodrow Wilson a large body of progressive legislation for the protection of those laboring in industry was enacted. Our platform continues that tradition of the party. We declare for the principle of collective bargaining which alone can put the laborer upon a basis of fair equality with the employer; for the human principle that labor is not a commodity; for fair treatment to government and federal employes, and for specific and immediate attention to the serious problems of unemployment.

From these premises it was inevitable that our platform should further recognize grave abuses in the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes which threaten the very principle of collective bargaining.

The Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate has already in progress a careful study of this situation. I promise full co-operation to the end that a definite remedy by law be brought forth to end the existing evils and preserve the constitutional guarantees of individual liberty, free assemblage and speech and the rights of peaceful persuasion.

Urges Vets Get Due

I shall continue my sympathetic interest in the advancement of progressive legislation for the protection and advancement of working men and women. Promotion of proper care of maternity, infancy and childhood and the encouragement of those scientific activities of the national government which advance the safeguards of public health, are so fundamental as to need no expression from me other than my record as legislator and as Governor.

I have a full appreciation of what this country owes to our veteran soldiers. I know that when the country called, the veteran came promptly. When the veteran in distress calls to the country, the country should be equally prompt. Red tape and technicalities and autocratic bureaucracy should be brushed aside when the time comes for a grateful American people to recognize its debt to the men who offered themselves in our hour of need.

Ejects Favoritism

While this is a government of laws and not of men, laws do not execute themselves. We must have people of character and outstanding ability to serve the nation. To me one of the greatest elements of satisfaction in my nomination is the fact that I owe it to no one man or set of men. I can with complete honesty make the statement that my nomination was brought about by no promise given or implied by me or any one in my behalf. I will not be influenced in appointments by the question or a person's wet or dry attitude, by whether he is rich or poor, whether he comes from the North, South, East or West, or by what church he attends in the worship of God. The sole standard of my appointments will be the same as they have been in my governorship—integrity of the man or woman and his or her ability to give me the greatest possible aid in devoted service to the people.

Victory, simply for the sake of achieving it, is empty. I am entirely satisfied of our success in November because I am sure we are right and therefore sure that our victory means progress for our nation. I am convinced of the wisdom of our platform. I pledge a complete devotion to the welfare of our country and our people. I place that welfare above every other consideration and I am satisfied that our party is in a position to promote it. To that end I here and now declare to my fellow countrymen from one end of the United States to the other, that I will dedicate myself with all the power and energy that I possess to the service of our great Republic.

I'D LOVE to go to the South Pole with Commander Byrd, just to see the penguins.

These comical, flightless birds live in the Antarctic.

Looking not unlike fellows in cap and gown marching across a college campus, is it any wonder they have been mistaken for rescuing parties, especially when the flapping of their flippers answered with signals?

Scott wrote in his diary that "the Adelie penguin on land or ice is wholly ludicrous, whether sleeping, quarreling, or playing, whether frightened or angry. Its interest is continuously humorous."

They drill. They have the curiosity of a human crowd. They toboggan on their fat chests.

The ridiculous penguins have furnished fun as well as food and oil for fuel for many weary explorers of the regions of the South Pole.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

PLANS FOR POPPY

By RICHARD G. SWARINGTON

"ED, we need a new manager at Redfield!" Mr. John Bennett, of Bennett-Beal Stores, Inc., looked up from the letter he was reading with the black-browed scowl that was feared throughout their 40 stores. Mr. Bennett appeared grossly fat. His bulk was strong and hard as nails.

"What's the matter with Rodgers?" asked Mr. Beal, whose mild, friendly smile was the lubricant which kept their human machine working smoothly. His gentleness was one of the many things that kept Mr. Bennett continually infuriated.

"Women!" growled the choleric partner. "Rodgers should marry—though that might not keep him from liking other women! It gives the store a bad name, and causes discontent among the help."

"Well, we've all been young. When Rodgers has his fling—"

"Let him have it at somebody else's expense, then!"

"We have the very man for the job right here."

"You mean Charley Rice?"

Mr. Beal's nod held a touch of irony. "Charley has ability. You know we had to take him out of the sales force and promote him to a job that keeps him hidden in the accounting department, for fear somebody might learn how good he is and steal him from us."

Mr. Bennett nodded grudging agreement. "But Charley's single, too. If he were only married, now—"

"You wouldn't be so uneasy about Poppy, eh?" Mr. Beal chuckled. "Well, John, she might go farther and do worse—much worse!"

Mr. Bennett's scowl deepened. But his only answer was to shove a thick finger against a certain push button.

At a desk out in the general office, a buzzer sounded. The tall, long-visaged, blond young man seated there gave a start and replaced his watch in his pocket. A picture was pasted inside its lid. Charley Rice was usually ahead of his work and could find a few minutes in which to dream of the sweetest girl in the world.

He rose. There were titters from the two nearest stenographers, friendly rather than malicious sounds. Charley's bearing grew more dignified. The two girls liked him all the better for his blush.

Charley went into the office of Mr. Bennett and closed the door. His blue eyes had grown faintly wary.

Mr. Bennett swiveled his frown into direct focus. "Charley, we find it necessary—painfully necessary—" He paused to weigh his words. Charley Rice stirred uneasily. Mr. Beal, as usual, remained silent, watching with his hidden twinkle of amusement.

"We find ourselves under the disagreeable necessity," pursued Mr. Bennett ponderously, "of letting Rodgers go."

Charley Rice started. There was a faint relaxing evident in his bearing, followed by a look of puzzlement. Mr. Bennett went on:

"Rodgers is honest and a good salesman. But he is too easily attracted by women—often the wrong kind of women. It causes gossip and reflects on the firm. We'll have to send a new manager to Redfield. If you were a little older—perhaps married—"

Mr. Beal smothered a laugh. Charley Rice unaccountably blushed, glanced hurriedly at the door and then looked at the clock.

Mr. Bennett glowered at the letter he had been reading. It was from Burgess, the firm's confidential field secretary. He traveled from store to store, sending back confidential reports.

"Do you think," Mr. Bennett asked sharply, "you could hold down the job and make us a creditable manager at Redfield?"

"Redfield?" The word was echoed from the door by a new voice, very feminine and musical. The three men turned. Poppy Bennett came into the room. Her smile was a flash of white teeth in the dark beauty of her face. Charley Rice pale a little, raising his head with an air of pride.

"Dad, are you sending Charley to Redfield?" she said.

Mr. Bennett nodded sharply, his frown deepening. The fat fluid lines of his face seemed to congeal implacably as he eyed the two.

Poppy smiled happily as she thrust her arm through Charley's.

"Good!" she cried. "We'll rent a house and—"

"What do you mean?" Mr. Bennett rose stormily. There was menace in his wrath, a growing tensity in the room.

"Poppy and I got married last night," Charley Rice said, proudly. "We would have asked your consent, but knew it was no use. If you want to fire me, all right; I suppose I can get another—"

He paused, gaping. Slowly but surely Mr. Bennett's scowl was melting. Finally little laugh wrinkles puckered around his eyes. At last he chuckled.

"All right! All right!" he said, "I had other plans for Poppy; but I'm not going to cry over what's done. To tell the truth, I've been wondering if you two loved each other enough to do that!"

2 AUTO INJURY SUITS FILED

Joseph A. Voegler, knocked down by a truck of the Equitable Auto Co., March 2, 1928, at Penn and Frankstown avenue, has brought suit for $25,000 damages.

A runaway truck owned by Louis Lipsitz, wholesale canfectioneer and tobacconist, knocked down William Morse July 13 last and injured the boy while he was playing in Pride street. Alleging negligance, Robert Morse, the boy's father, has brought suit against Lipsitz for $25,000 damages.

R. R. CROSSING ORPHANS 8

Mrs. Anna Jacklein, 40, mother of eight, was killed instantly at 5:30 o'clock this morning as she crossed the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks in front of her home, 1128 South Canal street.

Returning from a nearby grocery she was run down by a shifting engine.

BAINTON AVENUE MILK FUND FETE BIG SUCCESS

One of the biggest aids the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund has had this season comes from a group of Bainton avenue children today. These enterprising youngsters, aided by a few fathers and mothers, gave a lawn fete. And such a fete as it was! There was real honest-to-goodness homemade bread, such as few people know how to bake nowadays. This was raffled off and then, guess what! A ton of coal was raffled, too.

With a capital of only 95 cents on which to start the youngsters cleared $66.65 for the fund and are convinced that they could have made more had their stock been larger. Not a crumb nor a box of anything was left at the end of the evening. The workers were Rita Connors, Mary Rita, Dorothy, Margaret, Audrey and Anna Keenan, Marjory and Fred Hubert, Ruth Martin, Dorothy, Edna and Martin Miller, Herman May, Joe Dillon, William Kantenwein, Margaret, Vincent and John Hallstin and Kenneth Collier.

Patricia Dunnigan, Annevelyn and Peggy Beyers, of Warrington avenue, gave a show and realized $5 for the babies of the fund; Frederick and Ann Louise Elliott, have earned $2 by selling lemonade, the Ladies' Friendship Society, of the North Side, has added $5 and from a Sewickley group comes $5.51, while the list is completed by a "cash" gift of $1. The little Sewickleyans who presented "The Lost Wings," a pretty fairy play, were Mary Martha and Suzanne Dryman, Lynard Joyce, Junior McMaster and Donald Johnson. Roy Johnson assisted behind the scenes, David Galey sold tickets and Bobby Galey ushered.

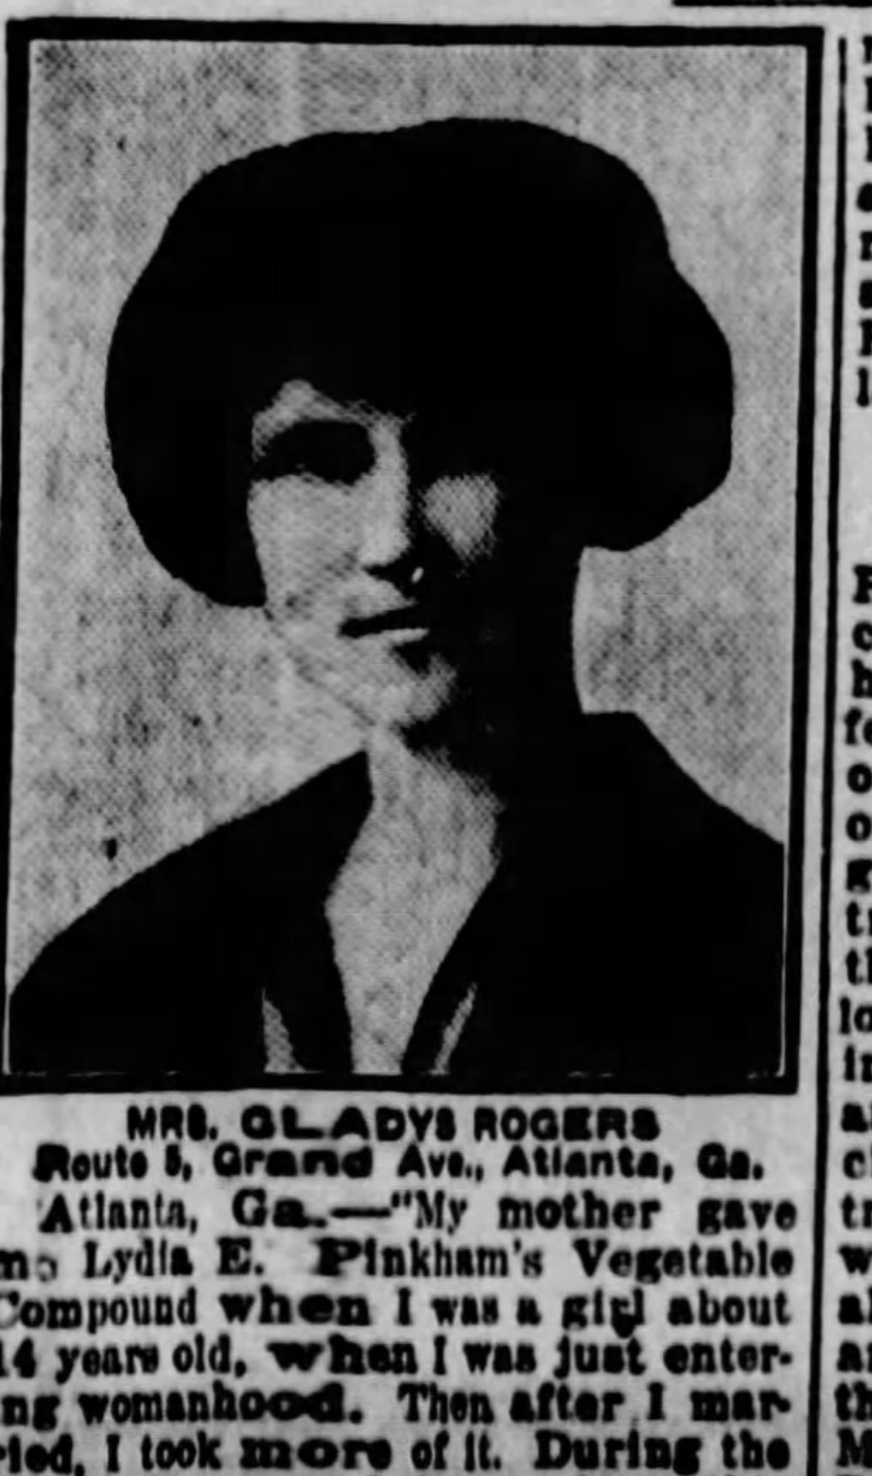
WILL GLADLY ANSWER LETTERS FROM WOMEN

Asking for Information About Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



MRS. GLADYS ROGERS
Route 5, Grand Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Atlanta, Ga.—"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was a girl about 14 years old, when I was just entering womanhood. Then after I married, I took more of it. During the time before my baby was born this medicine gave me splendid results. I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation also and recommend these medicines to my friends and will answer letters asking about them."—MRS. GLADYS ROGERS, Route 5, Grand Avenue Atlanta, Georgia.

A Lot Better By Taking It

Trafford, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I could not eat a thing. I had no appetite whatever and never felt good. I was talking to my friend one day and she passed the remark of how thin I was getting since I got married and I told her my trouble and she advised me to take the Vegetable Compound. I feel a lot better now since I have been taking it regularly and I can eat most anything. I recommend your medicine to anyone who tells me of troubles like my own, for I know what it has done for me. I have also used your Sanative Wash. I am willing to answer women if they ask about the medicine."—MRS. E. GELATZO, Box 502, Trafford, Pa.

What's What in Hollywood Picture Studios and Some Notes About Coming Theater Attractions

"Comedy of Life" Must Wait While Milton Sills Does New Film With Dorothy Mackaill

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.

BECAUSE of the success of "The Barker," First National and Director George Fitzmaurice have decided to keep the team of Dorothy Mackaill and Milton Sills intact for one more picture at least. So it happens that Sills has been cast opposite Dorothy in "Changeling," and will postpone his production, "The Comedy of Life," until some future date. The "Changeling" role is that which rumor placed at the feet of Rod La Rocque. But Bob seems inclined to rest until late fall, when it is said there will be a berth for him at United Artists.

When Greta Garbo completes "A Woman of Affairs" she won't have much chance to rest, as her next story has been selected and will be put into production almost immediately. In it Greta will play the role of a Dutch girl who is transplanted to the Island of Java. In that exotic atmosphere things begin to happen—as they always do to the ladies portrayed by Greta on the screen. The story is by John Colton, co-author of "Rain." It is reported that Nils Aster will be her leading man.

Tully Marshall has been reported in and out of the cast of Richard Dix's "Redskin" picture a half dozen times in 24 hours. Latest bulletains from the front indicate that he is in. So the world may continue on its course.

Another perfectly good author has gone Hollywood. He is Dan Totheroh, whose name adorne the jackets of books titled "Wild Birds" and "Wild Orchard." Perhaps in search of more wild life, Totheroh has gone to Hollywood to work for Sam Goldwyn. At present he is putting in a six-week assignment on the adaptation of the new Ronald Colman vehicle, which is a story of Devil's Island and is titled "Condemned." Later, Totheroh will go to Paramount, where he will do treatments of stories to be made into sound pictures.

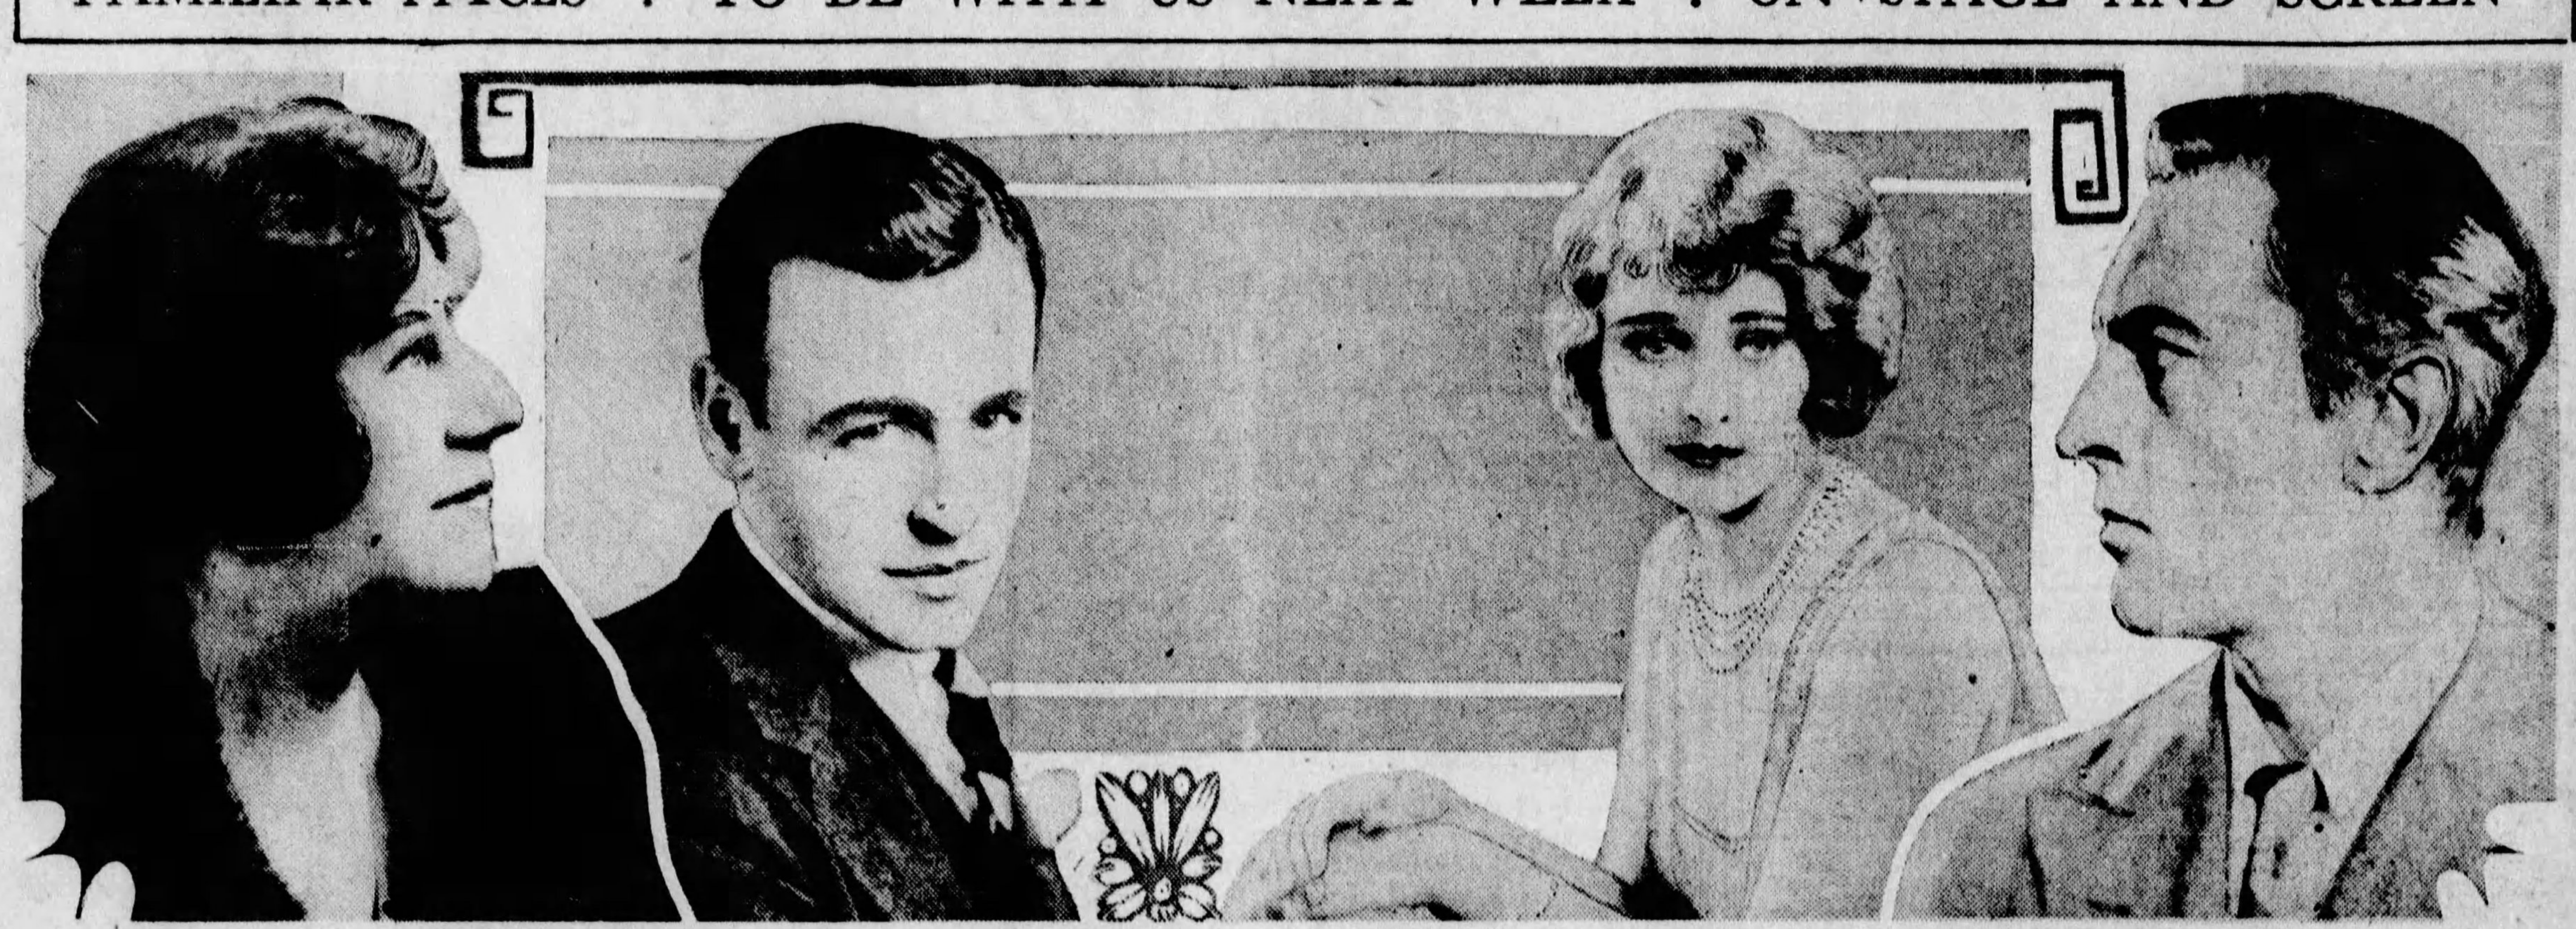
One of the prize jobs of the industry goes to Hector Turnbull, Jesse Lasky's brother-in-law, who quits Pathe to go to Paramount as chief of the story department. This position necessitates trips to Europe in search of material, stays in New York for the purpose of seeing plays and other tasks that are not too arduous from the viewpoint of the casual observer. Turnbull is reputed to be one of the most lovable men in the industry, and is universally popular among the film folk.

Director E. H. Griffith has been assigned to do the megaphone work on "Shady Lady," which stars Phyllis Haver. This is said to be quite a plum, and its bestowal on Griffith is in the way of being an honor. Griffith was recently assigned to do "An Office Scandal," but this was set back on Pathe's schedule. Hence the new vehicle was given him.

Metro has signed a new player who has the unique distinction of being an American. A very real American, too. For Dorothy Janis—that is her name—is an Indian girl. Quite appropriately her first role will be opposite Tim McCoy, the "Western" star in his next picture, "Humming Wires." The story depicts the adventures of the men who strung the first telegraph wires across the country. The company will go to Glacier National Park.

When Lita Grey and Roy D'Arcy finish their respective vaudeville engagements this fall, it is understood that both of them will fill engagements abroad. This is according to the former Mrs. Chaplin. But whether the engagements are for screen or stage she does not say.

FAMILIAR FACES -:- TO BE WITH US NEXT WEEK -:- ON STAGE AND SCREEN



Kathryn Card, one of the Nixon players, is to be seen in "Craig's Wife" in the Nixon next week.

The clever young man, John W. Moore, will assist Mr. Sharp's players in "It's a Boy," coming to the Pitt.

A familiar screen face is that of Dolores Costello. She's coming to the Stanley in "Glorious Betsy."

And you all know John Barrymore. He's the star in "Tempest," next week's photoplay in the Penn Theater.

REGISTRATION OPENS AUG. 30 AT DUQUESNE

The Rev. Dr. Henry McDermott, registrar of Duquesne University announces that preparations are nearly completed for the opening of the University's Preparatory School. New students will be registered Thursday and Friday, Aug. 30 and 31.

The Colleges of Arts, Science and Education will open on September 17, the same day as the School of Pharmacy and Music.

SOLO PRESENTATIONS FEATURE IN SANDERS

Instrumental and vocal solo presentations will mark the last three nightly appearances of Bob Royce and members of his Mid-West orchestra in Sanders. KQV broadcasts the nightly dance music direct from Sanders, it is announced.

NEW COMEDY FOR PITT

"It's a Boy," which the George Sharp Players will present in the Pitt next week, beginning Monday, was first produced in the Harris Theater, New York, by Sam H. Harris. It was a hit from the start, it is said.

Today the seat sale opens at the box office of the Nixon for "Craig's Wife," which will be the stock presentation in that theater next week. Harry Bannister and Marguerite Merrill will have the leading roles.

Chief Caupolican, Indian baritone, tops the three-day vaudeville bill which opens in the Harris today. The photoplay is "Stand and Deliver," with Rod La Rocque.

The Mahon and Scott Revue, featuring an Apache dance presentation, headlines the new vaudeville show opening today in the Sheridan Square. Rod La Rocque will be seen on the screen in "Stand and Deliver."

"Glorious Betsy," based on the romance of Napoleon's brother, Jerome, and featuring Conrad Nagel and Dolores Costello, will open on the Stanley screen Monday.

Next week's stage show in the Penn will be "Pow-Wow," featuring six specialty entertainers and Teddy Joyce's band. The photoplay will be John Barrymore's "Tempest."

The Aldine, under a new policy of presenting sound and talking pictures, will reopen its doors for the new season on Labor Day. The opening feature will be the Fox Movietone presentation, "Street Angel."

Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor play the leads in "Three Ring Marriage," next week's picture in the Grand.

SEEK BABY QUEEN IN BEAUTY CONTEST

A contest to select Pittsburgh's baby queen is being conducted among children of the Pittsburgh district by a group of theaters and the management of the Willows, Oakmont. Children under the age of 12 are eligible to compete, it is announced. Elimination contests are being held at the various theaters participating, the finals will be held at the Willows next Thursday.

ITALIAN CLUB STEWARD SENTENCED TO PRISON

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Albert Vanucci, stewart of the Italian club at Monongahela, in which Federal agents found 18 barrels of beer, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and serve two months in jail by Judge Edwin Cummins. If the fine is paid he will be released in 10 days.

SANDY LAKE-FRANKLIN BUS PERMIT IS ASKED

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 23.—C. E. Vogan and Perry and Crouser have filed applications to operate a bus line between Sandy Lake and Franklin.

MILK THE COW, NOTE OF SUICIDE READS

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 23.—"Come in. I'm sick. Please milk the cow." These words, written on a small piece of paper were found tied to the door of the home of Erie Frederickson, 50, farmer, near here. Neighbors entered and found Frederickson with a bullet wound through his temple. He had been dead 24 hours. Suicide was the verdict of the coroner.

KIN "INTENTIONALLY" OMITTED FROM WILL

"Having intentionally omitted my brother, George H. Algeo, and my sister, Mrs. Rebecca Waldron, of Spirit Lake, Ida.," the will of Mrs. Mary E. Brown, of Carnegie, reads, she left her $6,000 estate to her brother, James Algeo, and her nephew, Stanley F. Neish, of 463 Broadway, Carnegie. The brother gets $1,000 and the nephew the balance of the estate. The will was probated today.

"I am so happy that the last pimple is gone—"

WITHOUT this handicap, there returns the very natural confidence, joy and cherished pride of possessing a clear skin.

Men and women both justly covet admiration, and you can expect such satisfaction only if you are happy in a clear, unblemished skin.

The sure way to reach this state is through the blood.

Red blood cells are Nature's elements for building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

RETURNING to the air after a month's vacation the Hoover Sentinels tonight will resume their 30-minute programs of popular music. They will go on the air at 8:30 o'clock and will be heard over WCAE. Lucy Marsh, soprano, and Lambert Murphy, tenor, will offer two duets—Erno Rapee's "Some Day, Some Where," and Sammy Fain's "There's Something About a Rose." There will be two quartet numbers—"Coquette," by Lombardo, and "Blue Grass," by De Sylva.

Tonight also marks the inauguration of a new series of Gypsy programs to be known as "The Fortune Teller." The first of these new NBC presentations will be heard over WCAE at 9 o'clock. This period formerly was occupied by the Goldman band concerts.

William Carlino, directing a banjo orchestra, will present a program of popular numbers over NBC stations, including KDKA, at 9 o'clock during the Orchestras That Differ broadcast. "Twelfth Street Rag;" Gabriel-Marie's "Serenade Badine;" "Alabama Patrol," by Stahl, and Poldini's "Doll Dance" will comprise the first half of the program. Closing numbers will be "Flaperette" and "Shadowland."

Nathaniel Shilkret will direct an orchestra in a suite of Negro spirituals in his own arrangement during the Maxwell hour over KDKA at 9:30 o'clock. Edward MacDowell's "Indian Suite," based on original American Indian themes, also will be featured. Other selections will be Drigo's "Valse Bluette" and the popular prelude to "Carmen," Bizet's Spanish opera.

"The Caballero's Way," O. Henry's story of a Mexican beauty, a ruthless young murderer and a yellow-haired, ruddy-faced ranger, will be dramatized as the Retold Tales feature at 8 o'clock. KDKA will be in the hookup.

"My dar, I'm all-aSKEW-and-aSKANCE, no less—I mean I'm comPLETEly BAFfled and nonPLUSSED at this point because I HONestly think Arab is POSitively perVERted, my dear, because the other NIGHT, my dear, while I was CASurally STROLLing about the FLOWery MEADS and things in the MOONlight enGROSSED with my b'YUtiful THOUGHTS and all, I SUDdenly heard the most ANguished and horRIFic YOWLS eMERging from this quaint BOSky DELL effect whereupon I discovered a faMILiar-looking HAT and mandoLIN carelessly cast upon the conTIGuous SCENery, my dear, and while I PONdered on this strange coINcidence or something, my dear, WHO should eMERGE from the BUSHes, looking all hot and BOTHered, but ARab—can you COPE with it? Well, ANYways, when I INnocently inQUIRED what all the exCITEment was about at this point, the foul PIPsqueak began CLUTCHing himself TENderly about the BACK and ARMS and whatnot and said: 'Don't ever try to PET when you're SUNburned!' Honestly, my dear, it LAID me an EGG, no less, because I mean I was SIMply RIPping at his FOUL incinerAtion, my dear, because I mean s'pos'n' anybody had HEARD him, my dear! I mean they'd have INstantly conceived the idea that I NECKED or something, do you know what I mean?"

POLICEMAN FOILS MURDER OF 2, SUICIDE

The Prince of Wales ~ His Story.

Indulges in Fist Fight With Classmate and Gets Black Eye

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, heir to the British throne, was born at White Lodge, Richmond, in midsummer of 1894, the son of the Duchess and Duke of York, now King George V. It was in the early days of Queen Victoria's fifty-eighth year of sovereignty, and the first time in history that a queen could look upon a son, grandson and great grandson, all in the direct line of succession to her throne. Guilty of much mischief during his childhood days, he was often punished, When he grew older he was sent to Osborne Naval College.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

EDWARD P.

By WALTER and LEONARD TOWNSEND.

NO LONGER was he "David," but "Edward of Wales." His previous high spirits were somewhat sobered. He might be a very important person in his sister's eyes, and when enjoying games with his brothers at Frogmore; but here were boys who might be able to "whack" him both at lessons and sports. It was only natural that to hide the effect upon his sensitive mind of the new impressions he was receiving, that he should don the mantle of shyness.

PRINCE OF WALES

He had a horror of being ridiculed and was now keenly appreciative that his position differed in every respect from his companions—even, in some degrees, from his brother, Albert, who accompanied him. In a boy of less healthy temperament, the plunging into the "rough and ready" life would have induced the development of a haughty, arrogant and perhaps sulky disposition.

In Prince Edward, however, there was only shyness—shyness and a fear of not being able to "keep up his end."

It was a point of honor in the college that Prince Edward's position and dignity should not give him any precedence over his colleagues. When meals were served during the "break" the Prince had to scramble for his rations, if he were to get any. Hungry boys could not stand on ceremony whether the future King of England had his dinner or not. David was made to leap from his bunk shortly after 6:30 every morning to take his swim.

Throughout his stay at Osborne, the Prince was referred to as "Edward of Wales," and his personal property was labeled "E. of W," while he was referred to by his colleagues in this way.

In Fist Fight

The Prince did not lack spirit despite his apparent shyness. On one occasion during a conversation, Prince Edward referred to "My Grandfather, the King," and because it was considered a violation of the point of honor connected with the Prince's presence at the school, one boy took exception to the reference.

High words followed, and the Prince, losing his temper for once, invited his opponent to fight. The Cadet-Prince put up a very good show, indeed. The fight took place in the dormitory in which the Prince slept and a place was quickly cleared where the combatants would have perfect freedom.

The fight lasted nearly half on hour and it is difficult to say who would have won, because the officer on duty hearing of the affair promptly put a stop to it.

At once the Prince went over to his opponent and the pair shook hands in sporting fashion and to clinch the restoring of good feeling between them, "Edward of Wales" opened a new tuck box he had that day received from his royal mother and shared it with the fellow cadet who so recently had given him a beautiful black eye.

The course of instruction which the Prince received during his two years at Osborne Naval College was thorough and complete. He received training in the various workshops until finally he was passed out as "Cadet Edward of Wales."

During his stay as Osborne he was chosen to play a small part in the affairs of state, but the ordeal was not a heavy one and he carried it off happily.

It was July, 1909, when King Edward and Queen Alexandra were the host and hostess of their nephew and niece, the Emperor and Empress of Russia, and the imperial children. The Czar wished to see something of our navy and expressed a desire to inspect the workshops of the Royal Naval College. Upon Prince Edward developed the duty of showing round the imperial guest. He was so explicit and polite that King Edward was openly amused.

Czar Treats Cadets

When the Prince had shown the Czar over the workshops, dormitories and other buildings where are "made" the officers of the senior service, he led the imperial visitor outside the gates of the college and, managing to get him away from his entourage, led him to the "tuck shop" patronized by the cadets when in funds.

Here the Czar was introduced to all the particular friends of "Edward of Wales," who had been carefully instructed beforehand to be there, as the Cadet Prince shrewdly surmised that "his imperial kinsman would most certainly" stand treat.

In this he was not disappointed and on hour later some half-a-dozen cadets, including "Edward

TOM BODKIN, a former Pittsburgher, who now makes his home in New York, came back for a short visit this week, bringing back with him some of the flavor of the metropolis, and stirring his memory of Pittsburgh when he was younger. He went to New York to become interested in the theatrical game, where he is now associated with the famous Gene Buck. He has a play on his hands, which he will attempt to have produced this season.

Tom told his favorite story about Frank Moran, who, one time, fought Jess Willard for the heavyweight title. Moran went into boxing after having served a "hitch" in the navy. In the navy he was assigned to the presidential yacht, Mayflower, where, through his boxing prowess, he became known to the late President Roosevelt and the Roosevelt family.

MORAN connected up with a New York boxing manager, after he got out of the navy, and the manager assigned him a trainer to take him to a training camp. At the railroad station Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt espied Moran and beckoned to him. Moran went over and spoke for a few moments. Naturally proud of the attention bestowed on him by the famous Mrs. Roosevelt, Moran, returning to his trainer, said: "I was just talking to Mrs. Roosevelt." "What Mrs. Roosevelt?" suspiciously asked the trainer. "Why the wife of the President of the United States." At which, the trainer started backing away and then began moving away faster. He called back: "You're the first boxer I ever saw that was punch drunk before ever gettin' punched. You get yourself another trainer—or a keeper."

Magistrate John Orie, who has to do with reforming quite a few mooney addicts in the hearings at Central station, had that embarrassed feeling the other day when he heard himself hailed at Smithfield street and Sixth avenue, as "the best judge in Allegheny county." Everyone within two blocks heard the laudatory remarks of the speaker, a regular client of the judge's, and at that moment in a condition that presaged a quick return to the court of the judge.

RALPH TANNEHILL, the barrister, and Sam Grenet, the assemblyman from the North Side, had a basket of roasting ears, liver and bacon and onions, and an afternoon off. To a pleasant retreat they took the roasting ears, the liver and bacon and onions, and this little boy. They planned only to eat the corn and the liver, bacon and onions, in case you think they took us along to top off their meal.

Cabbages and kings were discussed and Mr. Grenet entertained with the story of his first experience with a bet on the ponies. He placed a quarter on a horse, at the insistence of a waiter, and came up with almost $20 after the race was over. Since then the process often has been reversed, which is to say, that sometimes Mr. Grenet might put up $20 and get only a quarter back.

He still remembers, although it is more than 45 years ago, the straw hat he got at Gusky's, and the blazing suit and pair of shoes, he got at another store in town, all for a quarter.

Mr. Tannehill recalled a character we wrote of here some months ago. He was a man who tipped bell boys $100 bills and waiters twenties and fifties. "I knew him," said Mr. Tannehill. "In fact, I still remember one 'phone conversation he had with some person in New York. He said: No, no, I wouldn't consider taking less than seven million dollars—not a cent less."

He was the queerest fish to come to town in a long while. He spent around $50,000 and he obviously was planning a coupe here, but he never landed. He finally went away beating his board bill at a local hotel, to which he must have paid $10,000 or $20,000 in the course of a year.

LISTEN TO THE WAVES

REPRESENT HOMESTEAD

These two Homestead girls know now what the wild waves say and how to treat sunburn. This picture shows them taking things easy on the beach at Atlantic City. They're Elizabeth and Marian Wright, of 1109 Ann street.

P. C. KNOX, JR., IS JAILED IN TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Philander C. Knox, Jr., son of the late Pennsylvania Senator, was sent to a cell in the District of Columbia jail today as a result of a series of charges of traffic law violations.

He had walked out of Traffic Court yesterday. His bondsman brought him back today from his summer home at Wild Rose Shore, near Annapolis, and he was locked up when he was unable to furnish a new bond of $1,000 for his appearance next Wednesday to stand trial for reckless driving.

In addition a new charge of passing a street car while the car was discharging passengers was made against him.

PGH. ATTORNEY DEAD

The death of Attorney Archibald D. Wilkin in Cleveland last Tuesday was announced in Criminal Court today by Attorney W. G. Negley. Mr. Wilkin was a member of the Allegheny county bar for 41 years, was state councilor of the Jr. O. U. A. M. seven years and later national councilor. He was born in Coshocton, O., in 1861.

HEARSE RUNS OVER BOY IN STREET IN PORTAGE

PORTAGE, Pa., Aug. 23.—Run over by a hearse today, William Hoper, 6, son of George Hopper, was probably fatally injured. His skull was fractured. He is in a serious condition in a Johnstown hospital.

Girl, 10, Travels Far, Alone, to See Fair

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—A tradition among Greene county residents that "a person can never die happy unless he attended the Jacktown fair" is given as the reason by Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Hurley, of Baltimore, formerly of Jacktown, for permitting their daughter, Novella, 10, to travel alone from Baltimore to Jacktown, where today she is taking in the sights.

The Jacktown fair is one of the few remaining old-fashioned country fairs, and the only one which boasts of a "horse traders' alley." Today marked the opening of the sixty-first annual exhibition.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB LAYS HOOVER CAMPAIGN PLAN

Forty members of the Young Men's Republican Club have announced preliminary plans for mass meetings and other activities to aid the presidential campaign of Herbert Hoover. Hoover's cause was indorsed at a recent meeting of the club at which L. L. Gondleman, president, was made leader of the club's activities in the campaign.

POLICEMAN FOILS 2 MURDERS, SUICIDE

Orville Crum, 47, East Lacock street, was held for court on a charge of felonious shooting by Magistrate John M. Orie in Morals Court today after, it was testified, he had opened fire on Patrolman J. J. Dolan, who halted his effort to commit double murder and suicide at 5038 Lytle street, Hazelwood.

Crum, it was testified, lived at the Lytle street house until a few weeks ago, when he was commanded to leave by Mrs. Margaret Finnegan with whose daughter, Ella, 17, he had been keeping company. The Finnegan family lives on the first floor of the house while Patrolman Dolan occupies the second story.

After an exchange of shots with the patrolman, it was testified, Crum attempted to flee, but was stopped at the door and disarmed by Police Lieut. Thomas Lyons, summoned to the home early today. All the shots went wild.

Magistrate Orie, after hearing the mother's story, advised her to bring serious charges against Crum. Lieut. Lyons testified that Crum confessed intention to kill Mrs. Finnegan, her daughter and himself.

VOTE BUTTON BOOM JARS FAMILY PEACE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The presidential campaign is one cause of a case of marital trouble which has reached the courts. Mrs. R. J. Hirsch, whose business in buttons and banners naturally has been booming, seeks an injunction to restrain her husband from competing with her.

CARPENTERS TO MEET IN JEANNETTE, PA., in '29

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The state council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, in session here, selected Jeannette as the meeting place for 1929. Officers will be elected today.

17 PITTSBURGHERS TO FLY IN ALTOONA RACE SATURDAY

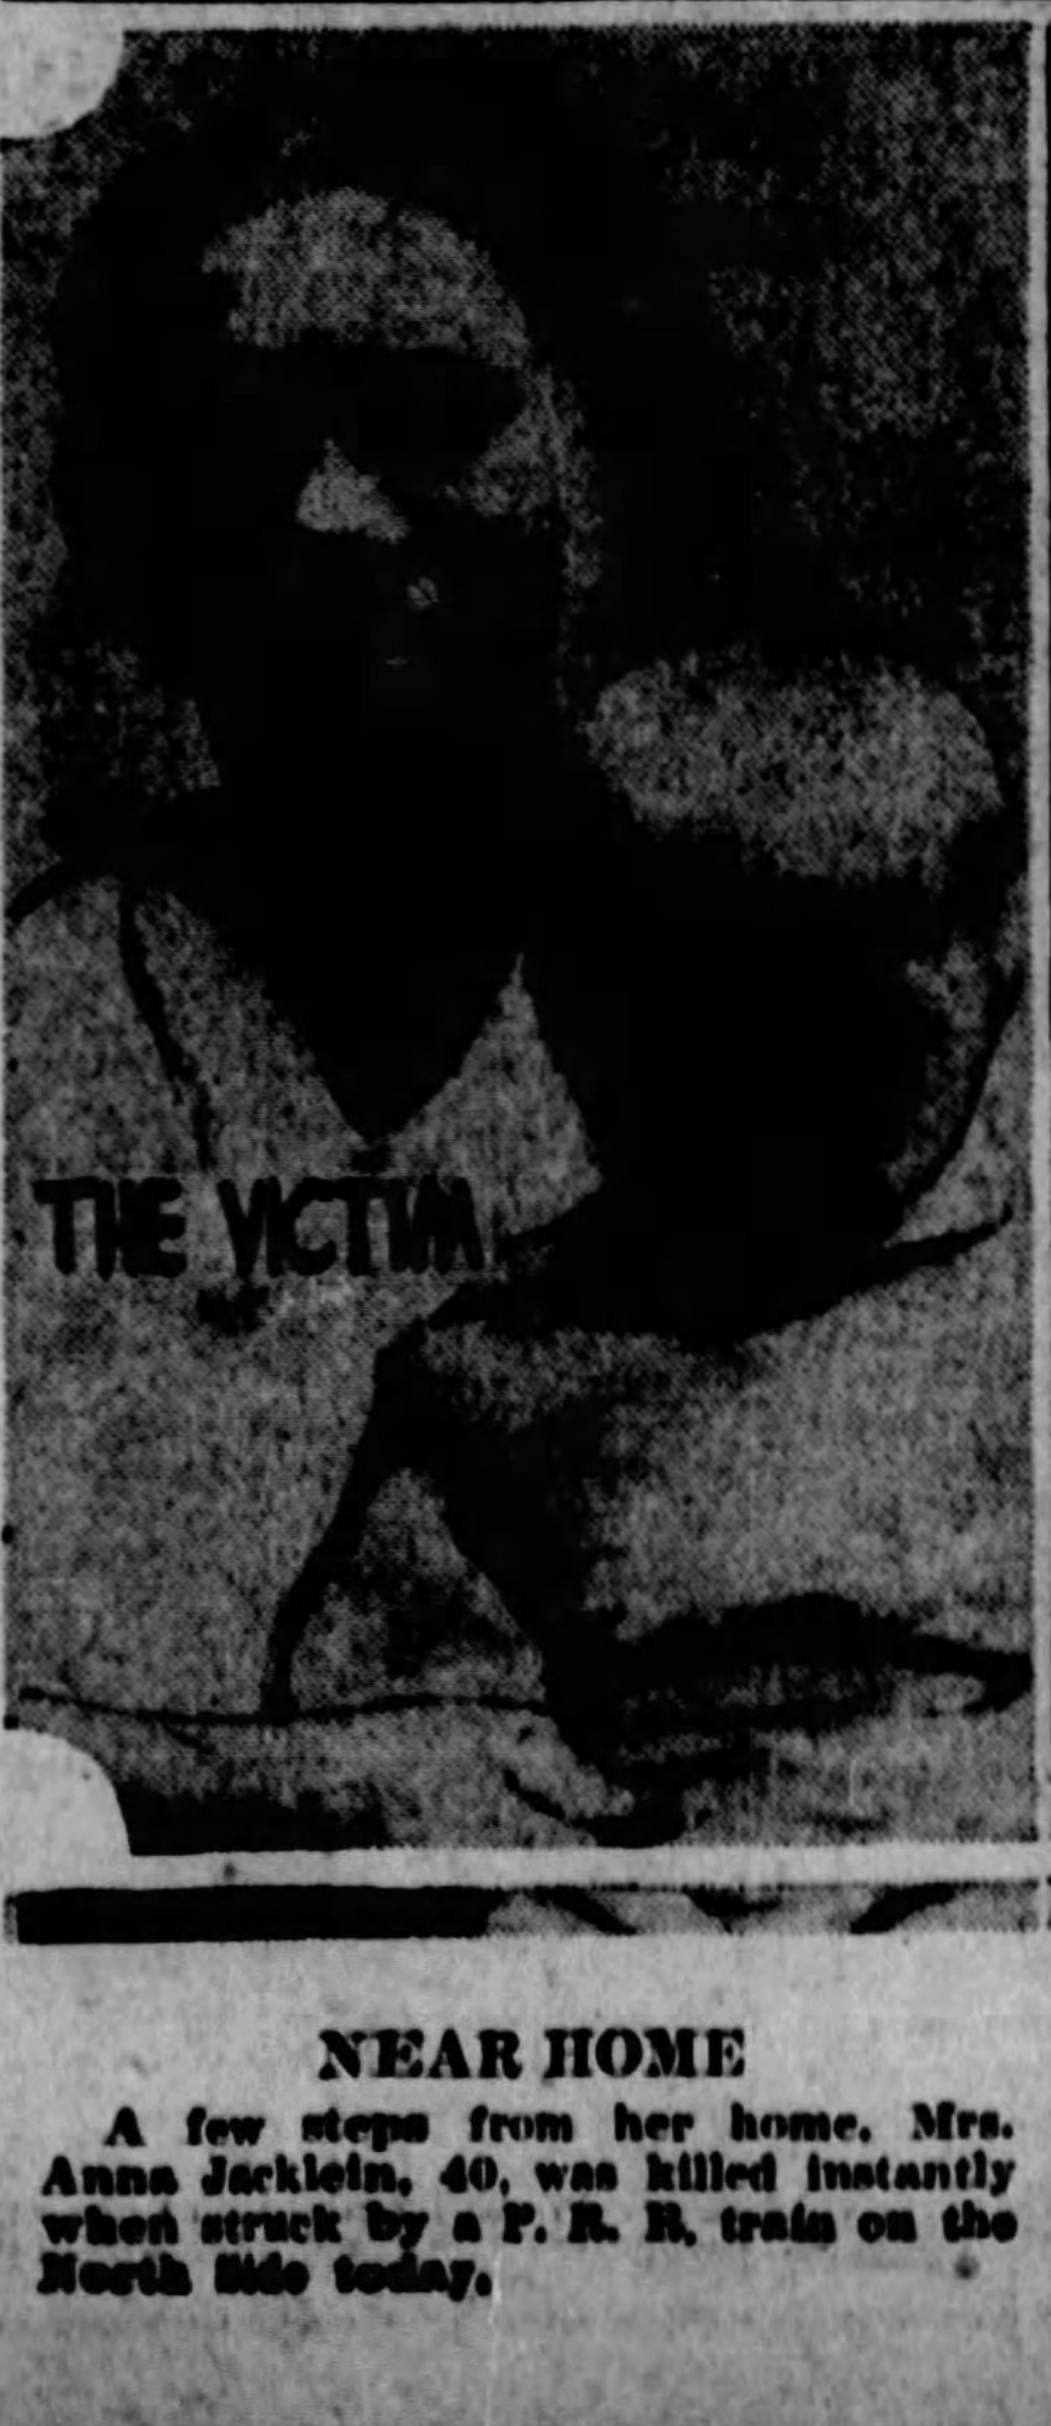
Seventeen Pittsburgh aviators will compete in the Western Pennsylvania air races at Altoona Saturday.

Three events are on the schedule. The first will be a 50-mile free-for-all race with any type of plane. The second will be a 25-mile race for 90-horsepower motored planes, and the third will be a landing-precision contest limited to members of the Three Hundred Twenty-fourth Observation Squadron, Pittsburgh, several of whom will fly over in the planes from the reserve field.

The races are not limited to Pittsburghers, entries having been made from various Western Pennsylvania towns, with others to enter by noon Saturday. A total of $600 in cash prizes will be awarded in the three races.

Pittsburgh pilots entered are: Rodgers Field, M. E. Grevemberg, Ted Taney, Robert E. Dake, Jack Morris and William Austin; Mayer Field, Eddie Schultz, Al Litzenberg and two others; Bettis Field, Capt. Hal Bazley, Jack Fife, Dewey Noyes, Jack Shillito and Kenneth Lovejoy; Three Hundred Twenty-fourth Observation Squadron (Rodgers Field), Capt. John J. Feery, Capt. Louis T. Barry, Capt. Frank McCaffrey, Lieuts. W. J. Snyder, Robert Hancock and Ed Thompson.

MOTHER OF EIGHT, HIT BY TRAIN, DIES INSTANTLY



NEAR HOME

A few steps from her home, Mrs. Anna Jacklein, 40, was killed instantly when struck by a P. R. R. train on the North Side today.

FAMILY MOURNS

Eight children were left motherless in their home at 1128 South Canal street when the mother, returning from a nearby grocery store, was run down by a shifting engine. This picture shows the sons and daughter with their father, taken a few minutes after the fatal accident.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR OWN "TRAFFIC COP?"

RECOGNIZE HIM?

Honestly, now, if you were asked, could you tell the name of the traffic patrolman on your corner, the one who speaks to you when you pass by? The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, if you can't, will help you a bit. Each day there is published the photograph of one of the city's traffic officers. Here is one for today. His name tomorrow!

YESTERDAY'S "TRAFFIC COP" WAS A. E. DENNIS, UNMARRIED, OF 5900 HARVARD STREET, EAST END. HIS CORNER IS HIGHLAND AND CENTER AVENUES. HE HAS BEEN WITH THE TRAFFIC SQUAD FOR FOUR MONTHS.

'BOSSY' GILLIS, SENTENCED TO JAIL AND FINED, APPEALS

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Andrew J. Gillis, "bad boy" and mayor, who was given a jail sentence yesterday, has appealed. Judge Nathaniel N. Jones, in District Court, sentenced "Bossy" to serve 330 days in the House of Correction and ordered him to pay fines aggregating $1,140.

"Bossy," who defied the city authorities by opening a gasoline station in the residential part of the city, heard Judge Jones issue a bitter denunciation of him but at its conclusion, he simply said:

"I appeal."

He was released on his own recognizance for trial in the Superior Court at Salem, next month. "Bossy" declared he was confident he would be victorious at that time.

Four charges, containing 13 counts, were brought against the mayor and he was found guilty on each one. Seven counts of illegally storing gasoline resulted in fines of $700 and 210 days in jail. Four others of illegally selling gasoline added $400 and 120 days in jail, to the sentence.

The mayor was also found guilty on two counts of changing the grading of a street and fined $20 on each count.

"Bossy," resplendent in a new brown suit, said little at his hearing. He interrupted Judge Jones only once to ask whether he could say anything, but the question was left unanswered.

Judge Jones said that the defendant was no stranger in court.

"The mayor," he said, "began his career in court early and progressed as his ego increased. I had hoped that when Andrew became mayor he would change his ways. Now he has not only lowered the standard of his office, but has set a bad example to young persons.

"He's an outlaw; that's what he is, an outlaw. Some communities would know how to handle him. They'd banish him; get rid of him."

RACING DOG REVEALED AS "RINGER" BY BATH

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—There is such a thing as a greyhound changing its spots. After winning a race by 10 lengths at Dunmore Park a dog was given a bath of gasoline and lost a white tip on its tail and white pads on its feet, thereby being revealed as a dog which had raced under another name.

Will Rogers Says

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Aug. 23.

I would have liked to hear Al's speech, but my boys and I are up to the Hopi snake dance,

Al used bad judgment in picking a night for the Tiger to howl when the snakes were dancing.

This dance is an old Indian custom. Almost as old as some of the gags about lower taxes, and better conditions for the poor man and the farmer.

Hoover ought to get all the votes at the dance, for that is no place for a wet.

Here's hoping Al, the static didn't crab you.

Yours, WILL.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Entertaining at Height at Resorts in Virginia Even Though Fall Is Just Around the Corner

IT'S human to relapse into old ways, isn't it? In the fall we talk about Christmas, and suddenly relapse into our old praise of golden autumn. And after talking about fall plans—fall weddings, fall debuts, fall dances, I'm going to slip right back to summer resort news that has attracted me all summer. Anyway, there's no use is there, of looking ahead only? It's much better, don't you think, to live in the present and the future, and for good measure, in the past?

Down in Virginia in some of those resorts popular the year round with society folks, entertaining is at its height even though fall is just around the corner.

And there are a number of Pittsburgh folks at one Virginia resort—Hot Springs. The John S. McCormicks, of Darlington road, gave a luncheon Tuesday there for H. V. Blaxter, of Bennington avenue. And among the Pittsburgh folks at the luncheon were Mary B. Shiras, Dorothy B. Blaxter, MacGilvray Shiras, G. Cook Kimball and H. V. Blaxter, Jr. Sounds a bit like a gathering of Pittsburgh families, doesn't it?

AT Saratoga Springs the great attraction is, of course, the races. Every year Pittsburgh sports lovers slip off to the Springs. The Bovard family has been there for some time. On Tuesday the H. F. F. Bovards entertained in the clubhouse in honor of their house guests Elizabeth Bovard and J. M. Bovard.

THE H. F. Boards, of Greensburg, are seen frequently at the races, too, I've been told.

And the Harrison Nesbits of the Schenley Apartments have taken a cottage there for the races.

THERE'S little likelihood that more wedding dates will be announced until folks come back to the city. Martha Brooks, daughter of the Frank Faber Brooks, will not be back until September from Canada. Her engagement to Alexander Laughlin Robinson, son of the William Christopher Robinsons, was annouaced, I'm quite sure, last month.

ON their way to and from resorts, Pittsburgh folks like to stop over in New York for a few days. I've just heard that Mrs. Anna F. Philput and her daughter Mary, of the Cathedral Mansions, have been at the Hotel Seymour, New York. The Philputs landed in New York after visiting Havana and San Francisco and taking the Panama Canal trip.

CAPTAIN and Cyrus R. Miller, of Sewickley, who have been up along the New England coast, are now in New York, stopping at the Ambassador.

ATLANTIC CITY is another of these all-year-round resorts. The William Watson Smiths have gone to the shore for awhile, and are at the Hotel Chelsea.

A FEW folks have started home already. Margaret McCready, daughter of the Robert T. M. McCreadys, who came out last year, will return home Monday. She's been at Lake Sunappee, New Hampshire, the guest of the Charles J. Ramsburgs.

MR. AND MRS. C. THOMAS, of Overlook drive, Mt. Lebanon, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen Thomas, to William J. McLaughlin, of the East End. The marriage took place on August 11, at St. John's Cathedral, Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin are residing on Overlook drive.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM HOCKENBERRY of Amabell street, Mt. Washington, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gladys Rhea Hockenberry, to John D. McNary, of Crafton and Detroit, which took place August 11 at Detroit. The Rev. D. Carlfelt was the officiant, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sefried were the only attendants. Mr. and Mrs. McNary will reside in Detroit.

THE Greek Cub of Bellevue will hold the fifth of a series of summer dances at the Pines tomorrow.

DR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE WECHSLER are at the new Hotel Broadway View, New York, in the Riverside Park section.

MRS. MARGARET M. STEBLER, of Friendship avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Margaret Mary Stebler, to Harry H. Hill, son of Mrs. Catherine Hill, of Liberty avenue, on Tuesday at St. Mary's Church.

MT. LEBANON FLOWER SHOW WINNERS NAMED

PRIZES won yesterday by garden section members of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club at the garden party and flower show given by the section were as follows: Baked and canned goods, Mrs. G. R. K. Day, rolls; Mrs. S. Y. Free, pie; Mrs. Adolph Krebs and Mrs. I. G. Amsler, cakes; Mrs. Jason E. Stone and Mrs. Amsler, strawberries; Mrs. John W. Lee, peaches; Mrs. Frederick Jones and Mrs. Amsler, pickle relish; arrangement for centerpiece, Mrs. Charles Murray. Roses and perennials—Mrs. George H. Fox, delphinium; Mrs. Charles Morrison, galardia; Mrs. Frederick A. Andresen, asters; Mrs. James S. Huey and Mrs. Stone, roses; annuals, Mrs. C. W. Kenney and Mrs. Fox, zinnia; Mrs. Morrison, phlox; Mrs. Lee, snapdragon; Mrs. Huey and Mrs. Murray, petunias; bulbs, Mrs. H. F. Phillips and Mrs. Frank Root, gladioli; Mrs. Huey and Mrs. Martin S. Ely, lilies; everlastings, Miss Ellen Wilcox and Mrs. Matthew Collins. Members of the club who were not garden section members and who received ribbon awards were Mrs. C. E. Kockenderfer, Mrs. F. V. Cassell, Mrs. Ralph D. Bald, Mrs. George N. Clarke, Mrs. C. W. Scheck, Mrs. J. H. Barnes, Mrs. J. L. Stewart, Mrs. C. E. Ufer and Mrs. C. W. Hatch.

The annual event, which is the second given by the garden section, grew in proportion and scope amazingly over last year's. There was a larger attendance (even from outside Allegheny county), and new features in the way of garden accessories, supper and refreshments were added. The event was held in the gardens of Mrs. Paul Bolger's home on Washington road, an ideal setting. Its great variety of blooms, its lovely lily pool and numerous other beauty spots, afforded as much interest and attracted almost as much attention as the garden show features. Mrs. Bolger is chairman of the section, and Mrs. Stone served as program chairman for the show.

COMMITTEES which will serve the Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg next season are: Program, Mrs. W. D. Sleppy, Mrs. J. H. McCulloch, Mrs. G. F. Martin, Mrs. F. Clyde Young, Mrs. S. H. Carmack, Mrs. Everett McCandless, Mrs. J. E. McCoy, Mrs. Glenn Stoltz, Mrs. S. H. Huselton, Mrs. T. B. Schroeder, Mrs. H. W. Berkley; legislative, Mrs. J. W. Jennings, Mrs. R. M. Craig, Mrs. C. R. Beall; civic, Mrs. A. L. Schieber, Mrs. R. D. Evans, Mrs. C. C. Cain, Mrs. C. J. Holt; press, Mrs. George Martin, Miss Ida Carmack, Mrs. W. D. Brown, Mrs. Everett McCandless; finance, Mrs. A. R. Brandt, Mrs. C. L. Rogers, Mrs. William Goldie, Mrs. J. D. McKee; music, Miss Charlotte Atkinson, Mrs. C. R. Beall, Mrs. R. M. Craig, Mrs. A. B. Ledwith. The board of censors includes Mrs. H. R. Craig, Mrs. A. K. Wetzig, Mrs. Clyde Young and delegates to the Congress will be Mrs. S. H. Loomis, Mrs. S. T. Sample and Mrs. William Barron.

MRS. H. D. STARK, president of the Outlook Alliance, is summering on the family farm near Bakerstown. Mrs. E. B. Heyser, another Alliance member who had been at Chautauqua with Mr. Heyser and their daughter, Betty, came home Sunday night.

* * *

MRS. W. B. CARSON will give a musicale tea at Utility Hall on September 20 as a benefit for the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club and on September 15 Mrs. George J. Campbell will entertain with a card party at "Oak Hills Farm," her home, near Gibsonia, for the same purpose. At a luncheon meeting of the board and committee heads, held at the home of Mrs. Laura Z. Charlton, a memorial scholarship to Miss Jeannette Eaton, one of the founders of the club, was voted on.

* * *

MRS. GEORGE L. CARSON, retiring president of the Homewood Women's Club, is with Mr. Carson at Wolfe Island, Canada, and will not be home until early next month. Mrs. Arthur W. Leech, the new president, accompanied by her family, was in Canada earlier in the summer and has only recently returned from Cleveland.

* * *

MRS. PHILIP KUSSART, retiring president of the Woman's Historical Society, is making short motor trips this summer, one of these having been to her former home in Fayette county. Mrs. Jay Turner, presidentelect, is with her Turner, president-elect, is with her the latter's cottage in Chautauqua. Mrs. Harry Ross, another member of the society, returned this week from Groose Isle, near Detroit, where she and her husband had been visiting for three weeks.

CRASH WINDOW, 2 MEN HELD

A large window valued at $300 in the Harris Department Store, Liberty avenue, was shattered early today, police say, by two men who jostled one another about on the sidewalk and fell against the pane. The men, Clurg Shelton, 24, of 818 Western avenue, and Thomas McInerney, 30, of 408 South Graham street, were arrested on disorderly conduct charges.

BEECHVIEW MAN SHOT WHILE HANDLING GUN

Shot accidentally while handling a revolver early today, Albert Peters, 34, of 2719 Shiras avenue, Beechview is in South Side Hospital in a critical condition. The shooting took place while Peters was sitting in an automobile parked in front of his home. According to Lieut. Paul Berman, Peters and Carl Strickler, of 613 Gehring avenue, were seated in the machine. Lieut. Berman questioned both men and reported the shooting as accidental.

CANAL SWIMMING AUTHOR ESCAPES ALLIGATOR PERIL

PANAMA, Aug. 23.—(AP.) Trailed by alligators and forced to grease his body to protect himself against the cold waters, Richard Halliburton, American author, reached the first gate of Pedro Miguel Locks yesterday in a swim through the Panama Canal.

He hoped to conclude the journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific this afternoon. He swam 30,000 feet through Gaillard Cut yesterday against a current running toward Gatun Lake.

An Army marksman accompanying the author along the banks of the canal kept the alligators at a distance. He shot and probably killed one of the alligators.

When Halliburton reached Pedro Miguel lock he was greeted by approximately 2,000 persons. He was exhausted from the hard fight against the current, which during the last half hour rendered progress almost impossible.

Halliburton complained that, even though he greased his body, he suffered from the intensely cold waters.

WOMAN CIVIL WAR PRISONER, 90, DIES

WOODSFIELD, O., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Mary J. Devore, 90, who was a prisoner in the South during a few months of the Civil War while serving as a nurse with the Union army in which her husband, John W. Devore, was a soldier, is dead here. All her sons, Gen. D. B. Devore, of Washington; Col. J. H. Devore, of Chicago, and Sergt. S. G. Devore, of Akron, served in the World War.

She couldn't tell him the trouble was "B.O."
(Body Odor)

Snubbed again—

but he won her when he learned what was wrong

He was dumbfounded! To be cut dead like that by her—the one girl he cared for! Why had she done it?

He didn't know then—but that very evening an advertisement caught his eye. It told about "B.O." —Body Odor! It explained that no one is safe from this unpardonable fault; and that the offender seldom suspects he is guilty.

Perhaps that was it. He had noticed that lately many people looked at him queerly whenever he approached them. He was sure he had learned the secret.

Today this same chap is a great favorite everywhere. And he has won the girl who snubbed him. Read how he found that the simple way to overcome his handicap was delightful, too.

Body odor needless now

"I first got Lifebuoy as a deodorizing toilet soap to guard against body odor. But we liked it so well that soon the whole family was using it for all toilet purposes.

"Lifebuoy gives so much lather, is so cleansing and invigorating. After a Lifebuoy bath, you feel clean, refreshed—no fear of 'B.O.'

Fine for complexions, too

"Lifebuoy's gentle, antiseptic lather is splendid for the skin, too. My sister's complexion looks much softer and smoother since she started using Lifebuoy. We also feel that Lifebuoy helps protect our health because it removes germs.

"And Lifebuoy is such a clean-smelling toilet soap. This clean scent vanishes as soon as you rinse."

Try Lifebuoy a week and you, too, will use it for life. Get some today.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ione Farr, just out of high school, gets a position with Max Weimar, a music publishing house in New York. Her chum, Marie Karey, is engaged to Palmer Elliott, a young lawyer, whom she later marries. She is always holding up as a model Ione's married sister, Jenepher, who has a small son and also holds a fine position in a smart New York shop. Benz, Weimer's office manager, takes Ione to Tin Pan Alley, where she meets the famous song writer, Wolfie Speed. Ione falls in love with Alan Blake, an accompanist, and they plan to be married as soon as Blake can support her. She is inclined to be jealous of Fluff Harwick, a new girl in the office. She feels that Jenepher is proving that a wife cannot hold down a job and run a household and do both successfully. She tries to be nice to Fluff, but the latter repulses her and she has her first quarrel with Blake on account of her. At Marie's house for dinner they learn all about a 50-50 marriage. Benz makes further plans to advance Ione. He tells her jobs are not handed out through friendship but ability. Alan is made branch manager for his firm and gets a raise. He urges Ione to marry him at once. Ione insists, however, on giving her employer notice and the day is set for the wedding. Alan arrives and finds Ione in her bridal attire awaiting him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"DEAREST, dearest—"

She was radiant when her sister came back. "I'm glad to see you've got a little life, finally," said Jenepher. "What do you think your bouquet is? White violets! He must have moved heaven and earth for them. Now for goodness' sake stand still a minute!"

She was ready at last. A little figure in white satin, slim and smooth as a lily, veil like an angel's garment. In every dream she had seen herself so. Hair like carved jet under the streaming whiteness, face sweetly flushed.

And the song in her heart—ah, the glory of that solemn, voiceless thing!

Laughing April sunlight poured down Hillside avenue and upon the little stone church; they were playing the chimes this morning. Why, it was "Oh, Promise Me!" Ringing out softly for her and Alan! She slipped her hand into Janey's; smiled at Tom.

Now they were in the anteroom; through the swinging doors she saw the altar behind a rainbow of spring flowers. Seats filled—well, she'd forgotten it would be that way. There was Tom and there Marie—oh, everybody had come!

A sudden, waiting hush. Then the wedding march, a burst of glad triumph, began to tumble from the organ loft. Jenepher pressed her arm; heads turned; Ione moved forward, a young bride walking in beauty up the aisle.

Alan, so solemn-faced, loving her with his eyes! Tom all ready to give her away; Spooks Hill gripping the ring. And the muted organ notes running like a silver thread through the stately ceremony.

The sweeping joy of the march again; her hand on Alan's arm; now he was pressing it against his side, the darling! Going down the aisle, out the door and out into the April sunshine. Alan's wife!

There was a happy, informal gathering at the Farr home. Ione's school friends came to chatter and make eyes at Johnny Payne and Kay Wilkie, who pretended to be heart-broken.

Janey's old friends beckoned the bride aside, one after the other, to give her advice, while Tom took their husbands down cellar and opened wine he had made in the autumn of Jenepher's wedding.

Now it was afternoon and Ione slipped up to her room. The little new suit was all ready—water green with gray fox at the wrists and throat—and the small, green hat with the tinsel dagger through the front.

It had taken most of her two hundred dollars to buy these and the lovely wedding gown, even with Jenepher's discount. But worth it, she thought, smiling at herself in the glass. She could say, as Marie had said, that it probably would be her last extravagance for at least 10 years!

Alan waited for her at the foot of the stairs; she ran down to him, laughing. Voices clamored; there were shouts, farewells, the sharp clatter of rice on the windows of the car.

Then they were heading up the State road, running over the hills on the west shore of the Hudson and north to the Storm King highway. She snuggled down in the seat with her face brushing his arm; he kept calling her "Mrs. Blake" and grinning at her blushes.

He turned the car into a narrow road far above Central Valley. The road went zigzag up a mountain, standing quite on end some of the way it seemed to Ione. Trees grew on either hand, but sometimes the car came out on a shelf with the living rock straight up into the sky on one side and nothing at all on the other.

"Nervous, Frills! Not far, now. You see I'm taking you where I'll have you all to myself for the next week. Think you can stand me that long?" With a quick, teasing glance at the dark head.

She snuggled closer for her answer.

They came, suddenly, to a wide, level space hemmed about with firs. There was a sprawling log building in the center, windows all lighted. He stopped the car and kissed her. "Like it? It's the Lone Trail Inn. Think you'll be happy here?"

She was all bright exultance. "Gorgeous! Why, you can see the whole world! Oh, I love it—and you!"

Evenings there was the roaring grate with the huge antlered head above it and the drift of bear skin rugs spread in the soft warmth. After a leisurely dinner he would open the old-fashioned piano and play for her, not the things he pounded out in the studios, but tender songs, every one crooning a message of love to her heart.

She would think sometimes, watching his light head always turned toward her, that whatever trial might come into their future would be softened and discounted by the recollection of these perfect days.

She was to remember that thought one day.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THEY were going to visit Alan's family before they went back to the city. Ione thought of it with a little nervous flutter, yet eagerly.

"Oh, I hope they will love me, Lanny! If they shouldn't I'd die! You think they will? Especially your mother?"

"They'd just better! Why shouldn't they love anyone so sweet and beautiful? You're not worrying about that, Frilly-frills?"

She wasn't, she told herself. Alan's mother had written her a friendly letter explaining that they could not come to the wedding, but inviting the young folks "home" for as long as they could stay. Yet Ione would enter the Blake home as a stranger; she would be on inspection, naturally enough.

Father and Mother Blake would be different from Tom and Janey; not so homely and unpretentious as her own people. She had gathered from what Alan told her, all unconsciously, that they had built upon a vanished fortune a legend of grandeur and managed, with almost no trouble, to convince tradespeople that it was an honor to be owed by the Blakes.

Alan and Ione rode down the mountain, looking back regretfully at the Lone Trail Inn.

"But don't mind, Io. We'll come here again. Supposing for our first anniversary? We'll have our own car about then, won't we? Nothing I can't get, now I have you!"

She murmured "Darling Lanny," and thrilled to the thought of their united destiny.

Across Bear Mountain they went, marveling at the lordly sweep of river and hills; through Peekskill and east to the Boston Post Road. It was a short run up to the old-fashioned house that stood in the wide grounds outside New Haven. Aloof and stately it seemed to Ione; yet even her first glance told her it was crumbling, in need of a few hundred dollars' worth of paint and repairs.

WATER BABIES—TRUE AND FALSE

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"I JUST love the water!" sang Dot.

"I just love the water!" sang Amourette.

One said it with her hands clasped around brown knees, swinging a foot clad in a flat-heeled black and white sportie. And pushed her hair back with a casual hand.

The other said it with her hands laid on a silken knee, pointing a blush-rose satin slipper with a spike heel. And felt carefully of a wax spit-curl before her ear.

The young man, with a love for the water himself, although he looked no Olympic champion, decided the first sunny day to find out what they meant by "I just love the water!"—that song.

And he found out that, as in many scientific research excursions, that there are more than one variety of a thing, particularly a true and a false.

Dot was a real water-baby, and she really loved it.

Amourette was a false water-baby, and she loved it, too.

But look how differently they went to it! And see how differently they loved it! Dot made friends with it. And Amourette dressed for it. Dot raced with the finny tribes. And Amourette leaned her cigaret holder on the house of a clam and did not know he was in it. If she had she would have posed for him, too.

The young man who liked the water admired Dot, perhaps, the most—but he couldn't help LOOKING at Amourette!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

EVERY MAN HATES A CREDITOR

THE one thing that a man does not appreciate in a woman is generosity. Nothing makes a regular he-man feel so sore and secretly resentful toward a woman as to be under "obligations" to her—to have to feel "grateful" to her.

It fills him with an inferiority complex! It eats into his pride and his amour propre and corrodes his love.

Tenderness, toleration, consideration, the kind of generosity that makes a woman overlook his lapses, forgive all his little sins, and spend her days in sweet self-sacrifice, he expects and admires.

But when she attempts to play fairy godmother to him, to invite him to expensive dinners, bestow expensive presents on him or even to pay her own cab fare or to help him through his financial difficulties, he regards it as an insult to his HE-ness. And, even when he accepts it, he hates her for it.

No fortune-hunter ever really loved the woman who showered him with luxuries and favors and kept him in ease and idleness, like a pet Pomeranian on a satin cushion.

Nothing so bores or nauseates the average man as to receive a handsome gift from a woman who owes him nothing. She may have put all the thoughtfulness and sentiment in the world into her gift—but, by the time it reaches him, it looks more like a threat or a bait than like a love-offering.

He may understand a girl's generosity in refusing to let him take her to expensive places; but he cannot understand the kind that makes her offer to pay half the dinner check.

He can appreciate the liberality that makes her forget a broken date or a forgotten appointment—but not the kind that insists on providing the car and furnishing the opera tickets.

• • •

The woman a man loves and cherishes most, is the one who elects him fairy godfather and keeps him busy waiting on her, running errands, lifting things for her, putting on tires and DOING THINGS for her.

To DO things for a "little woman" fills him with tenderness and a glowing sense of his own bigness and importance. The kind of wife he loves best and longest is the one who manages to appear helpless, and to make him feel that she would probably perish without his big strong arms to sustain her. And the kind he hates, is the one who is eternally reminding him of her sacrifices and of how much he OWES HER.

Every man hates a creditor—particularly a woman-creditor!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, August 24

GENERALLY adverse conditions obtain on this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. Although the faculties and forces will be high-pitched and aggressive, they will encounter tenacious obstacles which may not be circumvented by irascibility of tumultuous conduct. Precaution, deliberation and a general attitude of quiet self-control may assist to bridge the conflicting situation.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a trying year, with obstacle and difficult situations, which the inherent tendency to strife, aggressiveness and general recklessness will not assist. Calm deliberation and precaution may bridge over adverse and thwarting conditions, which may also have reactions in the personal affiliations.

A child born on this day may be predisposed to be rash, reckless and headstrong and may be inclined to surmount many difficult places in life by turbulence and violence.

They that stand high have many blasts to shake them.—SHAKESPEARE.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

Katie Finds the Locket and Gives It to Madge

IT took all my self-control to keep the startled interest out of my face and eyes as Katie dramatically drew her hand from behind her and dangled before me the thin gold chain with its pendant, which I had last seen around Eleanor Lincoln's neck. With the conviction that my garrulous little maid must not guess my eagerness to examine the ornament, I put out my hand calmly and took the beautiful bauble, asking quietly:

"Where did you find this, Katie?"

"On the floor of hall after dot telephone her aunt vos dying und you go home by her," Katie returned. Her voice had the sullen note which always invests it when one of her melodramatic suggestions is received without enthusiasm.

"But there is nothing strange about this, Katie," I argued. "It is the chain Miss Lincoln always wears around her neck, and she changes the pendant with every gown she wears."

"Sure ting," my little maid retorted loftily. "You tink I don't know dot? I see dose different tings efery time she coom by us, und I tink she haf pretty mooch jewelry und I vonder how she get so mooch. But, look—do you see dees? All time she have two tings hanging down, from chain—one outside her dress vich she change, und dees oder vun inside. Und shoost look at dees. I don't know mooch but I know dees ting vort more dough dan dees whole farm—und—look at picture inside! You tink dot girl haf dot geef to her? Not in million years. She steal dees ting, I tell you. She one of gang of jewel tieves. Ve all be murdered in our beds, I tell you."

It would be fatal to laugh, I knew that, but I controlled my risibles with difficulty, for my little maid is almost irresistibly laugh-provoking when she gives rein to her movie-fed imagination. The next instant, however, all desire for laughter left me, for Katie had put her hand upon the pendant which Eleanor Lincoln had kept hidden and pressed her finger upon a catch which opened at the touch and disclosed an exquisitely-painted miniature of one of the most beautiful and most widely known faces in the world.

The sight of that face in its costly setting, the knowledge that Eleanor Lincoln had worn it next her heart and was constantly testing its safety with nervous, groping fingers, suddenly threw open a door of conjecture so startling that I almost let the miniature fall to the floor. But I knew that above all things I must not let Katie suspect the staggering theory which had come to me. There was but one thing to be done and that was to placate her by pretending to believe the ridiculous explanation of Miss Lincoln's behavior which she had evolved.

"You may be right, Katie," I said slowly, trying to keep as far as possible from direct assertion. "But if you are, you realize, don't you, that there might be awful consequences if you talk to anyone else about this. We must not put them on their guard, must we?"

Katie brightened perceptibly.

"Now you talking," she said enthusiastically. "Und you bet your boots I say nodings to nobody. I promise you dot, honest true, black and blue, hope to die—'

"That's right," I interrupted, cutting short the flow of childish vows which she had picked up with her assortment of American slang phrases. "I don't want you to mention this to anybody until I give you permission, not even to Jim."

"Oh! heem!" My little maid's tone consigned her husband to the outer limbo of intelligence. "I tell dot Jeem nodings. But look-it! You say you not vant to put dem on guard. Vot dot Lincoln vomans tink ven she find out dot locket gone? Tell me dat, vunce!'

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.
U.S. Senator From New York

Little Spots in Baby's Mouth

I ASKED a young farmer friend of mine about his baby. "He has the sprue,' he replied. This is the name commonly given in the country for sore mouth of babies.

DR. COPELAND

Real sprue is a disease of the tropics and of the Orient. It has inflammation and ulcers of the tongue and mouth lining. In this respect it is not unlike the symptoms of what the doctors call aphthous sore mouth" or "stomatitis." The same word is used for the condition known to the medical profession as "thrush." This is simply another form of stomatitis.

The simple type of stomatitis is met in all the age groups. In grown people there may be a single ulcer or a crop of them. These are known as cankers.

Aphthous stomatitis is recognized by the tiny swollen spots on the lining of the lips and cheeks and on the edge of the tongue. At first they are like little blisters, but pretty soon they break, leaving small ulcers.

Thrush differs from aphthous sore mouth. Instead of the ulcers, a sort of membrane forms on the lining of the lips and cheeks and also on the roof of the mouth. They are slightly raised above the surface and in color pearly white. It is possible to scrape off the membrane which cannot be done in aphthous stomatitis.

All these disturbances of the mouth and tongue are due primarily to uncleanliness or to wrong feeding. They are rare in well-developed and usually healthy babies. On this account, poorly nourished and debilitated children are more liable to attack.

Prevention is better than cure in respect to all human ills. But it is doubly true of what we may call the digestive ailments of children. Nine-tenths of the disabilities of babies can be traced to neglect of the simple precautions necessary to proper infant feeding.

Unclean spoons, unclean feeding bottles, unclean utensils used in the preparation of the feedings, uncleanliness of mother's fingers—some form of neglect is at the foundation of the trouble.

Let me say at once that this is not wilful or knowing neglect. Invariably it is due to lack of knowledge. Mothers are the most wonderful of God's creatures, and whenever they are taught, they will never, never overlook to apply the most studied attention to the needs of their babies.

In sore mouth, an alkaline mouth wash is useful. Limewater or a solution of bicarbonate of soda can be used. Add a teaspoonful of the soda to a glass of water. Or borax may be employed in the same proportions.

A piece of soft cloth, or the finger wrapped with absorbent cotton, may be used to wash the little mouth. This must be done tenderly because it is very sore. This treatment is repeated every hour or two.

The food intake must be regulated and the doctor will prescribe appropriate treatment to build up the general health.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. Q.—What causes a buzzing in the head, particularly at night when I lie down?

A.—This may be due to high blood pressure, or nasal catarrh, which has extended to the middle ear. Have blood pressure tested.

P. H. Q.—What causes large rings under the eyes and how can this condition be corrected?

A.—May be due to intestinal disturbances worms or loss of sleep. Examination will determine the necessary treatment. Keeping the system clear may bring about improvement.

of Wales," strolled back to the college with satisfied grins on their faces—while the Czar returned to the Czarina complaining bittery of indigestion!

The Prince did not go out of his way to make friends as did his grandfather, though he shared King Edward's democratic taste in preferring the man before the title. During his stay at Osborne the Prince made friends from among his classmates. These friends the Prince chose not because of their particular outstanding brilliance but because he liked them for their modest outlook upon life.

At this early age the Prince showed his dislike of anything that appertained to "swank." His father once wished to make some modest presents to his son's intimate friends as any father might have wished to do. "E. of W." vetoed the idea. "Don't do that," protested the young Prince, "the other fellows never give each other presents and they'll think it such awful side." His father smilingly gave way.

In 1909 the Prince continued his training at Dartmouth. The Prince soon became a popular figure in the naval school; his progress in his nautical studies was more rapid, and he soon became one of the most advanced pupils in the center.

Participate in Sports

The Prince also found more time in which to indulge in his love of sport than he had at Osborne and, being two years older, was now competent to take part in certain pastimes which had hitherto been denied him. He became whip of the Beagles and made a local fame for himself as a cross-country runner.

During a few days' vacation he shot his first partridge on Wolferton Marshes, near Sandringham. The bird was stuffed by Mr. Clark, the taxidermist, and then the Prince presented it to the King's gamekeeper, Mr. Jackson. But the Prince did not take very kindly to "killing" sports and has never found in shooting the fascination which King Edward enjoyed.

One of the secrets of the Prince's thoroughness lies in the fact that he mixes, discriminately, pleasure and duty. He is a firm believer in the idea that in order to do the best in one direction, the other must have a full share of consideration.

Prince Edward's naval training, valuable though it proved, was of lesser importance compared with the benefits he received from mixing freely with other young men. The Prince was not slow to study the different types of fellows with whom he came into contact. There were arrogant sons of wealthy aristocrats who would have fastened themselves on to him. But Edward had little to do with these. Indeed, he had wisdom and aptitude beyond his years and preferred the sober-minded, generous spirited young men who would join him in a cross-country run which he likes nowadays when public duties will allow), or talk shop during leisure walks. He never did care for the "worldy man-about-town" type.

The Prince was at Dartmouth at the time of his grandfather's untimely end. He relinquished his studies for a time to pay his last respects to the late King of whom he cherished so many happy memories from childhood days. In his uniform of a naval cadet, the young Prince with his brother Albert followed the coffin on foot.

Never an Iron on My Hair

Wherever my theatrical engagements happen to take me I could have a marcel, but I never do. I prefer my own method—waving my hair with my Wave and Sheen.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

I always keep my hair clean by shampooing once a week. I apply Wave and Sheen with a comb. You can use a brush or just your hands.

I dampen the hair with it—insert combs in the direction I wish the waves, tie a veil over my hair and keep it on for about an hour. Some types of hair require more time, some less.

The result is a soft, lovely undulating wave. Most people in my audiences think I have it marceled. Many ask whether it is a natural wave. It is not.

You can have this same sheen no matter what method you use to wave your hair. Get a bottle at any toilet counter for 75 cents. One trial will convince you as it has thousands of others.

BIG BILL PRESENTS DEFENSE TO PREXY

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—"Business" will keep William T. Tilden from attending tomorrow's meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association which is to consider the charges against him of violating the amateur player-writer rule. He already has presented his defense, however. In a letter to Samuel H. Collom, president of the association, Tilden denies any intention of violating either the letter or spirit of the rule.

In the letter, which he requested Collum to present at the meeting, Tilden gives his opinion of his articles on the Wimbledon championships which caused his disbarment from the Davis Cup team, to which he was later reinstated. He also offers the suggestion that to prevent such happenings in the future it should be the rule that no Davis Cup team could write while he was a member of the team.

Tilden's letter, in part, follows:

"I state that I did not intentionally violate or attempt to evade the spirit or letter of the rule and that to the best of my knowledge the articles under dispute do not violate the rule. These articles were written by me and were intended to be comment articles of an editorial nature concerning the playing form of the Americans at Wimbledon and were mainly to give an idea of how our men were shaping up toward the Davis Cup matches."

"I give my word that there was no attempt to evade or come close to evading the rule. I have read the case against me closely and while I do not agree with the interpretation of the rule which is placed on it by the committee that any allusion to a tournament while it is in progress constitutes a violation, I do agree that once granting that premise the articles violate the interpretation. Since that is so I can but reiterate that any violation is a technicality and debatable but certainly was one of ignorance and not of deliberate intent."

Concerning his proposed policy for the Davis Cup team, Tilden says, "I am inclined to believe that if the policy of the Davis Cup team was clearly set down that no member could write while a member of the team abroad it would relieve any chance of a repetition of this incident. It should be clearly stated if such a policy is put in effect that it is a team policy only and in no way a matter of amateurism or professionalism."

Reach Semi-Finals In Bedford Play

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., Aug. 23.—S. Jarvis Adams, Jr., former Pittsburgh racquet ace, led the Southern Pennsylvania men's singles field in the semi-final round on the Bedford Springs Hotel rectangles here yesterday, downing Rufus Cooper, Johnstown star, who was runner-up in the local tilting a year ago, in bracket two and continuing in stride to account for James Egan of Altoona, Adams crashed through two quite formidable opponents with the loss of but three games. Adams' deep and hard hit forehand, combined with steady and heady play in all departments, turned the dual trick.

Three other Steel City citizens, Dave and John O'Loughlin and Paul Sullivan, all of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association squad, have survived to the quarter finals. Dave O'Loughlin outdrove his fellow Pittsburgher, Irving Goodman, of Peabody High School, to breeze in ahead, 6-0, 6-2, while John flashed hits of the most effective tennis he has displayed in months to blank H. C. Stewart, Jr., Altoona. Luminary and conqueror of Jack Evans, of Harvard. Sullivan was pressed to nose out Charley Thackara, Germantown Cricket Club youth, on the latter's error. John Brown, Latrobe and Connellsville driver, rounds out the round of eight list as far as the Pittsburgh district is concerned, though Jim Yon, rangy Altoonan, is likewise in the going and the survivor of an unfinished contest between Roth, of Mercersburg Acadamy, and John Larson, another Altoona entry, will ease into the select circle today. Brown overwhelmed W. J. Fay, Altoona veteran, 6-0, 6-1.

Rose Straub, diminutive Johnstown girl and defending champion, whisked nearer to a second crown by dint of victories over Edith Sherwood, of Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-0, and Lizzette McDonnell, of Fall Timber, 6-0, 6-1. Miss Sherwood served 20 double falls. Elsa Jahns, demure Westmont lass, registered the upset of the day with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Ruth Lynn, driving Cumberland satellite and second seeded entrant. Miss Straub and Miss Jahns have thus passed into the semi-finals along with Mary McDonnell, who downed Ruth Thackara, of Philadelphia, and Elizabeth Greer, of Westmont.

The summary:

SINGLES.

Round one—James Egan defeated E. R. Coyler, 6-1, 6-2; Irving Goodman defeated John Seeds, 6-1, 6-4; C. W. Thackara defeated J. Philip Roman, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Round Two—S. Jarvis Adams, Jr., defeated R. F. Cooper, 6-0, 6-1; Egan defeated Larry Dught, 6-0, 6-4; J. A. Yon defeated George Notopoulos, 6-0, 6-2; David O'Loughlin defeated Goodman, 6-0, 6-2; J. R. Brown defeated W. J. Fay, 6-0, 6-1; P. G. Sullivan defeated Thackara, 6-2, 6-4; John O'Loughlin defeated H. C. Stewart, Jr., 6-1 6-0.

Round Three—Adams defeated Egan, 6-1, 6-1.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Round One—Rose Straub defeated Edith Sherwood, 6-0, 6-0; Lizzett McDonnell, won from Ruth Martinez by default; Evelyn Claybrook won from Louise Omwake by default; Mildred Miller defeated Mrs. W. V. Winchester, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5; Elizabeth Greer won from Marian Wells by default; Mary McDonnell defeated Ruth V. Thackara, 7-5, 6-3; Elsa Jahns defeated Margaret Coulehan, 6-0, 6-0; Ruth Lyonn won from Mrs. Henry Pritchard by default.

Round Two—Miss Straub defeated Miss L. McDonnell, 6-0, 6-1; Miss M. McDonnell defeated Miss Greer, 6-0 6-0; Miss Jahns defeated Miss Lynn, 6-4, 6-3.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED AT BRIDGEVILLE RACES

With drivers from all sections of the tristate district entered in the qualifying trials, indications are that the two automobile races, one of 75 miles and another of 25 miles, scheduled at the famous Bridgeville Speedway, Monday, September 3 (Labor Day), will attract one of the largest crowds ever to witness races at Bridgeville.

Director Henry Coslow, who is handling the entries for the two Labor Day races, announces that he has received quite a number of signed entry blanks and that by the time the entry list is closed the field should be one of the biggest ever to compete in a Bridgeville event.

Besides the old favorites who are well known at Bridgeville for their daring exploits on the track, many new faces will be presented Labor Day afternoon. Several entries from Michigan and other middle western cities are coming here for the two races. G. A. Wall, veteran Washington, Pa., driver, will represent that town in the holiday events.

Charge Racing At Bainbridge Is Fixed

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23.—An investigation was expected today on charges that races at the Bainbridge race track here were "fixed" and that horses were being drugged.

The charges were made late yesterday by two men after their arrest by Sheriff E. J. Hanratty in connection with alleged drugging of contesting horses. The men, Melvin Stevens, 26, Raceville, Ky., and Harold Scurlock, 19, Huntington, W. Va., confessed after their arrest, Hanratty said, and charged that their arrest was brought about by track managers who feared they would expose them.

The men also charged that jockeys at the track were instructed to ride their mounts "so the long shots could win."

TRACK RECORD BROKEN AT BUTLER RACE MEET

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 23.—A track record went by the boards in the opening day's racing at the annual Butler County Fair yesterday when Napoleon Star paced through the three heats in the 2:20 pace for a stirring victory. The horse broke the local record in the first heat, being timed in 2:09.

In the second race, the 2:17 trot, Anna P won the first heat, broke and ran seventh in the second and then, staging a remarkable comeback finished first in the final. Great Atlantic won the second heat, but Peter Axworthy was second in the race.

The 3-year-old trot went to Palmer Harvester. Helen Forbes won a straight heat victory in the closing event, the 2:30 trot.

TORONTO HURLER PITCHES NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—John Prudhomme, Toronto pitcher, hurled a no-hit, no-run victory over Jersey City yesterday in a game ended in the seventh inning by agreement.

Two walks with two out in the seventh kept the pitcher from a perfect game. He retired the first 20 men to face him without allowing one to reach first base.

WALKER RECOVERED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Apparently fully recovered from his tumble out of a training ring, Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, today was cuffing his sparring partners around with his old time gusto. Jack Kearns, his manager, said Walker would be in first-class condition when he stepped into the ring with Armand Emanuel, Jewish light-heavyweight, here Monday night.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Pirates' Pennant Possibility at Stake on Outcome of Giant Series—Traynor's Batting Streak Continues—Paul Waner at Hornsby's Heels—Adams Plays 21 Straight Games Without Error.

THE answer to the big question as to whether the Pittsburgh baseball club is to have a real chance for the National League pennant when the contenders thunder down the home stretch, or must be content with a mere first-division possibility, may be hidden in the important series with the Giants here today, tomorrow and Saturday.

Carmen Hill.

If the Pirates can duplicate their feat of early July and take three out of four games from the McGrawites, they will make a gain of two box scores and will be right in the thick of the flag fighting, assuming that New York, rather than the wobbly Cardinals, is the club that will have to be beaten out.

ON THE other hand, if the Bucs fall down on the tough contract, and lose three of the games instead of winning that number, the chances will be against their ever recovering from the setback sufficiently to create a new pennant possibility for themselves.

Every inch gained or lost counts heavily for or against a team at this late stage of the race, not to mention the all-important items of confidence and general morale that naturally may rise with an advance or sink with a reverse.

IN THE 15 games played between the teams prior to the present series, the Giants held a slight edge with eight victories to their credit against seven for the Pirates.

But that was largely due to the fact that Burleigh Grimes was the only Pittsburgh pitcher in his right stride. Carmen Hill and Remy Kremer, previously unable to win a game from New York, have now regained their true form ,and in consequence the Bucs are much stronger defensively.

Carl Hubbell.

THE records of the Pirate and Giant pitchers up to today show that Grimes won four games from New York and lost none; Brame won one and lost none; Fussell won one and lost two; and Kremer, Hill and Dawson each won none and lost two. Pittsburgh's other victory over the Giants was credited to Miljus, now with Cleveland. On the New York Side, Aldridge, Walker and Barnes (the latter shifted to Boston in the Genewich "trade"), each won one game from Pittsburgh and lost none; Benton won two and lost one; Fitzsimmons won two and lost two; Faulkner won one and lost one; Hubbell won none and lost one, and Henry won none and lost two.

HUBBELL is now counted a Giant mainstay, but when that southpaw made his debut against the Rovers in New York on July 26 they bombed him off the hill in short order, pounding him for seven runs in the second inning.

Pittsburgh also was the first club to knock Larry Benton out of the box this season.

THE Pirates advanced another step and are only five games from first place as a result of yesterday's victory, their thirty-second win in the last 42 games played, while the Giants and Cards were losing again to the Reds and Robins. St. Louis has lost 12 of its last 18 games.

After beating the Cubs six times in a row the Phils gave them an extra-inning battle before losing yesterday. Had the Quakers won again Pittsburgh would be only two points below fourth place.

BUSH'S men have won every series against the Eastern clubs so far in the present stay at home—three out of four from Philadelphia and two out of three from Boston. The hitting of Traynor and Paul Waner continues to be the fature of the offensive. Waner boosted his average to .373 yesterday and is only two points behind Rogers Hornsby for the National League batting leadership. Traynor's three hits boosted his great record to 22 safeties (including five triples and four doubles) in 34 times at bat in the last eight games, an average of .647. In the eight games he has knocked in 21 runs. His average for the year has risen to .343. The fielding of Sparky Adams still is a defensive feature of the Buc drive. He played his twenty-first straight errorless game yesterday and since he made his last foozle on July 31 at Boston he has accepted a total of 145 consecutive chances without a miscue. Nine of the games were played at shortstop and 12 at second base.

Sparky Adams.

HEINIE MUELLER, whom Boston obtained from Toledo recently in exchange for Eddie Moore, did not pull any of his mirth provokers during the Braves' series here, but around the circuit, he is still looked upon as being good for a laugh an inning, on account of his absent-mindedness.

Mueller's funniest stunt at Forbes Field while he was a member of the Cardinals was a head-down dash from first base to third on a pop fly by the succeeding batter, caught by a Pirate infielder. Of course, Heinie was easily doubled up, but he had no alibis to offer when Branch Rickey, then manager, rebuked him. "I was yoost trying to steal a base," Mr.

ELIMINATED

Charles Donald Mullen was one of the many racquet stars seeking the singles title in the annual tennis tournament of the Schenley Park Tennis Association, being played on the Schenley Park courts this week. He was beaten by Homer Klater yesterday, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES

ONE OF FAVORITES

FAVORITES LOSE IN NET PLAY

Several favorites fell by the wayside in the second round of the Schenley Park tennis singles last night, Mullen and Gilmore suffering defeats. The results of the second round matches follow:

Homer Klater defeated C. D. Mullen, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2; Charles Malts defeated Leonard Jacobs, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3; Norman Solow defeated Al Hantman, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4; Alex Blumberger defeated M. Cohen, 6-2, 6-2; Harry Wald defeated I. Harris, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1; Joe Dieckhaus defeated Gilmore, 6-1, 6-1; Herbert Lomask defeated L. Klaus by default.

The pairings for the women's singles which start tomorrow afternoon follow:

Florence Schneider vs. Lillian Cohen, M. Malin vs. Rena Foster, Betty Howe vs. Mildred Yelin, H. Haffner vs. Clara Berglass, Eleanor Lemon vs. Edith Berglass and Anna Cohen vs. Bertha Foster.

N. Y. OUT FOR HOT FINISH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

WITH a long string of games at the close of the race on their home grounds, the Giants, in Pittsburgh today for a crucial series, feel they have the edge on all flag competitors in so far as the schedule is concerned.

All the Western clubs must battle the men of McGraw on the Polo Grounds next month. The Giants believe this arrangement is quite an advantage.

A riot of double-headers with the Braves in Boston may make the Giants sing a different tune, however. The New Yorkers are slated for no less than four dual bills

ARRANGE CADDIE TOURNEY

The caddie championship of the Chartiers Heights Country Club will be played on Thursday of next week, according to Johnny Capebianco, caddie-master there. About 125 boys are expected to compete in three divisions. Carl C. Borchers is in charge of the event. Following the golf, the caddies will be feted at dinner.

STEELMEN TO PLAY

The U. S. Steel Corporation will hold a big one-day tournament at the Edgewood Country Club on Monday, September 10, according to Herb Lawson, professional.

CADDIE-MASTERS CARD EVENT

The Caddie-masters' Association of Western Pennsylvania will hold a one-day tournament and meeting at the Hill Crest Country Club, New Kensington, on September 10.

EVANS, FOE ARE EVEN; ROLFE TRAILS

By FRANCIS F. HEALY.
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Tramping through puddles and miniature lakes which dotted picturesque Bob O' Link golf course, caused by a heavy rainstorm this morning, survivors of the second round of the western amateur were having a hard time today.

Shooting his same steady game, Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Ore., was 1 up over Gus Novotny, of Chicago, at the turn. They were all square off the ninth, but Gus overshot the green and hit water getting back.

Chick Evans, of Chicago, who has won the event eight times, lost a two-hole advantage over Kenny Hisert, of Chicago, by driving into traps and reached the turn even. Both Chick and Kenny were putting well on the water-soaked greens.

Willing had a 37 and Novotny a 38 for the first nine. Chick and Ken stood 40 each.

Lawrence Moller, of Quincy, and Rial Rolfe, of Chicago, battled even to the ninth green, where Rolfe missed a 15-foot putt and turned 1 down. Moller had 38 and Rial 39 for the nine holes.

Ira L. Couch, of Chicago, shot a 35, one under par, for the first nine and turned 2 up over Frank Dolp, of Portland, Ore., who had a good round himself with a 37.

JOE DRUGMOND TWICE VICTOR

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 23.—Joe Drugmond turned in the old "iron man" stunt here yesterday and pitched the Governors into second place. He pitched and won two games against Jeannette, the locals copping the first fray 9 to 0 and the second 3 to 2.

At Fairmont, the Diamonds and Scottdale divided a double bill, the locals losing the first game 2 to 1 and winning the second 11 to 0.

Johnstown beat Wheeling at Johnstown, 6 to 5.

BRAND COPS GRAND AMERICAN SHOOT HONOR

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The preliminary handicap event, which precedes the Grand American trapshoot, today held the attention of shooters at the annual meet in progress here.

C. R. Brand, Buffalo, N. Y., won the championship of the states yesterday by breaking 198 out of a possible 200 targets. A shoot-off was scheduled today to settle the triple tie of E. F. Woodward, Houston, Tex., F. K. Lee, Birmingham, Ala., and D. L. McCafferee, Pueblo, Colo. They finished next to Brand with 195 each.

Yankees Obtain Tom Zachary On Waivers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Tom Zachary, veteran left-handed pitcher, was sent today from the Washington club to the New York Yankees on waivers. President Griffith asked waivers some days ago, and every club in the league waived, including the Yankees. Last night, however, Miller Huggins decided he needed Zachary and Griffith agreed.

Zachary has been with the Washington club, with the exception of a short sojourn in St. Louis, since 1919. He won two games in the world series of 1924, but has won only six while losing 10 this year. He is 31.

SPENCE WINS DOUBLE IRISH SWIM TITLE

DUBLIN, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Walter Spence, star of the Canadian Olympic swimming team, yesterday added two more tailteann titles to his 200-meter championship, winning the 100-meter and 400-meter free-style events.

In both races he beat the tailteann records of four years ago. His time for the 100 was 61 1-5 seconds, while his 400-meter time was 5 minutes 25 seconds.

Paul Sampson, of Michigan, a member of the American Olympic team, finished second in both races, swimming a dead heat with Brooks, of England, in the sprint and beating out Bourne, of Canada, for the place in the longer event.

BOXING SHOW TONIGHT

Seven amateur boxing bouts will feature the initial indoor fistic show of the season tonight in the Progressive Club rooms at 1721 Boulevard of the Allies. The bouts were arranged by Patty Woods, former local boxing leader. Music also will be on the program.

Predict Wills' Victory

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Although a day of rain has postponed the decision for a short time, two rounds of play in the women's national tennis championship have been enough to confirm the pre-tournament predictions that the only question to be decided is who will oppose Helen Wills at various stages of the tournament.

That "Queen Helen" will repeat her victory of last year is hardly open to doubt, but whether the runner-up will be Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, eight times winner of the title, or Helen Jacobs, second only to Miss Wills among the California stars, or some unexpectedly brilliant player who can upset both of these outstanding stars, is an entirely different matter.

The problem of her opponent in the semi-finals also is unsettled. In the second quarter of the draw Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, of Santa Moni-

GENE TUNNEY LEAVES FOR IRELAND

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Being a celebrity does not please Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion. He wants privacy and lots of it. The existence of the gold fish in the bowl means nothing to him.

Ever since Tunney arrived in London yesterday morning he has been the center of attraction—very much to his disgust. He said he was gong to Ireland today and hoped to avoid any publicity on the trip. His desire was disregarded entirely.

Before leaving London Tunney gave an audience to the newspaper correspondents.

"My chief desire is to sink as far into obscurity as possible," said he. "I am through with public life and I cannot understand why newspapers should be trying to give publicity to me. I am a private citizen now. I am going to Ireland to visit the scene of my parents' birth. There is nothing sensational about that. It is an ordinary trip."

Tunney checked out from the Savoy Hotel unobserved. He caught the 8:30 boat train at Euston Station traveling as unobtrusively as possible. He was due to reach Dublin the middle of the afternoon.

Autograph seekers have added new irritation to Gene's already overtaxed patience.

Just when he was stretched out resting in an English railway "carriage," with all his troubles apparently over for the day at least, the retired champion was discovered by a carload of youngsters from London's slums, returning to their homes after a holiday at Cornwall.

The urchins swarmed through the corridor toward Gene's carriage, yelling like wild Indians and indiscriminately demanding "hautographs, hautographs," while the railway guards sought to herd them

GRACE BEATS HYBERT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Meyer Grace, rugged Chicago welterweight, outpummeled Floyd Hybert, of Cleveland, in a 10-round bout last night. Hybert, a last minute substitute for Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, who injured his leg in training yesterday, weighed 152 and Grace, 149½.

REIGH COUNT WINS

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Atoning for his defeat in the Travers stakes Saturday, Mrs. John D. Hertz's Reigh Count won the Huron handicap, a mile and three-sixteenths gallop, at Saratoga yesterday. The Kentucky Derby winner's victory was far from impressive.

GRANT BEATEN AT NEWPORT

Famous Last Words: Well, I'll Try Just One More

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

The Varsity Column

by Jess M. Carver

John Holohan.

THE loss of John Weibel as line coach and first assistant to Elmer Layden at Duquesne University, coming as it has on almost the eve of the opening of the football season, has dealt the Dukes quite a sock on the chin. Looking forward to a fine season, with Layden and his Notre Dame system fairly well installed, the Dukes must now cast about for a new aid for the former member of the Four Horsemen. This task will not be easy, for Layden is particularly interested in getting someone whose football mind works along the same lines as his own.

Some time ago, when Weibel first hinted that he might not be able to return to Duquesne this year, due to the fact that he could get into Pitt's school of medicine, John Holahan, graduate manager, told me that a chap by the name of Pat Regan of Canonsburg, a former Notre Dame athlete, might be considered as Weibel's successor. Whoever gets the post is certain to be a Notre Dame man, and will be of recent vintage if it is possible to secure such a prize.

WEIBEL was a capable coach, and came here with valuable experience. He was line coach at Vanderbilt prior to signing with the Dukes. While at Vanderbilt, Weibel put in the first two years of his medical course. Dan McGugin, the head coach, a brother-in-law of Fielding Yost of Michigan, spoke highly of Weibel in recommending him here.

Coach Layden, by the by, is recuperating at his home in Davenport, Ia., after undergoing an operation for appendicitis. The coach is expected to come here on September 3. The Dukes will start practice on the fifth, with the largest squad in the history of the school on hand.

LOTT GETS VICTORY OVER BELL

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—(INS.)—The hopes of Bryan Grant, 18-year-old Southern champion, to gain a leg on the challenge cup were dashed today at the Casino here when Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., eliminated the sensational youngster in straight sets. The scores were: 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

George Lott, of Chicago, another youngster and also a member of the American Davis Cup team, eliminated Berkeley Bell, of the University of Texas, in another match of the quarter finals. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

with the Tribe at Braves Field in a series next month.

The Giants will be all "washed up" with the Western teams after finishing with the Pirates on Saturday.

BUCS WIN FINALE

The Pirates gave the Braves a real pasting as the Tribe said farewell to Pittsburgh yesterday. Ervin Brame was a hard right-hander for the Boston boys to solve, although the tall Kentuckian was very wild, he issuing eight bases on balls while holding the foe to six bingles. Brame, however, was out with a sore hand for weeks and doubtless lost in control through the inactivity.

The Pirates batted hard behind Ervin, and when the game ended the home team romped off the field with a 10-to-3 triumph.

Once more Capt. Pie Traynor was the star of the contest. Owning two hits and a sacrifice before he came up for his last swings, Pie found three Buccos on the paths in the eighth inning. The third-sacker slammed a long three-bagger to the left-center fence, cleaning off the sacks. Pie lacked only a few yards to beat the play at the home plate for a cleanup homer.

Paul Waner's three-bagger in the first inning scored two Pirate runs, and Paul counted on Grantham's long fly. The foe evened up in the second, but the Oaklanders gradually pulled away, and then in the eighth Pie put the contest on the ice.

HUGGINS PICKS GIANTS; SAYS BUCS HAVE CHANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Miller Huggins, mnager of the New York Yankees, believed that the New York Giants will win the National League pennant.

"The Giants have been playing great ball against the toughest clubs in the league," he said. "The Cardinals have beaten themselves, but the Pirates have a fine chance."

Sport Comment

by James J. Long

Rickey," he explained, in his broken English.

MUELLER, according to Tom Holmes, sometimes does not bother his head about signals. Rickey, given to testing the memory of each of his players occasionally, once asked Mueller: "What is the hit-and-run sign on this club?" Heinie replied that he did not know.

"But when you're on first base and the batter gives you the hit-and-run sign, how do you know when to run?" queried the amazed Rickey.

"That's easy, Mr. Rickey," responded Mueller guilelessly. "The coach always tells me."

Heinie Mueller.

ANOTHER story related about Mueller is that one day when the Cardinal pitcher was throwing an unusual number of slow balls, Heinie would tear in from center field to a spot behind second base on every slow pitch on the theory that the ball, if hit, would not travel very far. The spectators soon solved the mystery of Mueller's restlessness, and each time he ran in they set up a concerted shout of "slow ball." With the score tied in the late innings and two enemy runners on the bases, Mueller made his usual dash toward second despite the fact that this time the pitcher was delivering a fast ball. The batter poled the leather far over Heinie's head, everybody scored and away went the ball game. "What on earth was the matter with you?" demanded Rickey at the end of the inning. "Did you miss the signal?" "No, I knew it was a fast ball," Mueller said. "I was yoost trying to fool the people in the stands."

CHILLY SAUCE

BY CHILLY DOYLE

THE Pirates are only five games behind the first-place Giants, yet they are five and one-half games below the runner-up Cardinals, through a strange quirk in the conventional manner of determining advantages. The small number of defeats charged to the Giants, as compared to the Redbirds, makes this condition possible.

The home stretch of the National League sweepstakes takes on a delightful hue, with five clubs involved in such a manner as to show a difference of only five games from first place and fifth.

THE Cubs finally flagged down the Phillies, but they had to go 12 rounds to get in the first solid punch in seven battles. The Bruins, however, are in a fair position to assert themselves. Joe McCarthy's clubs always fight to the last ditch; as a rule his teams do not look nearly as good on paper as they do on the field. Moreover, the Bears are raking in another financial harvest for Mr. Wrigley, who is not in destitute circumstances.

And what shall we say of those Reds? They don't seem to belong in such fast company, but they're up there and apparently have a lot of reserve left. The Rhinelanders generally are troublesome to the Giants on Redland Field.

WHEN the big deal between the Giants and Braves was swung last winter this column pointed out that Francis Hogan and Jimmy Welsh were two bright performers. The catcher and centerfielder have more than justified the exchange from the standpoint of playing ability. Welsh has been a valued lead-off man for the Giants and his fielding is high class. Hogan is so effective that he has given Bob O'Farrell a lot of idle time and Bob is one of the greatest in the receiving end.

Meantime, Little Andy Cohen continues to be a part of the New York club. There were many who expected Andy to be relieved, but the Jewish boy has fooled them nearly all the way.

WILLS

ca, Cal., and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, of Boston, both champions when Miss Wills was more interested in the problems that confront babies than those that are found on the tennis courts, are due to meet today in a match that is expected to bring forth the semifinal opponent of "Queen Helen."

Before either of them can attain that bracket she must overcome some strong opposition of the third ranking Californian, Edith Cross of San Francisco, who is picked as an almost certain winner over Mrs. B. F. Stenz, of New York, in today's match.

All Expense Tour...

THE CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES have provided a tour for those who wish to have no thought regarding troublesome details of travel.

You can board one of our luxurious Steamers at Queenston, Toronto or Montreal in Canada, and Rochester or Lewiston in the United States, and sail down the St. Lawrence River.

If you board the steamer at Lewiston or Queenston, Niagara Falls is close by. You will sail through the Thousand Islands, shoot the Rapids of the mighty St. Lawrence River, visit Montreal, Quebec, the Shrine at Ste. Anne's, famous Murray Bay and Tadoussac, and sail up the mysterious Saguenay River beneath its towering majestic cliffs.

Side trips are arranged ashore, including hotel accommodations, and all expenses are covered in the one sum. Trips can be arranged to suit every purse.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today and as no sales were reported, prices remained unchanged at 4.14c for spots duty paid.

The raw sugar futures market opened 1 point lower to 2 points higher, with September the only month showing any decline, due to a renewal of liquidation. Offerings were promptly absorbed, however, and a steadier tone developed later on covering and buying by houses with trade and European connections with the market at midday 2 points net higher on active positions. On the whole, however, trading was not particularly active, and the trade appeared to be inclined to limit fresh commitments, pending developments in Cuba, where a meeting is scheduled for today and some announcement anticipated in connection with the recent petition seeking the removal of all restrictions on the coming crop.

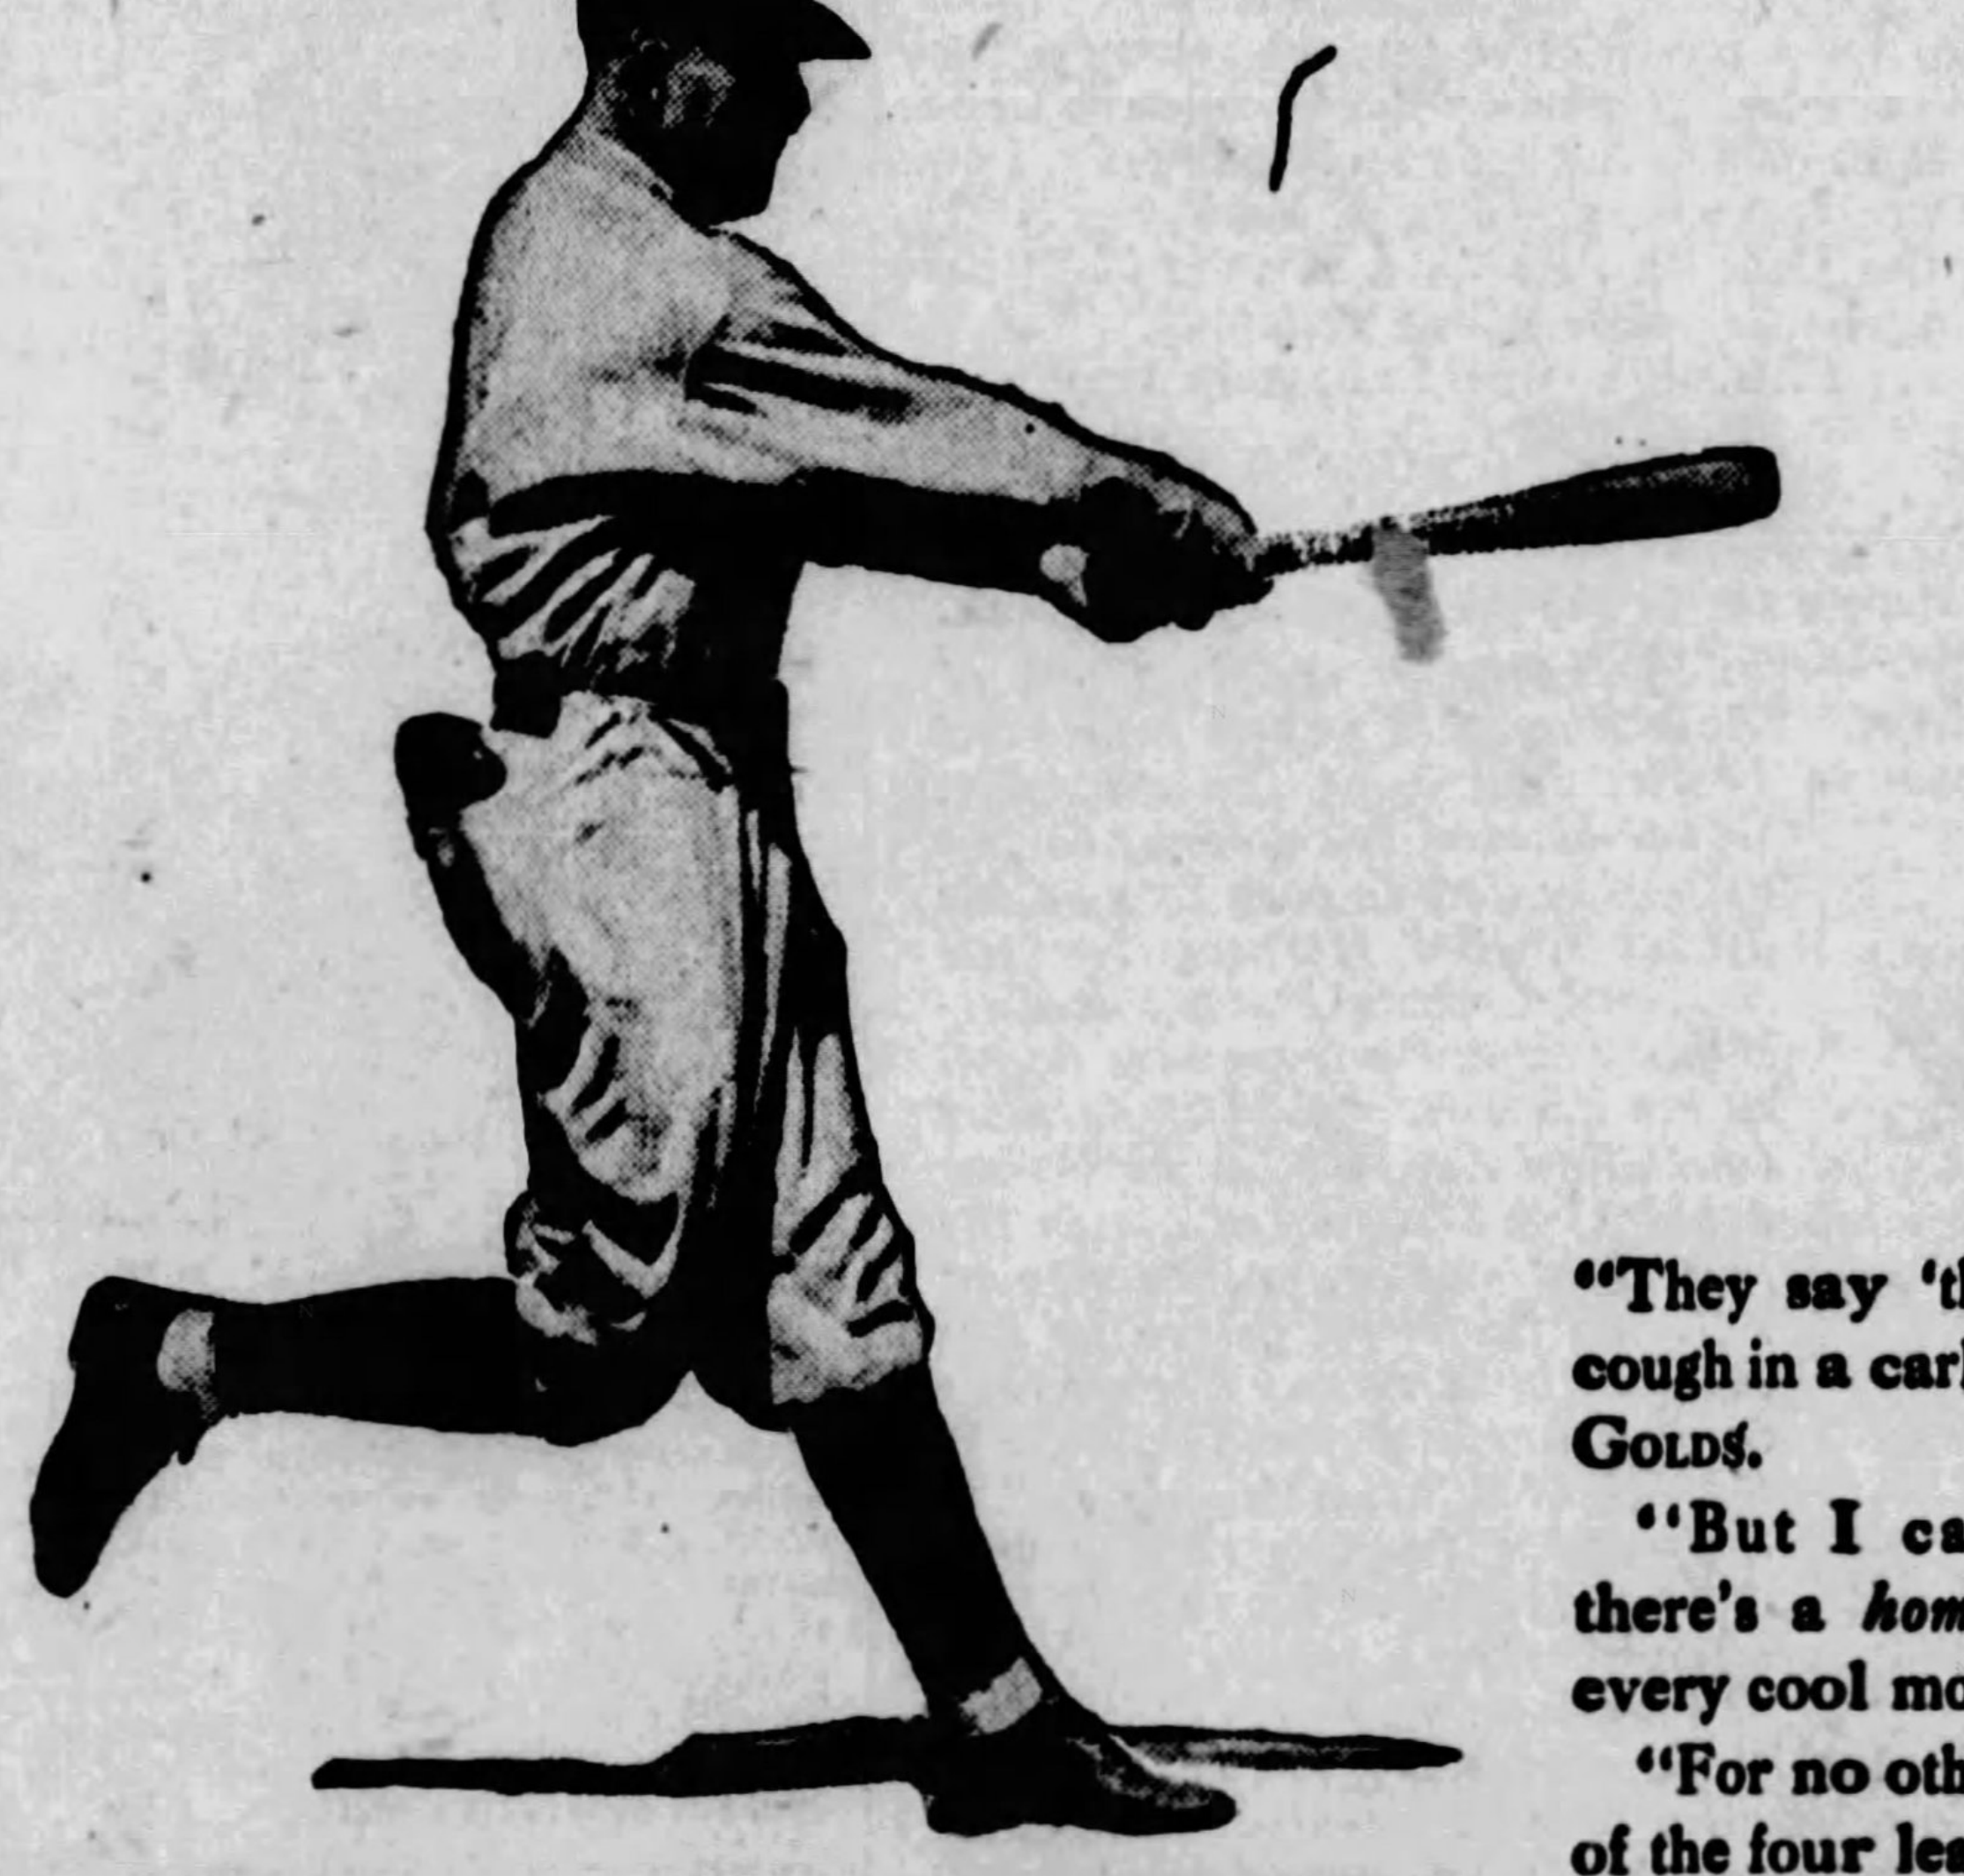
OLD GOLD bats 1000% as Hornsby takes the Blindfold cigarette test



ROGERS HORNSBY
. . . capable manager of the Boston Braves . . . captain of the 1927 New York Giants . . . manager of the 1926 St. Louis Cardinals, who won the World's Series.

"They say 'there's not a cough in a carload' of OLD GOLDS.

"But I can tell you there's a home-run hit in every cool mouthful.

"For no other cigarette, of the four leading brands in the blindfold test, could compare with OLD GOLDS for pure pleasure to taste, tongue and throat."

Rogers Hornsby

MR. HORNSBY was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked . . . "Which one do you like best?"

© P. Lorillard Co., Est. 1760

What gives OLD GOLD this winning charm?

Here is the answer, in three words . . . heart-leaf tobacco. No coarse, heavy top-leaves of the tobacco plant . . . for they irritate the throat. No withered ground-leaves . . . for they are lacking in aroma. Only the cool and fragrant heart-leaves . . . golden ripe . . . can give OLD GOLD their honey-like smoothness. That's why you can tell them in the dark.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

New Book Offers Panacea for Troubled Coal Industry.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

NO ONE can deny that the bituminous coal industry is in a bad state. This is true both from the standpoint of capital and of labor. Any practical means of putting coal on a more stable basis would be a boon to the entire country, and especially to Pittsburgh.

Several proposals have been made, but none of these has been accepted with any general acclaim. The difficulty with most of the plans has been that they solved the troubles of only one of the factions concerned with coal mining.

THE latest solution comes from a disinterested source and appears to be the result of a more careful analysis of all angles of the situation than the previous plans. It has been published under the title, "A Way of Order for Bituminous Coal," by Walton H. Hamilton and Helen R. Wright. It was published under the direction of the Institute of Economics. It follows a previous book by the same authors, entitled "The Case of Bituminous Coal."

NO CLAIM that a great cure-all for the ills of the coal trade is made. The authors frankly admit the weaknesses of their proposals, but put the idea forth under the belief that it more nearly approximates a logical solution than any other project.

They favor the creation of a Federal bituminous coal corporation by the government. Sufficient legislation is to be enacted to empower the organization to acquire, by condemnation if necessary, all of the coal properties in the country. Payment for the properties is to be made in debentures of the corporation, which will bear a fixed rate of interest. The debentures will be guaranteed by the government, which will have power to step into the company's affairs in case of a default. Here the government's part in the project will cease.

ACTUAL control of the company will be vested in 154 shares of non-dividend-paying, non-transferable stock, 110 shares of which will be class A and 44 shares of which will be class B. Each share of class A stock will entitle the holder to one vote in the election of one voting member of the board of directors; each share of class B stock to one vote in the selection of a non-voting member.

Half of the A stock will be assigned to the organization of parts of the organization representing the miners. The remaining half of the stock will be assigned to trade associations or organizations representing the consumers. These shares will permit the miners and the consumers each to elect five voting directors, in whose hands actual control will be placed. The B stock will be assigned to the officials of the company. The directors elected by the B stockholders will act in an advisory capacity only.

THE two classes of stock will be so distributed that representation will be given to different localities or industries in proportions determined to be adequate.

The company would be able to stabilize the wage rates and working conditions. Production would be concentrated at the most economical mines, and the high-cost workings would be abandoned. Over-development would be made impossible. The cost of competitive sales effort would be eliminated. Duplication of executive work would also be ended. Natural resources would be conserved, and consumers would be supplied at cost plus interest on the debentures.

THE consumer and labor factions on the board would act as a check upon each other. The industry would be operated for the best advantage of these two most vitally concerned groups. The capital element in the industry would be removed from control and confined to a mere investment interest.

Although the plan might be able to accomplish the desired ends—the elimination of the labor difficulties and the ending of dog-eat-dog competition—there are many fundamental weaknesses which counteract its advantages. These will be discussed in this column tomorrow.

HEAVY SELLING FAILS TO HALT STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Stock prices continued to press forward today in the face of heavy selling inspired by fears of a large increase in Federal Reserve brokers' loans, which will be made public after the close. Several of the recent favorites dropped 2 to 4 points in the morning selling, but the heavy accumulation of the motor, copper and food shares kept the general trend upward.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent. Banks called $20,000,000 in loans, but a flood of new money appeared in the market, arousing hopes of a drop in the rate before the close. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady. With the new United States Treasury financing expected shortly, Wall street does not look for any further hardening of money rates until that is disposed of. The velw is held in some quarters that any further increase in money rates here would depress sterling and lead to the importation of gold.

Violent advances took place in several of the high priced specialties. Midland Steel Products preferred soared 13 points, Adams Express 12, Purity Baking preferred 10, Purity Baking Common 8, American Smelting 6¾, and Standard Milling, Rossia Insurance, Fidelity Phenix Insurance and American Linseed 4½ to 6½.

Renewed buying of Chrysler carried that stock up 4 points to within a fraction of the record high. General Motors was pushed up 3 points and Hupp 2. In the copper group, Greene Cananea rallied 4 points and Anaconda and Calumet & Arizona about 3 points each. Rails were quiet, although Texas & Pacific made up most of its initial drop of 5½ points by early afternoon.

Early selling was most effective against National Tea, Wright Aeronautical, Sears-Roebuck, Cudahy and Radio, off 2 to 4 points.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Frost reports from Canada, together with predictions of more tonight, helped bring about early upturns today in wheat values here. Besides, Liverpool wheat quotations were higher than looked for, and a better demand there was reported. Opening ⅝c to 1⅛c up, Chicago wheat scored additional gains, and then reacted somewhat. Corn was relatively easy, starting ¼c to ⅝c higher, but subsequently sagging to below yesterday's finish. Oats displayed firmness. Provisions tended downward.

At noon wheat was ¼c to ⅝c higher and corn at ¼c to ½c decline.

With temperatures as low as 28, and quite heavy frost noted in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan provinces, Canada, a good deal less optimism prevailed here today regarding the Canadian wheat crop situation. Moreover, probability of frost again tonight over some Canadian wheat territories was emphasized by the Liverpool wheat market closing today at a rise of about 2 pence all around. In various quarters, meanwhile, opinions were expressed that regardless of the final outcome of the North American spring wheat harvest, wheat prices have reached a level which largely discount all favorable crop aspects, and furnishes better chances for profit to the buying side of the market.

On the other hand, beneficial rains in Australia and continued excellent wheat crop prospects in Argentina were announced today. Some authorities contended, too, that frost could no longer this year do much damage to quantity of Canadian wheat, and that unless larger export demand sets in, advances in prices would not hold.

NARROW FLUCTUATIONS MARK LOCAL DEALINGS

Trading volume dwindled noticeably on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, reflecting the uncertain tone of the market in New York.

Dealings on the "big board" indicated that the street was undecided on the question of brokers' loans to be announced after the close today, and the "watchful waiting" attitude observed in the big market was reflected in a smaller way on the local exchange.

Only four transactions were recorded in the first hour here. These were in Lone Star Gas and William Zoller Company. Lone Star was 51⅞ and 52, while Zoller changed hands at 50, the figure at which it has been selling for several weeks. While Lone Star does not evince any conspicuous inclination to break out of the current trading range, friends of the stock are insistent that the issue has been under accumulation for some time and that this buying will make itself felt when surface developments induce another public buying wave.

Resumption of the upward movement in the New York market did not stimulate the trading here, but there was a firming up in quotations on industrial issues in the local list. The improvement, however did not bring out any stock, and the afternoon wore on with the market showing practically no change from the forenoon levels.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of three points on July, but generally 3 to 9 points higher on buying prompted by relatively firm Liverpool cables and prospects for further showers in the Eastern belt. The possibility of showers in sections of the Southwest where needed was considered favorable, however, and after selling up to 19.08c for October and 18.90c for March, or 10 to 15 points net higher, the market reacted several points under realizing.

Trading was quiet and may have been restricted by some uncertainty to the showing of the ginning figures, although most brokers were of the opinion that these would possess no significance as to the size of the crop. Private cables reported continental buying and trade calling in a quiet market at Liverpool.

The market weakened later in the morning under selling which was attributed chiefly to realizing or liquidation by recent buyers who may have been influenced to some extent by prospects for showers in dry sections of the Southwest. October contracts sold off to 18.71c and March to 18.61c, making net declines of about 18 to 22 points on the active months, but the market steadied at these figures and at midday showed rallies of several points from the lowest on covering. The census report showing 250,530 bales ginned prior to August 16 was without apparent effect on the market.

TUBE CO. LANDS BIG ORDER

An order for 36,000 tons of pipe for a 218-mile gas line from Fowler, La., to Memphis, Tenn., has been received by the National Tube Company and the pipe will be made in the Pittsburgh district. This is the second large pipe order that has come to the local company within two months.

An Indiana oil company is in the market for 42,000 tons of pipe and it is expected the order will be placed within a few days. The pipe will be made either in Pittsburgh or Youngstown, O., with a chance that it will be divided between the two places.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Coppers and Motors Strong.

Copper stocks bulged sharply today and took the Street somewhat by surprise. There had been considerable comment lately over the failure of the main copper group to follow the advance in American Smelters, which has been registering new highs daily all week. A 10-point raise in lead prices partly explained Smelters' strength. Opinion was expressed that the copper industry has about come through the hot weather dull period with not even a slight recession in the price of the metal and this is looked upon as a rather remarkable feat. The fall buying movement is expected to open up shortly and in view of the firmness with which copper met the let-down, the natural assumption is that the price tendency will be upward. Current level for domestic copper is 14.75c a pound, which price has been in effect since the spring. Following the advance in the copper stocks, the automobile shares came forward with a conspicuous uprush, centering in General Motors and including most of the major stocks. In the absence of definite information on this group, the Street viewed the motor rise as forecasting an important change in general business conditions, which will have the effect of sustaining sales over the balance of the year at an average materially above what had been expected not so long ago.

Loan Increase Expected.

There was rather general expectation in the street that a substantial increase would be shown in the brokers' loans in the statement for the week ended August 22, due after today's close. Last week's report set forth a decrease of approximately $50,000,000, and was an important factor in furthering the vigorous advances which took place last Friday and Saturday. However, conditions in the week which ended last night have been different. Prices have been rising instead of falling and the expectation that important additions were made to aggregate collateral borrowings appears justified. Estimates were made in brokerage circles that the gain would run at from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 with most observers favoring the higher figure.

High Money and High Prices.

Recent substantial gains in the principal industrials have carried the Dow-Jones averages for this class of stocks about 8 points above the June 2 high of 220.96, which was the loftiest level attained before the current advance. With call money abnormally high, the market has entered into a phase which Wall street has seen on several occasion in the past, namely, one of high money and high prices. These periods have been characterized by wide swings in prices. For this reason, brokers are advising a policy of strict caution, with commitments on the long side confined to the best grade of stocks.

Warner Retiring Notes.

In application of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., in connection with listing of common stock on the New York Stock Exchange, it is pointed out that of $4,000,000 3-year 6½ per cent notes in the maturing October 15, 1928, the company has already purchased $2,450,000 in the open market. In connection with Vitaphone operations of the company the listing stated that the Electrical Research Products, Inc., a subsidiary of Western Electric Co., Inc., receives royalties from its licenses and in turn has contracted to pay to the Vitaphone Corporation for its pioneering efforts in this field an amount equal to 3 per cent of gross revenues derived from exercising of their licenses by all other motion picture producers who take licenses from the Electric Research Products, Inc.

U. S. Exporting Combinations.

American industry has not been taking full advantage of the Webb-Pomerene Act permitting combinations in the export trade, according to the New York Trust Company. "Only 57 export associations have been listed with the Federal Trade Commission under the Webb-Pomerene law, and only 23 of these are manufacturers. Although American exports have almost doubled since 1913, the proportion of the total productive output in this country to that shipped abroad is no greater than it was 25 years ago. Consideration must be given to the marked decrease in domestic consumption and the lower purchasing power abroad, but it is evident that relatively few American industries have developed markets outside this country to any appreciable extent since the war." Those industries which have averaged 30 per cent or more of their total production in exports include meat-packing, tobacco, petroleum and copper, and such manufactured products as typewriters and motorcycles. The ratio of exports to production was higher in 1926 than in 1923 for manufactured articles, but is generally lower for raw materials. Agriculture stands in particular need of export development. With the exception of cotton and tobacco, which have larger export percentages than other agricultural groups, this group phas failed to gein even a fair quota of foreign trade.

Holden to Head New System.

Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, will become chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific Company the latter part of this year, succeeding Henry W. DeForest, the Associated Press was informed by members of the directorate of the Burlington and of the Southern Pacific Company. Paul Shoup will be named president of the Southern Pacific to succeed President William Sproule, who is retiring, the same sources said. Mr. Holden is expected to move to New York. Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern Railway, and Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific Railway, have been considered by the directors to succeed to Mr. Holden, it was stated, when, and if the consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railways is approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission now considering their application to merge. It was indicated Mr. Budd would assume a new office and that the Southern Pacific, the Burlington and the merged roads would operate under one president. This would provide a new transcontinental route embracing practically all the midwest and western lines, which have been in consistent traffic and freight competition, particularly in the far west. Other roads included under individual ownership in the transcontinental routing would be the Denver and Salt Lake, Western Pacific, Denver, Rio Grande and Western and minor adjacent lines under their control. The total average mileage of the proposed route, which would serve virtually the entire western half of the United States from the Mississippi river, would be 38,500 miles.

Wilkinson on Crucible.

H. S. Wilkinson, chairman of the Crucible Steel Company of America, said on sailing for Europe that conditions in the steel industry have taken a decided turn for the better and indications are for earnings equal to if not better than for 1927, when they equaled $7.03 per share of common stock. Owing to lower steel prices earlier in the year directors reduced the dividend rate from $6 to $5 in June. Mr. Wilkinson said the situation has completely changed since the early months of the year, but that the dividend rate would be kept at $5 until such time as the ratio of earnings permits a return to the $6 scale.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

Office of Treasurer of Allegheny County, Room 107, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

May 1, 1928.

In pursuance of the 21st section of an Act relating to Allegheny County, approved the 1st day of May 1861, and of the amendment to said section approved the 30th day of March, A. D. 1866, I do hereby give notice that the duplicates for the several wards of the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton, boroughs and townships will be open and I will be prepared to receive the county poor, road, bond interest, personal property and dark taxes for the year 1928 on May 1st. Said taxes may be paid during the months of May, June and July at 5% discount, during August at face. 10% penalty being added on and after September 1st.

Statements will be furnished promptly upon written request, if given name, location by ward in the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne or Clairton, or by boroughs or townships. If statement of Personal Property or Occupation Tax is desired, please give street address also.

Use of the mail is advised for requesting statements and in making payments of taxes. Remittance may be made by bank draft, certified check or postoffice money order (payable to John Francies, County Treasurer), accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope for return of tax statement or receipt.

JOHN FRANCIES, County Treasurer.

1. SEPARATE AND SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the office of the City Controller, City-County Building, until 9:00 o'clock a. m., Eastern Standard time, August 30, 1928, and will be publicly opened and read in Council Chamber one hour later for making the following public improvements.

GRADING, REGRADING, PAVING, REPAVING, CURBING, RECURBING, AND OTHERWISE IMPROVING

Boulevard of the Allies, to the re-established lines and grades, from Craft avenue to Halket street and the regrading, repaving, recurbing and otherwise improving Niagara street, from the Boulevard of the Allies to a point about 100 feet southwardly, as affected thereby.

GRADING, PAVING AND CURBING

Irvine street, from Greenfield avenue to a point 170.21 feet north of the northerly line of Hazelwood avenue, including the laying and relaying of sewers and the paving of the railways area.

CONSTRUCTION OF SEWERS

Quartz way and Rivet way, from a point about 20 feet south of Hawkins avenue to the existing sewer on Morewood avenue. 15" T. C. pipe.

CONSTRUCTION OF TRUNK SEWER

Thirty-third street drainage basin, in the southeast sidewalk and roadway of Liberty avenue, on Thirty-second street and P. P.'s of W. E. Moore and Co., Pittsburgh Foundry & Machine Co., and B. & O. Railroad Co., from a point about 40 feet southwest of Thirty-third street to the Allegheny River. 11 feet 9¾ inches by 13 feet reinforced concrete sewer and appurtenances.

IMPROVEMENT TO DRAINAGE AND GENERAL REPAIRS

Bigelow boulevard wall, between Elm street and Seventeenth street incline. Contract No. 1.

2. All bids must be made upon the prepared form of proposal to be obtained at the office of the Contract Clerk, Room 429, City-County Building, on and after August 18, 1928, upon presentation of receipt for deposit required for contract plans and specifications. Proposals containing any additions, erasures, omissions, alterations, additions not called for, or additional bid of any kind may be rejected as informal and no bidder will be allowed to withdraw his bid.

3. Bids must be accompanied by a bond in the amount of fifty (50%) per centum of the estimated cost of the proposed improvement, duly and legally executed with a surety or trust company, which has complied with the City ordinances relating thereto; said bond shall be in the form of bond furnished by the City of Pittsburgh.

4. Blueprint copies of the contract plans and specifications may be obtained at the Bureau of Engineering, Room 440, City-County Building. Deposits in the amount of $10 will be required for each set of specifications and blueprint copies of the contract plans for improvement of Irvine street, Thirty-third street drainage basin and Bigelow boulevard wall, and $2 for each of the other above named improvements. Receipts for said deposits will be given and the money refunded upon the return of the plans and specifications in good condition and without marking within ten days of the date bids are opened.

5. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works reserve the right to increase or decrease the amount or class of any portion of the work which they deem necessary, and to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal which they deem it to the interest of the city so do to.

Confessed Racketeers Not Appealing Figures

The "king of the slot machine concessionaries" promises to tell all he knows of the ramifications of rum selling and its natural allies, graft and gambling. The slot machine king, sentenced to six months in jail, plans to flood-light the darkness surrounding the workings of local "racketeers."

The slot machine baron is prompted to assist the federal authorities to relieve a harassed conscience. Confession is good for the soul and the slot machine king's confession will likely bring him some relief.

But even after the confession there may be ghosts flitting here and there pointing accusing fingers and nodding gravely over a long list of dupes who through the workings of the slot machine concessionaries impoverished themselves to enrich unscrupulous men.

A sorry old spectacle is a conscience-stricken "racketeer." At the height of his ill-gotten success he is pronounced "smart" while honest men are sneeringly referred to as "suckers." But when the crash comes, as it comes so often to the "racketeers," there is something about the "smart" boys that is not very appealing.

Clever men, these "racketeers," until they are caught. After that, they don't seem so clever.

One More Overhead Gas Tank to Be Eliminated

The recommendation of Fire Chief Richard L. Smith that the storage tanks in West Liberty, scene of a serious fire Sunday, be placed underground before the station is reopened for business, will meet with popular approval. There is a city ordinance which directs that all new service station tanks be placed underground. Established overhead tanks were not molested by the ordinance.

The present situation, which finds a number of overhead tanks in populous parts of the city, is not a pleasant one. While it might be unfair to demand that old as well as new tanks be placed underground, there is no denying the presence of real danger in overhead tanks.

The present danger would be decreased with more care on the part of motorists, pedestrians and attendants at gasoline stations. Even where underground tanks are installed, the carelessness displayed at times is shocking.

Time will gradually eliminate overhead tanks. But time will not eliminate the chance of explosions unless we are all careful around gas tanks.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—It has become a stunt this summer for members of what is known as cafe society to exploit ladies and gentlemen whose fame smacks a trifle of the notorious. They become guests of honor at the spreading restaurant tables.

One was a curly haired cabaret performer who shook the sawdust from his feet to be glorified in a musical comedy. Then there was a college bred Indian, the obscure author of a dirty book, a shaggy haired foreigner who told ribald stories and several others.

Jovial Mae West, who portrays a hard-boiled Bowery gal of 30 years ago, is also the object of much attention, being invited to teas, apartment parties and cafes. One of the high spots was to visit her dressing room after a performance and listen to her picturesque observations.

Among Miss West's experiences while struggling for recognition as a playwright and star was a brief "stretch on the island" because of the realism in her play, "Sex." She is said to have a hilarious as well as sarcastic style in recounting this episode.

The object of cafe society is to be noticed and there seems to be no better way than to drag in someone by the heels who has achieved big thick headlines. The story of one freakish dinner party and its result is being told about the town.

A hostess was arranging with the proprietor of a cafe for a dinner party and dropped a few names of those who would be among the guests. The manner of the proprietor abruptly froze. "I am sorry," he said, "I cannot serve you. This is a restaurant—not a freak show."

It is in night clubs the chasers of near celebrities find dandy settings for their efforts to show off. Here the atmosphere is mellow and those who look upon soandsos as perfectly dandy do so only for the evening.

Third avenue has a curiosity shop specializing in Distinguished Service Crosses. Heroes who have fallen on evil days go there to pawn the symbol of their courage in better days. They receive about $3 for their crosses and few ever return to reclaim them. This furnishes a theme for something or other. I don't know just what.

People living in the neighborhood of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in West 54th street, are said to set clocks by his methodical goings and comings. He departs in the morning almost invariably at the same hour and returns with the same precision. No mid-town home has the regularity of the Rockefeller household. The lights are dimmed at the same hour—about 10:30. Young Mr. Rockefeller—he is really 54—has a passion for economy. Any extravagance by servants is tabooed. For years he never tipped, but now he gives the exact but customary 10 per cent. He is a pleasant neighbor, having a bow for servants in nearby households and frequently stops to chat with the street cleaner in the block.

The Rockefeller home while ample is not movie-starrish. It is of stone and has a gymnasium on the roof. After nightfall it is not distinguished from any other house on the block save for a man in plain clothes who walks up and down in front of the house. He is the private night watch.

New York now has 30 plants turning out airplanes and accessories in the metropolitan area. There are reported to be 700 privately owned planes in the city.

Overheard near 47th and Broadway:

"How did the act go?"

"If it hadn't been for the curtain going up and down, you'd never knew we were on."

Life is a good deal like that for many of us.

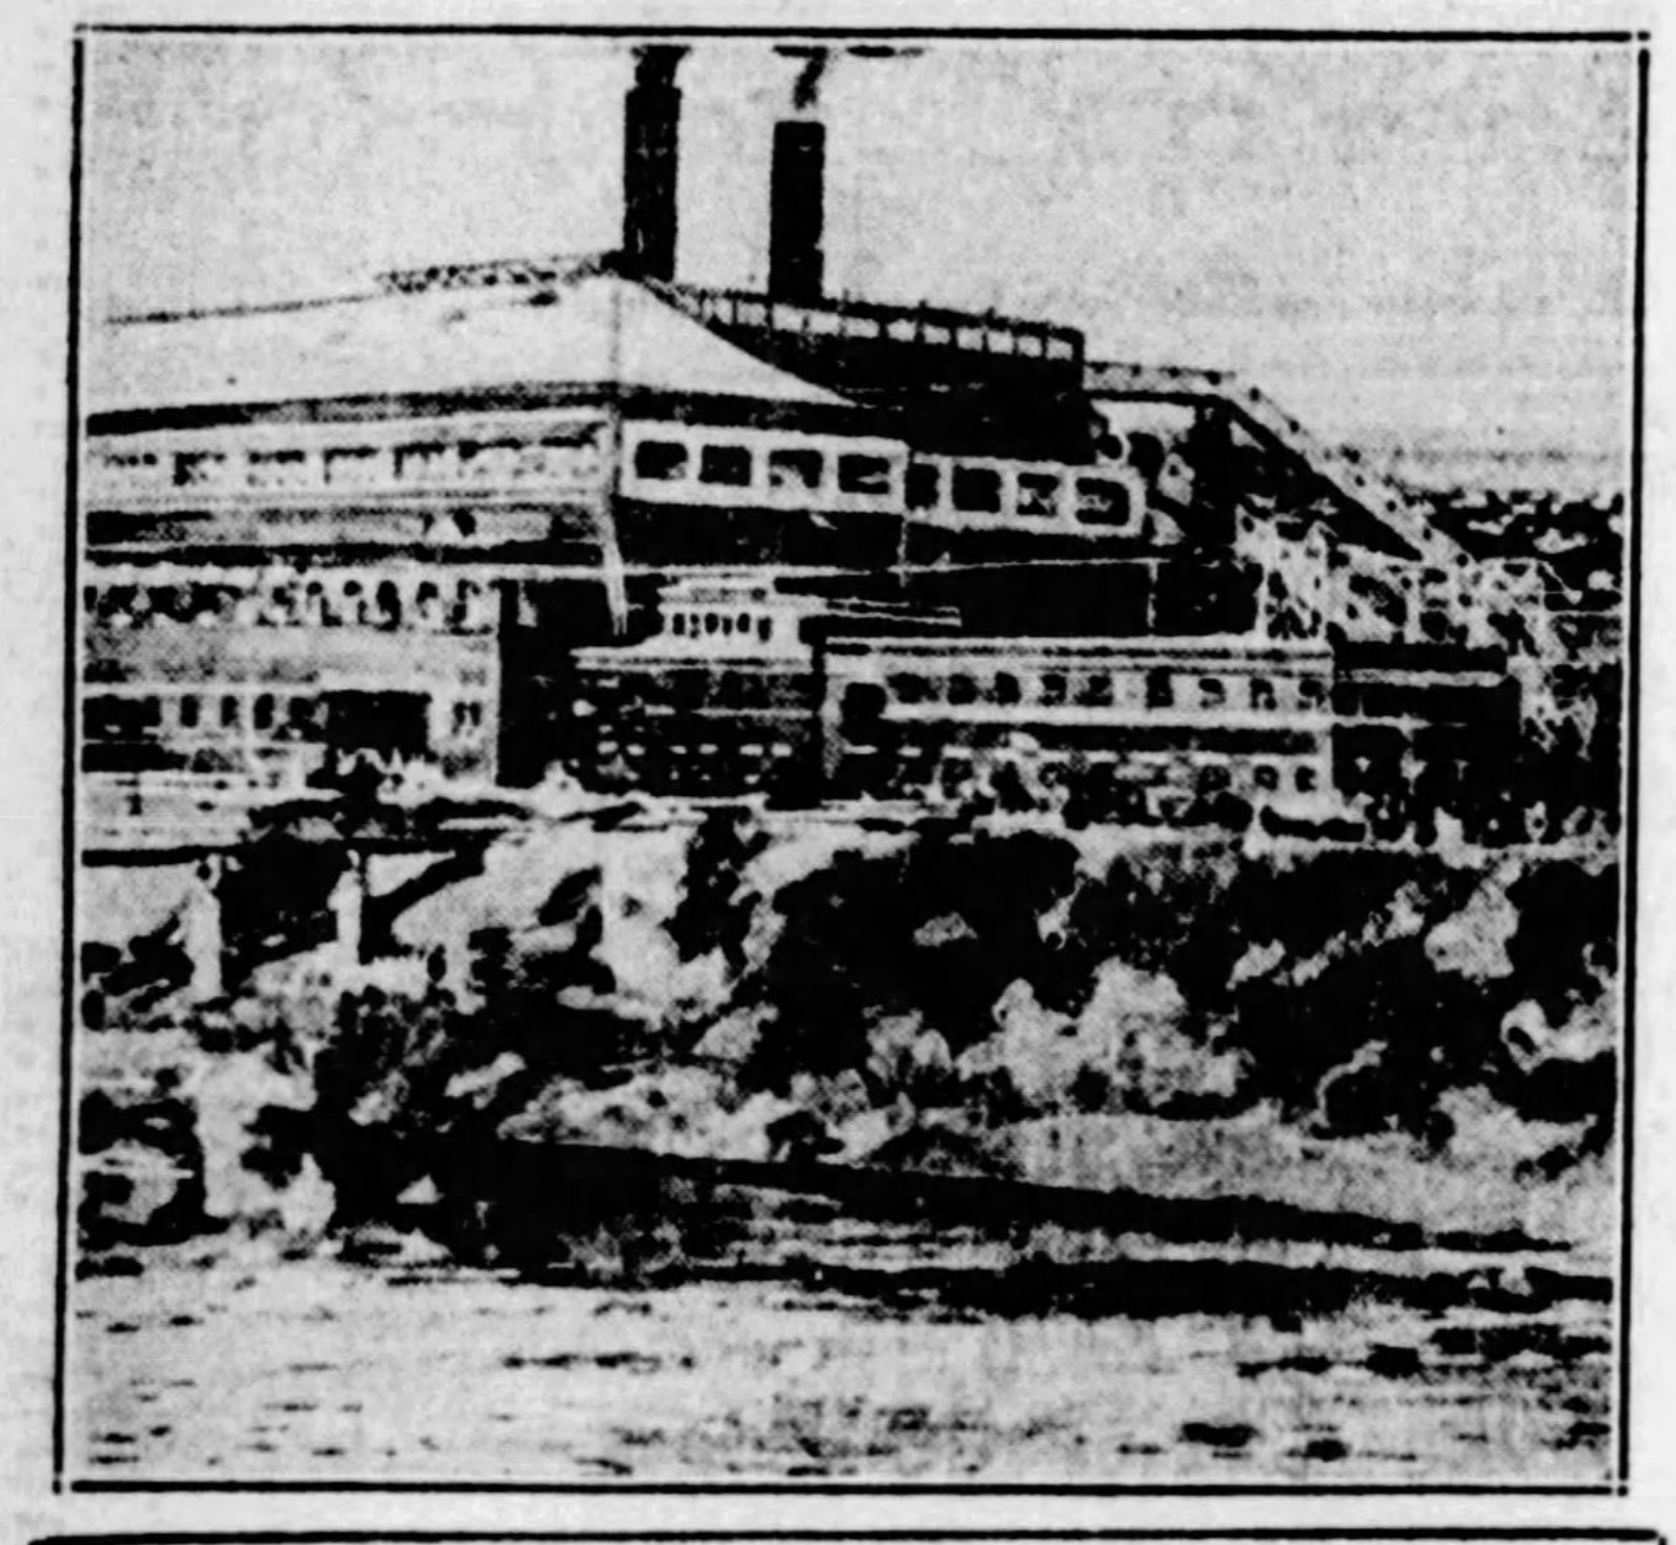
Civilizing the World

Some Would Give It Another Name.



A CHANGED BATTLEFIELD.

Here you see a great power plant on the Tugela River, where the British harness the water and produce power for South African railways.

Not quite 30 years ago on this spot was fought the important battle of the Colenso, between the British and the Boers. It is ALL British now, the Boers are absorbed and dominated in South Africa, as the Dutch were absorbed and dominated on New York's Island of Manhattan long ago.

What was once a romantic spot on an African river is now a great industrial town with enormous power production. The animals that once roamed here are frightened away, they do not like the sound of the whirring wheels. Thus what we call civilization—and what really IS civilization, in the rough form—spreads over the world.

The Boers were ignorant, foolish, bigotted. Old Kruger, President of the Boer republic, refused to meet a man who said he was "on his way around the world." Kruger said, that if he would read his Bible he would know that the earth is not round and therefore he COULD not be traveling around it.

Nobody could sit in the Boer Senate or vote at a Boer election unless he were a member of the Boer Church.

Now the British rule and you can vote and be elected if you don't belong to ANY church at all, which is the American plan, fortunately.

This spot in South Africa is not as romantic as it was in the old Boer days, when giraffes ambled along the banks of the Tugela, while the lion lay in wait, and the crouching black man crawled up, later, to take what the lion had left of his giraffe.

Romance and beauty are gone, but safety, wealth, regular occupation, freedom from disease have come, and all that is PROGRESS.

9—Development of river transportation.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Life and Biology

COMBATTING Sir Oliver Lodge's ideas about human spiritual immortality, Sir Arthur Keith says that it is in a material sense only that the biologist regards man as an immortal being and adds: "We survive, if we strive at all, only in the lives of our descendants." That is, mankind will survive as a race as long as the earth remains habitable, and no longer—but this covers millions of centuries in the future, so that it may be regarded as practically "an immortal lease."

Such a statement ties up human fate starkly with the fate of the earth and the solor system, and cuts it off from the universe at large, with which, nevertheless, man has relations through his intelligence that have given rise to the idea that he is cosmopolitan in his nature, and not merely a creature of terrestrial mortality. As astronomy has widened man's views of the physical universe, the conception of God has coincidently widened, and, consciously or unconsciously, religious belief has pictured the entire cosmos as the limitless home of the "sons of God." The perishable quality of suns and earths has been assumed to be a matter of relative indifference to the imperishable spirit or soul.

Regarding life as a "web on the loom of time," Sir Arthur Keith asserts that as far as biologists can perceive "the loom works automatically, the threads spin themselves;" but he immediately avers that "the human threads in that web differ from all other strands within it in one important respect; man alone can alter the spinning and the pattern," so that "according as he spins and designs is the web of the future."

By these picturesque words Sir Arthur seems to admit that man alone among living things possesses initiative and free will. But that is an enormous concession to make, as becomes evident when we read another of his statements to wit, that while the laws that prevail in living bodies are infinitely complex "they are not beyond the human powers of discovery."

But surely an automatism cannot "discover" itself; cannot consciously disentangle and explain intricate laws of its organization which, by their very difinition, are unconscious in nature and in action. Ah no, the biological materialists cannot dodge around the necessity of assuming that they themselves are something very different from such mechanically or chemically acting automatons when they dissect the nervous system and the brain of a fellow-being and peer into the wonderful cells of the body to watch their marvellous development. Sir Arthur would hardly wish to maintain that a single cell, having locked up in itself the amazing secrets of evolutional development, does or can examine and analyze and question and criticise itself. No more would he be likely to affirm that an aggregation of such cells making up, say, his own brain, exercise automatically the powers of critical observation and logical reasoning in the possession and use of which every man of science, as well as every other thinking being, rejoices and exults. There is something more than mere cells and their automatic activities concerned in the making of a thinking human being. Sir Arthur demands evidence; but his own evidence comes suddenly to a blind alley when it confronts the necessity of explaining automatism in the presence of the actual phenomena of human life.

Fashions

IT CANNOT be that in any real sense Paris evening gowns, this coming season, are going to try to revive the Floradora models of 1900.

It is unthinkable that the modern woman will again subject herself to the tight corsets, long skirts, "rats" and picture hats of the famous sextette which made its initial bow in New Haven in the Autumn of 1900.

We get a big laugh from these ancient costumes as revived and paraded on the stage today.

What would the 1900 theatergoers have done if they had been offered the 1928 ladies' costumes: Evening dress, afternoon frock, bathing suit and negligee?

Without any doubt they would have rushed en masse to the telephones and called the cops.

And yet, in essential matters, the country's standard of personal conduct and personal morality is as high as it was then. Clothes and conventions come and go. Human nature remains pretty much the same.

Don't Depend on Others

WHY are you always seeking a go-between?

Do you think another is so much better fitted to plead your cause?

Is it modesty or lack of aggressiveness that makes you hold back when you should go forward?

Why let another do a job that you might do better?

Spring into the harness once in a while and show what you can do.

You are not a nonentity, but you are acting like one.

You can't expect your friends to push you all the time.

You like to be coaxed, and so you waste a lot of time that you might be accomplishing the very things you really want to do.

But it flatters your vanity to be coaxed.

In fact, it is a sort of vanity that prompts you to seek a go-between in your transactions, social and otherwise.

You think the go-between might say more flattering things of you than you would or could say with truth.

In fact, you hope so, anyway, and so you depend on others to plead your cause instead of taking matters in your own hands and getting to the point quickly. Direct contact is more convincing than any go-between.

The Movies

THE "picture palace" is a cool retreat,
And from the vantage of a roomy seat
The watcher, as he sees the film unroll,
Reviews all phases of life's changeful scroll.
As joy and pain, as hate and love go by,
He pays brief tribute with a smile, a sigh.
How strange! with that pink ticket he has bought
His freedom from a weary round of thought;
How small the price that buys an hour's peace
And from old cares commands a short release!

Isn't It So?

Great Passages from the Bible

The Trial of Abraham's Faith

(Genesis 22; 1-18)

AND it came to pass after these things, that God did tempt Abraham, and said unto him, Abraham: and he said, Behold, here I am.

And he said, Take now thy son, thine only son Isaac, whom thou lovest, and get into the land of Moriah; and offer him there for a burnt offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son, and clave the wood for the burnt offering, and rose up, and went unto the place of which God had told him.

Then on the third day Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place afar off.

And Abraham said unto his young men, Abide ye here with the ass; and I and the lad will go yonder and worship, and come again to you.

And Abraham took the wood of the burnt offering, and laid it upon Isaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife; and they went both of them together.

And Isaac spake unto Abraham his father, and said, My father: and he said, Here am I, my son. And he said, Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt offering?

And Abraham said, My son, God will provide himself a lamb for a burnt offering: so they went both of them together.

And they came to the place which God had told him of; and Abraham built an altar there, and laid the wood in order, and bound Isaac his son, and laid him on the altar upon the wood.

And Abraham stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to slay his son.

And the angel of the Lord called unto him out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham: and he said, Here am I.

And he said, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou fearest God seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from me.

And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold behind him a ram caught in a thicket by his horns: and Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt offering in the stead of his son.

And Abraham called the name of that place Jehovah-jireh: as it is said to this day, In the mount of the Lord it shall be seen.

And the angel of the Lord called unto Abraham out of heaven the second time,

And said, By myself have I sworn, saith the Lord, for because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only son:

That in blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seed as the stars of the heaven, and as the sand which is upon the sea shore; and thy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies;

And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; because thou hast obeyed my voice.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S not much use beating a kid for telling the truth, I reckon, but sometimes parents get so embarrassed by all the truth a kid can tell before strangers that they feel like forbidding the little wretch to ever tell the truth again. There was a kid by the name of Johnny that was visiting a kid by the name of Tom. It started to rain like everything about the time Johnny was supposed to go home, so Tom's mother offered Johnny an umbrella.

"No, thanks," said Johnny, "I won't get very wet, and I don't want to put you to all that trouble."

"It's no trouble at all, Johnny. I'm sure your mother would give Tom an umbrella to come home with if he was at your house in a rain."

"I don't think she would, at that, Mrs. Jones. She'd just ask Tom to stay to supper and maybe keep him all night if it kept on raining, but she don't count much on umbrellas to keep a fella dry."

The End of War

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Perhaps the end of war is nearer than we suppose.

Certain sophisticated people are accustomed to remark in a superior way that you cannot change human nature and that there will always be wars so long as mankind exists.

However, the hope of the intelligent pacifists is not so much in the schemes of Mr. Wilson or Mr. Kellogg as it is in the change of public opinion.

Reason and logic and even sentiment are sometimes impotent to make people stop acting like fools, yet they do stop sometimes for another reason, the greatest reason in the world. They get tired.

Nobody ever authoritatively settled the question as to whether the Trinitarians or the Unitarians were correct, nor whether the Guelphs or Ghibellines were right; folks just got tired of the argument and went home. You can't stay heated about a question when no one will listen to you.

It's pretty hard to argue nowadays about the menace of Roman Catholicism or the greenback theory. It doesn't seem to interest anybody.

One result of the last war is slowly becoming apparent. People are fed up on war.

Time was when the army offered the greatest career open to young men. Almost all superior youth expected to be soldiers some day.

War with its banners and trumpet was the most exciting adventure known.

A change seems to have come over the world. Not only the American Secretary of State and the gentleman in charge of the League of Nations are being seriously listened to in official quarters, but the people themselves are losing interest in militarism.

In the recent celebration of Bastille Day in Paris—and Bastille Day is France's Fourth of July—all the gay uniforms of France's past were conspicuously absent. There was no review of troops at Longchamps calculated to impress the beholder with France's military might. There was no feverish show of preparedness. It was only an official function. It was not a display.

The New York Times correspondent says that Chauvinism is as dead as a dodo in France. People cheered the soldiers just as they cheered the firemen and police.

This correspondent says that neither America nor France feels her liberty any longer in question and the Fourth of July here and the fourteenth there are only excuses for a public holiday.

When people get bored with war it will go.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

INFERIORITY complexes are so very easily detected.

A girl, with no apparent reason to feel inferior, was caught in a downpour of rain at Fifty-ninth street and Sixth avenue in New York. She stepped hurriedly into a doorway to protect her good clothes.

She felt a presence behind her and turned to see one of these superior male persons who "wait" or clerk at this place staring at her. She shriveled. Rather than endure that haughty stare, she left the doorway and started out in the rain.

It's probably about the only fun these really inferior male people have and it's too bad they find so much material to work on.

Two women greeted each other in front of Marshall Field's in Chicago.

"How you have changed," said the first.

"I've been through a real hell since I last saw you," said the second.

"You look," said the first woman, tactfully, "as if you hadn't got all the way through yet."

Silence.

Man and wife looking into the big windows of a pet store at the monkeys.

"How human they look," said the wife.

"Well, that's where we started," said the husband, in a bored tone.

"I think," the wife said with what might be termed a "dirty" look, "that it's where some of us are going."

The girls past 20, the women of 35 too, are wearing checked gingham dresses, full skirts with little girl sashes tied in back. Organdy collars make them look even more juvenile. Of course, fat women simply can't do it, but I saw seven of them on the street in New York yesterday. All on tall slim women of varying ages.

The idea that women are changing, seems to worry the woofers. If you think they are changing, read this sixteenth century epitaph:

"Here lies a woman, no man can deny it,
Who rests in peace, although she lived unquiet,
Her husband prays you, if by her grave you walk,
You gently tread for if she wake, she'll talk."

Thomas Gallagher, 100 years old, says the modern girls are a delight to look at, and that "there is as much difference between the old-fashioned girl and the modern ones as between chalk and cheese."

If he were up on modern slang Mr. Gallagher would know that he can't give the up-to-date girl a thrill telling her she is a cheese.
